Who you are is irrelevant. You are no one. No one person here is any better than the next (lids excluded). By "agreeing" with one you profess to "hate", you do nothing but fail at attempting to soothe your destroyed ego.
No one cares that you have not the inner strength to learn how to manage your emotions. No one gives a damn that you are reduced to posting via google cause Gigaews was taken for you not obeying their rules.
Frothing about in response to mere words you read is not a very tactful appraoch in conveying your message, but then again, you demonstrate a great deficit in the art of communication.

  Agreeing with Geogre that you are somehow part of the "state" in his fascist little approach to the ng lends him no sliver of credibility...Perhaps you are under the mistaken belief that democracy reigns here, telegraphing your lack of intellect even further.
This isn't a popularity contest, you wannabe-net nanny..if you can't handle what comes out from under the rock, leave it alone next time. Of course, you can always learn self-control so you have a second option in the future to ignore that of which exploits your weaknesses..

LOL..Poor Geogre,,,you try so hard to focus and make me your number one topic......I mean,,tsk tsk,,really,,odd that you are now revering my first post,,,,,I ought thank you, as it illustrates my preference for legal radio on Sunday nights and it also magnificently shows the pricks like yourself that come off in the ng that think they are someone..LOL...hint: You're NOT, you're impotent, you're a lid who severely damages the cause of hammie radio, your behavior is tantamount to all that Riley Hollingsworth claims is wrong with hammie radio, and you are the epitome of one who has a limited attention span, but that is par for the course for mildy retarded adults such as yourself. Hey Geogre,,did you not realize that jamming a legal cb service is against the law? Of course you didn't,,it's part of the mild retardation that is responsible for your communication deficit. Threatening to jam people using a legal service is just what we have all come to expect from you, after all,,you're a problematic hammie that is responsible for mucking up the hammie radio service and maintaining the piss-poor image that hammie radio currently has..see,,it's people like you that have a liçense that fell they are above the law that threaten (as you do on a regular basis) that of which they can onot comprehend. Perhaps if you found yourself an elmer, you wouldn't be such an ass on this group and would be able to striaghten up your own piss poor hammie behavior instead of worrying about internet strangers you fall in love with....do you need this repeated, Geogre WA3MOJ? I know most posts are not understood by you, but as I said, it's not all your fault,,mild retardation can be treated, but first you have to understand why it is so wrong for you to act like a terrorist in the ng and try to silence anyone you can't handle....LOL! Definition of the SuperBowl
If 10,000 CB'er's are on the SuperBowl
then only 1000 can be heard some of the times & only 100 can be heard most of the times
& only 10 can be heard all the time
This is a great example why the bowl is not for the weak!

Geogre Busch, ego effectvely destroyed and in languishing desperation, made a last ditch pathetically failed plea at appointing himself room moderator with the redundant and amusing referral of himself in the third person with:
Where did Geogre try to censor you?
Isn't that like writing to an ISP about what you don't like?

LOL.. Geogre-lid,..censorship is what you beg for with:

>The time has come to eject this flame-magnet >from our midst. Write his ISP now at:
>abuse@webtv.net

Now,,,,,,,,now that we have ascertained what a fascist little would-be dictator you long to be, and now that we have ascertained that you long to wield a certain amount of power and that your failure in such endeavors has resulted in your impotency on display for all the world to enjoy, we come to understand why you are such an angry little man. You can not realistically expect to begin a fascist movement here in rec.radio.cb. You may try Iraq, or somewhere else where the freedom of speech and bill of rights and first amendments do not apply, but you shall have no luck among us here. That you feel some cretin fascist support may be found among us freedom loving freebanders and dxers, illustrates what I have maintained all along concerning your intellect. You have exhibited just about every trait one can think of that makes you a lid. You lie. You're not kind to anyone here, period. You lie. You curse. You lie. You call names. You lie. You use sexual insults and connotations. You lie. You shared your penchant for jamming a legal radio service. You lie. You're insecure. You lie. You hate yourself. And you lie.

So if you very well wish to continue your little self-declared war in rec.radio.cb, I suggest you check your ISP rules.....seems to me, you're in violation of a certain one.....maybe more. Get over yourself, lern some tolerance, and for your own limited sanity, for crying out loud, man, exhibit some self-control so you need not come across incontinent in all you say and do. Lid.

i was actually on the web... looking around for a Siltronx LA-600 diagram and bumped into a history site which mentions Maycom stuff. Up until that time, I'd not heard of them.

Try a Google Search Rick, you might end up finding people who know the radio.

Interesting choice of words,,you either consider yourself victimized or more insanely, attempt to speak for the bulk of cbers, ,,,,,just what I always maintained of you..one can only be victimized by words if they so choose..always blaming another for your problems.....illustrating your loss of Giganews and sharing your feeling of contempt for Geogre, coupled with your poor victimized act, gains you no sympathy. Cry me a river,,I'll play you the world's tiniest violin..maybe you can begin to obey your TOS and not concern yourself with anothers posts which you lend incredible mystical and magical powers to. Worrying about anothers behavior when you can't even obey your own ISP makes you a hypocrite...are you on that same DSL line today? Router number same? Why bypass your ISP's posting service? It's free,,,yet you choose to post through google...hmmm..according to your buddy Geogre,,you have something to hide...here's a tip: No one cares...here's another....MYOB,,,,,it will keep the light off of your inability to demonstrate self-control and that of which you choose to read and respond. Like Geogre, grow up and learn to get some gumption and ignore that of which upsets you. Since it bothers you greatly to read my posts, here's a no-brainer..ignore me. Now get over yourself and move on, and stop trying to be such a fascist swine.

Many people have been in CB radio for years. It is a hobby that has brought them many hours of enjoyment, and made them many new friends.

Many of these old time CBers are becoming increasingly disturbed by the "new wave" CBer that has absolutely no respect for ANY rules, or even the simple actions of common courtesy.

The "me first, up yours" attitude that has taken over society at large as well as the radio. The old timers are seeing their hobby being destroyed from the inside out, and in many cases are trying to fight back.

You said it yourself, with the reference to new Really.... I have a Courier sitting on the shelf in my closet. It's missing one of the oscillator crystals, and I was debating whether I should restore it, cannibalize it, or sell it. Looks like I might sell it, if these prices hold true......

Heck, if one can inflate something's worth, simply by slapping the name
"classic" to it, then I have a mint's worth in old radio stuff.....

That's correct--Lid Wa3moj,,,,poor Davie-son was crying about society way back when,,,,I merely interjected with the truth.
Declaring wars on truths you can't handle is tantamount to your mild retardation and communication deficits.
Telling one to turn off their radio when they can not handle constitutes a war in your eyes? Figures,,you're all about anger and violence..gee,,,you should have stayed with the threa and shared how Davie-son came apart at the seams and began acting like a child withhis personal bullshit...LOL!....back to google, lid-wa3moj, back to google with your lid self WA3MOJ......keep serching, some day you may find waht you're looking for, but that mild retardation will more than likel prevent you...LOL!

Ironic that the mildly retarded WA3moj is using a name that counters and is the opposite of his attempted slaughter, seige, and self-declared imaginary war on the constitution, Bill of Rights, and First Amendment..LOL! Doesn't matter what name or lie you tell, lid-wa3moj,,,,,your actions have shown you have no self-control, no tolerance, no respect for the rights afforded us by our birthrights. You are unkind, a liar, a hypocrite, a troublemaker, a liar, unkempt, uncouth, no credibility, and you are a racist slob. You also hate yourself, illustrated by behavior you project onto others, but you are the only one incapable of seeing yourself for what you are.
You suffer from severe learning disabilities and more pertinent, you are damaging all that hammie radio operators work for. Methinks you were black balled and rejected by hammies and you were reduced to running around in limbo by yourself as most hammies know what you're about and refuse to play with you, ...it's why I have you leashed and running around the floor, always barking and pissing on yourself to make those who do watch your self-debilitating show, laugh. Wa3moj,,,what a lid.

I dig the name..if I were to name you, I would have given you something similar..it illustrates perfectly your hypocritical lid ways. You should be ashamed of yourself,,the trops fighting for what you desperately fail at getting rid of in rec.radio.cb. Because a mildly retarded adult such as yourself was never taught how to make intelligent choices and ignore that of which you can not comprehend, you wish to do away with the speech that offends you. You wish to impose fascism upon this freedom loving group. You laughingy and pitifully misthought that maybe if you presented your mild retardation in disguise, as if the "group" had anything in common with yourself, you may receive some fascist support in your failed attempts at censorship..LOL! The real fact of the matter is, you're ire has surpassed the boiling poit to which yuo can handle.
You have been asked several times by those who have no interest in your self-declared hatred of freedoms in the group to grow up and get a life instead of holding church each day, all day, and paying deference to myself. I received an email also, Geogre,,it has 73 offtopic posts by you in the last days, and 22 unbiased individuals asking you to please getover yourself. When you come to comprehend the concept of self-control and once you have learned it, try to implement it Watching you display your incompetence each and every day doesn't bother me in the least..it kind of makes it even more pleasurable since your intellect refuses to allow your mind to comprehend what is taking place around you.

Hey, yankee scum Brian,,,,,and whoever else is part of your game that receives their jollies only when messing with others:
The South has indeed risen, long ago. The rise started thirty years ago.

Fact number one:.
1. ALL industrial and job growths in the confederate states have been above the national average for almost thirty years.

Fact number two:
2. You damn yankees are moving south in record numbers.

Fact number three:
3. While the rest of the country is in a severe economical crunch, the south, so far, fortunately, has not suffered the same.

Fact number four:
4. Number one is cool..we can all do without number two <g>.

Fact number five:
5. I have been to Chi-town. No wonder you're always having anger problems and lashing out at others. What a stinkin' shithole.

Cheese, they actually were decent radios in their day, but there's no way

Who you are is irrelevant. You are no one.

>oxymoron,again you dont make sense

Hint: Educate yourself,,,you know not what an oxymoron is. It helps when you know the context in which to place your chosen terms.
Again, who you are is irrelevant,,,as you are no one of importance, and it apparently pains you.

 No one person here is any better than the next (lids excluded) another oxymoron.

>what the hell is a lid?

If you weren't suffering from such communication deficits, you would have comprehended it long ago, as the definition has been illustrated.

>i thought it was a bag of weed

You're dating yourself.

By "agreeing" with one you profess to "hate", you do nothing but fail at attempting to soothe your destroyed ego.

>destroyed ego?what in the earth are you >talking about

Umm,,yes,,destroyed ego,,,why else could you explain your rapid descent into lid-dom and sudden interest in my responses to someone you profess to HATE?

No one cares that you have not the inner strength to learn how to manage your emotions. _
>my emotions are are ok,hows yours

Fantastic....this group allows me to tune in each and every day and take solace in the fact that whatever minute dilemma I may ever be presented with, nothing compares to the problems the minority of lids present display. Compared to those who claim society is rapidly declining as evidenced by cb, and those who feel they somehow will gain support for fascist control and for censorship, desperately seeking to end their reign of impotence,,,,,well, oshkoshbygosh....I'm a carefree, happy-go-lucky type guy.

No one gives a damn that you are reduced to posting via google cause Gigaews was taken for you not obeying their rules.

>how can i have some thing taken to which i >never had.what the hell is giganews

You're trying to hard.
But what the hell, I'll indulge,,giganews is that usenet access posting service that some have utilized in some of your own threads. Giganews is also the manner in which you were accessing the group before being reduced to circumventing PACbell's posting ability for google.

Frothing about in response to mere words you read is not a very tactful appraoch in conveying your message, but then again, you demonstrate a great deficit in the art of communication.

>and you dont?

Of course, I don't. I need not insult one, hurl a name, or go off topic and get personal in a debate. That I choose to lower myself to the level of some cretins who initiate such tactics and return such to whence it originated, constitutes my willingness to get down in the mud if needed. Take yourself for example, you profess to hate Geogre, but had not the self-control to direct your emotions to he, but to I, as if I somehow was responsible for Geogre,,,well, I guess I am, as he has no self-control wahtsoever and admits my words control him like a robot...but you also injected yourself into another conversation that didn't concern you,,,,,asking me to stop "bashing Hall"....giving the false impression that I began this little exchange with he,,,,,,nothing could be further from the truht..if you really need to see the exchanges where the Hypocrite Hall came apart at the seams for me askng him to cite a source for one of his claims way back when, I would be only more than too exhuberant to accomodate...you see, his behavior is much like N8's was when he had his clock cleaned..attack the messenger, indicative of one who suffers a great deficit in communication......Hall began calling me names, as does Geogre to everyone he exchanges with, as soon as I expressed doubt with his claims. He then began making his topics about ME, instead of his claims, much as lid-WA3moj is doing now.....so, until you have a clue, I suggest you place a hold on your incorrect inferences and claims,,but then again, it's a free country, despite what you and Geogre attempt in here, so go right ahead and spew your dribble,,and I'l be right here to point out your meritless bullshit. Kapish?

>what the hell are you trying to say twisty?

Deficits everywhere,,,only among the angry few.....my my my ...LMAO!

    Agreeing with Geogre that you are somehow part of the "state" in his fascist little approach to the ng lends him no sliver of credibility...Perhaps you are under the mistaken belief that democracy reigns here, >oxymoron,if there is no democracy then it >might be a facist state

(Giggle)
Try again. This group is not a democracy, despite your ignorant claim to the contrary, and neither is the country in which you reside. This group does not cater to one "state", or one entitiy, it caters to the non-commercial individual.
And no grasshoppah, there exist a myriad of other political factions other than democracy or fascism. That you are limited to knowledge of the two solidifies that deficit I knew you suffered from.
See, you really should have minded your own business as suggested, and you could have avoided portraying such ignorance.

telegraphing your lack of intellect even further.
This isn't a popularity contest, you wannabe-net nanny..if you can't handle what comes out from under the rock, leave it alone next time.

>your a mole?gopher?ant?snake?

Of course, you can always learn self-control so you have a second option in the future to ignore that of which exploits your weaknesses..
heres an expert opinion on self control

Have you learned how to exercise such an option yet? Have you learned what self-control is, yet?

Not true, just not true at all. Many, many factions of radio are present. Because many do not post you ignorantly conclude they do not exist. Your posts are becoming as accurate as the anti-cb faction that Geogre displays each and every day for my benefit.
Beautiful.

Ironic that the mildly retarded WA3moj is using a name that counters and is the opposite of his attempted slaughter, seige, and self-declared imaginary war on the constitution, Bill of Rights, and First Amendment..LOL! Doesn't matter what name or lie you tell, lid-wa3moj,,,,,your actions have shown you have no self-control, no tolerance, no respect for the rights afforded us by our birthrights. You are unkind, a liar, a hypocrite, a troublemaker, a liar, unkempt, uncouth, no credibility, and you are a racist slob. You also hate yourself, illustrated by behavior you project onto others, but you are the only one incapable of seeing yourself for what you are.
You suffer from severe learning disabilities and more pertinent, you are damaging all that hammie radio operators work for. Methinks you were black balled and rejected by hammies and you were reduced to running around in limbo by yourself as most hammies know what you're about and refuse to play with you, ...it's why I have you leashed and running around the floor, always barking and pissing on yourself to make those who do watch your self-debilitating show, laugh. Wa3moj,,,what a lid.

Some people just like mint collectable radios in their collection.
Wish I had many of them, no matter what sleezecutter's opinion is.

Nuthin' to change, here. It's the damn yankees raising cane about changing the state symbols and flags..some want to CENSOR history because they feel it "offensive"..they want coddled and think it's all about them. Georgia and South Carolina come to mind immediately. Who cried the loudest about Strom Thurmond

Gee, seems I struck a nerve.
All the bullshit aside, after reading your postings on the newsgroups over some time I find you are a small minded loud mouth punk. The only way you can make yourself into a big shot is to ridicule and pick on others on the group.
I bet you were picked on and beat up a lot when you were in school (today?)
I bet in person you are a nice guy but here on this forum you can now get back at people without repercussions to yourself. You really need to get a life, and a girl.

With all the bullshit going down around the world is it really necessary to always have nasty comments to others?
And as I said before, GROW UP!!!!!!
This is the last comments I will make to you on any topic.
Try to be good on occasion and take care.

Hey, yankee scum Brian,,,,,and whoever else is part of your game that indeed risen, long ago. The rise started thirty years ago.

Fact number one:.

Fact number two:
2. You damn yankees are moving south in record numbers.
Fact number three:

south, so far, fortunately, has not suffered the same.
Fact number four:

Nice touch, Geogre. Were you born angry, did you work at it your whole life, or has it slowly escalated as you were made to realize you were impotent and a failure at all you do here? In case no one made you aware, your anger sure has increased steadily over the last few weeks......is something bothering, you Geogre, or have you fallen victim to clinical depression induced by the winter weather that so many yankees suffer from that goes undiagnosed each year?

Dave's got a box of lamp timers, the kind that plug into the wall with the large knob and movable stops.

I have a Monacor FSI-5 SWR meter and I want to use it with my CB. The problem is that I don't have the manual and since I am new to this I don't know how to use it.

The instrument is the type that has 2 meters and a knob only.
There are no buttons for calibration, FWD, REF etc.
Can anyone tell me how to calibrate and use it?

thanks,
Andreas

Yea, somebody might, although I can't understand why. While I agree that there are a few older CB radios, which have attained a sort of "collector's status", and seem to sell for what they sold new for (Tram D201's, Browning Eagles etc.). However, I don't buy into the idea than any old radio is automatically a classic. Some old radios, are just "old radios".

I mean, what would a 1969 Chevy Camaro be worth? $2000, $4000? But what about a 1970 Ford Maverick? It's a "old classic" too, right?

This has to do with the fact that labor rates in the south are generally lower, and typically non-union, making it attractive to cost conscious manufacturers. The next step is to move off-shore.

> Fact number two:
> 2. You damn yankees are moving south in record numbers.

Hey, some of us like the weather. But most of us can't take the cut in pay either, until we retire. Then the lower cost of living in the south, helps to stretch that fixed income.

People still need cotton. And Mickey Mouse is still hiring. But tobacco demand will be falling off as more and more towns adopt anti-smoking attitudes.

My advice to you is to ignore him. All other attempts to reason with a sociopath will fail. He craves attention. Notice, since I have been ignoring him, and his childish snipes at me, how he completely shifted his focus of obsession from me to you? He just wants someone to argue with. Pay him no mind, and he really has little else to contribute. He is technically inept, so the only other thing he has any "expertise" on, is "waving hands from the 'pile". When the DX finally dies in the coming year, he'll be left with nothing to relate to.

Nothing would bother him more, than for this group to stop politicizing, and to get back to technical discussions, where he then becomes irrelevant.

He wants the fights to continue, as it's his only opportunity to contribute, and somehow feel important.

Notice how he's now trying to feed a heritage fued between the north and south? He lives for strife. Don't give it to him.

Not familiar with that brand, but most of that type have auto calibration.
You should read output on one meter, and SWR on the other. Only an assumption without looking at it.

I have just bought a Midland 48 Excel

My problem is the operating voltage is 13.2v BUT the Euro CB power source (EPS-35) operates at 13.8v

Do I need worry over 0.6v, will this cause damage to my new rig over the long term or is it ok ???

THANKS

Andreas,

Most SWR and Power Meters setup along similar methods.

Preset the switch in Fwd (forward), turn the knob up 1/4 turn from full counter clockwise off, works just like a volume control (direction wise).

You transmit a carrier through the meter into a hopefully good antenna.

The meter rises, you read and set the indication toward full scale using the knob. Often there is a "Set" or "Cal" label on the meter scale (near the full scale reading).

Flip the switch to Rev (Reverse) and read the reflected power, most often in relative SWR (Standing Wave Ratio).

The higher the rev reading means a mismatch from your radio's 50 ohm antenna jack output impedance to the antenna. Most often people adjust the antenna to match the radio... min rev meter reading.

Anything below a 2:1 ratio is considered usable by many. A reading below 1.5 : 1 ratio is an informal target value. Reflected power often turns up as heat or is lost/wasted.

If I were you, I wouldn't worry about it at all. Most car alternators put out a little over 14 volts anyway, so any in-car equipment (like your 48 Excel) needs to be able to cope with more than 13.8 volts anyway.

But, of course, I'm not you! If my assurance leaves you worried, put a diode in the V+ line from the PSU. This will drop 0.6 to 0.7 volts.

True of Florida, but I don't think that's universally true of all the south.

I'm not so sure that can be traced to where you live. I think it has more to do with how active you are.

Heck, I once toyed with the idea, of buying 10 jetskis, and moving to the Bahamas. With no income tax, and at the typical $30/ half hour rental rate, it doesn't take much arithmatic to see the potential.

Fact number one:.
1. ALL industrial and job growths in the confederate states have been above the national average for almost thirty years.

(This has to do with the fact that labor rates in the south are generally lower, and typically non-union, making it attractive to cost conscious manufacturers. The next step is to move off-shore. _)

Gee, you'd think that after thirty years the north would get a clue,,after all,,the reasons aren't particularly important to our collective apathetic citizens. When the economy is booming, no one really cares why,,they're just content that it isn't sour. No doubt about it, the more yankes that come the morewe are seeing unions attempting to be formed, but they usually get shot down.....You also left out a few other pertinent facts...we have no state tax, True of Florida, but I don't think that's universally true of all the south.
,we live longer..we are healthier,

(I'm not so sure that can be traced to where you live. I think it has more to do with how >active you are.)

Which is directly correlated to the weather,,the majority of winter dwelling citizens are more inactive during the winter months than they are during summer months.......hence the winter depressions that set in......we can do anything we want, year round outdoors..while many northerners are freezing their tails off, we are playing in the surf.

,,,,our air quality is much better,

(Compared to where? LA? Sure. NYC? Again, I'd agree. But how about Bangor Maine? or the hills in Montana?)

Compared to most other areas that are as poulated as we are.

we have no-fault automobile insurance,

(So do we, and it sucks. Once they made it mandatory, we became captive customers, and the rates started to skyrocket.)

Not here,,it's great.....I thought the Commonwealth had a hand in things like this.......check it out,,,it's illegal for an insurance company to raise their rates in Fla based on claims,,,thats whyso many yankee companies pulled out of Fla after the last Hurricane..they were picking and choosing who to insure and they were told they have to take them all (that applied) or none......much better since the crooked ones have left town.

our kids get free college as long as they maintain a 3.00 or better,

(That's interesting. I was unaware of that.)

Do a search,,,it called the Bright Futures Scholarship..automatic tuition paid and granted acceptance to any in-state university,,,but the Bush boys have already elevated the standards..word is, he's gonna gut it completely...they need to keep the future generations dumbed down for the Bush girls and Jeb's oldest son.

,we can actually drink ground water from any of the thousands and thousands of springs across the state.

(You ever have Pocono Spring water? There's nothing finer IMHO.)

Yup,,,,,even spent some time years and years ago up in those mountains for a New Years Eve concert by some old rockin' friends at a ski resort.......

outside the big cities is just about non-existent in the smal knit communites.

(That's true here as well.)

Yea,,,hey,,I KNOW there some super fine places in the north,,absolutely gorgeous in the Allegheny Forest,,,Warren Forest, love camping in that state..spent time in Punxatawney, been to Kinzua Dam, Amish country of course, and a a few other places.

and we don't live in a hurry,
therefore making the word "stress" practically non-existent.

(That was one of the things about the south, that appealed the most to me.)

Not much has changed.

  A man's word is his honor and many business deals are still reached over a handshake and fishing.

Shoot, see, we have something in common..the only thing more boring than playing golf is watching it...ever played Frisbee Golf? It's pretty cool and even a sanctioned sport,,even have a few courses near you (Philly).

...the yankee ladies love us cause our southern twang crossed with our southern manners of holding and opening doors for ALL women and the fact that we say "yes ma'am" and "no ma'am" all the time makes us absolutely irresistible.

(I guess it depends on the woman. I've known many who get insulted if you try any of that on them. That's what "liberation" gets you.)

Yea,,I know the type,,then they flex their anchor tattoo.

...something to think about next time one the yanks send their better half down south with a girlfriend,,when they come back on cloud nine, you can take solace in the fact that you REALLY know why they are so happy, as your good buddy in the "pile clued you in.

(The same thing can be said for Jamaica or the Bahamas.)

Yea,,but have you ever actually been there? I've been to Negril and Freeport,,,,Jamaica, I can see,,the Bahamas are like Miami now,,,dirty and corrupt...but, I must say that the Keys have them both beat..the women come on down there and would much rather boogie to Jimmy Buffet than some rap garbage the Bahamas, and even Jamaica is now playing....plus, that southern twang usually wins over the British accent each time.

Fact number two:
2. You damn yankees are moving south in record numbers.

No doubt about it, and no problem with that...but I get to chuckling when I see places open with names such as "Big Apple Restaurant" ,,or,, "Chicago Skyline Chili and Hot Dogs", or my personal favorite "Original Philly Cheesesteaks."

(Hey, If Hispanics can turn parts of the south into little Havana, then a few yankees can bring a few pieces of home with them as well.....)

Oh, I don't mind,,,I just watch them struggle, mortgage their homes they bought after selling their homes up north, and slowly go under.
Difference is, the Hispanics have an entire culture to sell to, almost like nepotism,,they will patronize only Hispanic businesses, even if they must go out of their way,,same with the Greeks,,,but Philly people cohesing and pullling together to patronize only Philly restaurants or businesses? Never, ever happen....

After these yankees lose their asses and retirement nuts in such poorly planned and researched endeavors, the retirees are forced to go back to work,,the fast food restaurants are loaded with the working elderly, and I doubt you will find a bag boy in any of the Publix supermarkets under the age of retirement. But don't get me wrong,,it's all good,,,I have no problem taking a yankees weeks wages for a Ballyhoo or Tarpon filled morning or afternoon...shux Dave, now that I think about, you're a quarter of the way there with your boat, _ (My boat does not lend itself well to fishing. Although I might be one of the first ones out to the shelf.....)

and you stay tan year 'round.

(Recent health studies have concluded that that may not be a good thing.)

Agreed,,,,but when you're skin has been leathered like a gator for years and years, I guess the only thing left to do is wait for the dermatologist to clear his throat before speaking.....

now that I think about it, a yankee just started an "island hopper" with an airboat service,,plenty of boat shuttles and dolphin cruises and sightseeing tours,,but this boy found a niche and ran with it,,he no longer is considered a yankee..says he 'shoulda done this thutty years ago".

(Heck, I once toyed with the idea, of buying 10 jetskis, and moving to the Bahamas. With no income tax, and at the typical $30/ half hour rental rate, it doesn't take much arithmatic to see the potential.)

Thats what they charge here,,but many were shut down in a sting two months ago,,,,none of them were carrying the super expensive liability insurance.....

Fact number three:
3. While the rest of the country is in a severe economical crunch, the south, so far, fortunately, has not suffered the same.

(People still need cotton. And Mickey Mouse is >still hiring. But tobacco demand will be falling >off as more and more towns adopt anti-smoking attitudes.)

Sugar, Dave,..sugar is the king here,,,followed by fruit...,tobacco doesn't even make a dent here......

(Remember, we're talking about "the south", not just Florida.)

South Carolina mostly.......

Fact number four:
4. Number one is cool..we can all do without number two <g>.
--
Fact number five:
5. I have been to Chi-town. No wonder you're always having anger problems and lashing out at others. What a stinkin' shithole.

Gas is mighty expensive too....
Dave
"Sandbagger"

1.54 this morning at Citgo..the marina is still attempting to charge Philistine prices.

(In the last 2 weeks since the war started, gas here has dropped from $1.57 to $1.43. Of course, closer to the city, it's still running at $1.65.
Dave

Hey, one mans meat is another mans poison.
It's all up to the buyer. Maybe he had a Maverick as his first car and he would like it back for nostalgia.
Maybe he met his wife in the back of it?? You never know.
Me, I'd take the Chevy!

Hi, I started it off at $9.99.
The buyers decided what it was worth to them :-)

Don't you look like a dumb fuck. He got his price.

you know tipsy you just explained yourself and the way you are pretty darn good

This "sudden" <g> fondness for myself by you wouldn't be indicative of your shortcomings, by any chance, would it?

(you might think i have short comings,others havent that opinion)

Really? Since you mentioned "others" as if it matters,,,go ahead and identify those who will vouch for you.

Your willingness to join Geogre wa3moj in making me your number one priority and chosen topic for this group is more telling than anything you have set forth to date.
what?

(because the constant bs from you george davey means i have some sort of hard on for you?keep dreaming)

Not at all,,but because you chose to affront ME, and that you asked ME to stop responding means you have some sort of "hard-on". Couple this with the fact that you now are joining Geogre in making all your post's topics about ME for merely telling YOU to MYOB.

It's why it's called a "defcit",,as such folks like yourself are unable to see their behavior for what it is.

Is that a cb term?

Congratulations. You have managed to reduce yourself in record time. You need examine the need you have for circumventing pacbell's posting ability before worrying about my personal life, but then again, from what you have allowed, if you didn't involve yourself in others business, you would receieve none of the attention your ego so desperately craves.

(lets see if i can wade through the wasted words,)

You can try, as words are only wasted on those who can't comprehend them, and we all know who suffers from the deficitis in communciation around here...

(im circumventing pacbell,but you still have no probelm figuring it out)

Uh-huh,,but the fact remains those you are attempting to have me "ignore" have not been asked by yourself to do the same, and those same folks have merrily stated that you must have something to hide, posting as you do.

(.im worried about your personal life,but all i said was would you stop responding so they would go away.)

Yup,,you most certainly suffer from that deficit,,that is NOT "all" you said,,you joined in the Geogre chorus of making personal remarks based on nothing but your own bullshit. Go back and check what you wrote, since you are already, shall we say "forgetting" what your topic was about.

(so the newsgroup is your personal business?i thought it was all gores)

Several treat it as their personal business..many make a living off of ebay,,which is why you will find many links to ebay sales here.

You hve a sever communication deficit and were never taught how to communicate effectively, so you procede in the only manner known to you,,,ignorance. You can't be blamed for the past, but you can definitely take responsibility for yoursefl now that you know the score...or not. Either, way, I'll still be grinnin' ear to ear with a big 'ol souhtern redneck grin.

(well go ahead and grin i couldnt care)

But that's not true,,you;re not getting off to very good start here,,you;re lying. See, if you didn't CARE what I think, you would not have asked me to stop posting or responding. The fact that you took the time to insert yourself into the equation that had nothing to do with yourself, shows you cared a great deal, at least much more than you care to admit. If you truly didn't care, you wold move right on along, and killfile that of which upsets you, disturbs you, bothers you, annoys you, etc. Adults skilled in communication have no use for killfiles, as they manage their composure accordingly and something as mere and innocuous as a post by a stranger on the internet can have no effect on them. Keeping that in mind, do you not see where several suffer from severe communication deficits.....then again, it is possible ALL the afflicted are in denial.

(.you seem to think any one that doesnt agree with your constant trolling,must be on the lids,hammies whomever you have a problem withs side.get a grip man,i asked nicely if you could stop responding to let the bullshit posts die,but you insist on keeping this crap going)

That you feel the need to come out and facilitate the fallacy that "I" somehow am responsible for perpetuating Geogre's personal obsessions and mild retardation behaviors illustrates you have another motive or are just as clueless as he. You began to demonstrate tendencies of the like with your intent on focusing your attention on MY words, MY posts.
In case you are clueless, tis not I making myself the topic. It's not "I" making each post about myelf That you feel the need to ask me to stop shining a light on the mildly retarded who make 98% of their posts about me because they underestimated the serpent under the flat rock they decided to kick over illustrates your little lie of denying you "care". Maybe your pleas of that of which you profess to "not" care about wil be more effective with the sheople mentality of those who can't manage to post without me as their headline or choice of topic in their post..then again, the sheople do what is commanded of them, not asked.

Hi David,

Never thought to do it, but I probably could. There are a number of licensed services in that area. I had one commercial two way customer using 25.xxx MHz FM and 100 watt Motorola Micors. I've also had paging and alarm systems in the cb hole frequencies and the freeband area above channel 40.

The best one I had was an English Made Multitone Paging system which used a Sonar BR-21 26-54Mhz tube amplifier in legal tone modulated am paging service.

Try one of the universal decoder pc programs which are available on the various ham radio web pages for free.

I've got a motorhome to which I just connected my Uniden PC 76 radio. The radio has not been tweaked or peaked but is stock out of the box. The motorhome is prewired for the CB and includes a roof mount antenna. The stock antenna is pretty wimpy, but with it I have been able to adjust the SWR to 1.1-1 at channel 20 with readings of 1.3 at 1 and 40.

My problem lies that when I transmit, the radio transmission is picked up by the amplifier system in the motorhome and transmits through all the stereo speakers. The stereo amplifier has two inputs supplied by the TV and the dash radio. It is turned on in standby mode all the time, and whenever it detects a signal on either input, powers up and plays through the 5 speakers. (Its a 5.1 surround sound amp)

In any case, I've traced the wiring and found the CB antenna wire runs next to the low level input lines for the amp down through a windshield post, and there is no way to route them differently. They run side by side for at least 5 feet.

I'm not that familiar with Coax quality, but I do notice this RG58AU wire is fairly thin, and although I've found a listing that says it is 95% shielded, I'm guessing the signal is leaking through it and being picked up by the inputs to the amp.

As a final test, I removed the antenna and connected the radio to a dummy load, and I have no interference with the amp when I tranmit into the dummy load. My conclusion is the antenna wire is the culprit.

Any suggestions on better quality wire that is readily available, or any other suggestions to solve the problem would be appreciated.

I don't think the coax is your problem. Evidently, you are directly radiating into the amplifier. Ths is not going to be easy to fix.
Move the radiating antenna as far as you can from the amplifier. Also make sure the amplifier case is grounded well (if metal). This will aid in creating a Faraday shield to keep unwanted RF out.

Let me get this straight: the audio input lines to your amplifier run through the windshield post?

If you can replace the antenna coax, why can't you reroute it? Or reroute the audio lines?

Well anyway, it sounds like you might have a "no-ground-plane" type of CB antenna, which is a kludge that uses the shield of the coax as a counterpoise. Normally, the metal body of the vehicle is used as the counterpoise (groundplane), but some vehicles have fiberglass bodies/roofs, so they 'invented' the no-ground-plane antenna. The coax of a no-ground-plane antenna radiates just as much RF as the whip, which would easily account for your problem.

If the vehicle is metal, another possibility is that the shield is not grounded at the antenna end of the coax. Don't let your SWR readings fool you into thinking the antenna is mounted properly -- check it to be absolutely sure.

I appreciate everyone's help and comments so far. I can add a little more information that may help in troubleshooting the problem.

First, let me explain a little better the physical installation. The motorhome is a flat front, bus type unit. The windshield post I spoke about runs up the drivers side of the windshield between the front windshield and side window of the motorhome. Since the windshield is about 4 feet high, the amplifier feed wires from the tv which is overhead, and the CB antenna wire must run side by side under a piece of trim molding down the length of the windshield post.

I did find last night, that if I run new coax, I can separate the wires by about an inch by running them on opposites sides of a 1x2 inch square structural tube that is the actual post. Hopefully, still having them in parrellel, but separated by the steel post will help the situation somewhat.

I can't replace the coax on the existing antenna as it goes to the roof top antenna and the last foot or so of coax where it passes through the roof is inaccessable as it is hidden inside a insulated ceiling of the motorhome. To get to it would be very major dis-assembly of the unit. I do think the existing antenna is a ground plane antenna as this motorhome has a fairly significant tubular steel structure around the drivers cockpit area.

Of additional interest, I have found that there is a large steel plate that is in the upper side corner of the motorhome that is accessable. I have an option of installing an antenna mount on the outside vertical wall of the motorhome about 4 inches from the roofline. The mount will be attached to fiberglass, but will bolt through the fiberglass to this plate which is welded to this steel cockpit structure. I'll use stainless bolts to attach it and make sure the mount is well grounded to the steel cockpit superstructure. If I do go witht the side mount antenna, I can run all new coax (I have some RG-8X) and use soldered connectors. I'm not sure what antenna to use, yet, but I'll first try my Wilson 1000, but I may have to go with a firestick or Wilson Silver load type stick to shorten the length.

I'm not sure the name of the existing antenna, but it has a small spring at the base, then a plastic part with two adjustable tuning rings to adjust the SWR. The whip is about a two foot long stainless stinger so the whole antenna is about 30 inches long.

Does the side mount antenna with 8X rounted slightly differenely sound like a better option to get rid of my feedback problem

A man went to church one day and afterward he stopped to shake the preacher's hand.

He said, "Preacher, I'll tell you WHAT, that was a damned fine sermon. Damned good!"

The preacher said, "Thank you sir, but I'd rather you didn't use that kind of language in the Lord's House.

The man said, "I was so damned impressed with that sermon I put five thousand dollars in the offering plate!"

The preacher said, "No shit?"

May I suggest that you ask all 214 to put pen to paper and email:
cb-consult@ra.gsi.gov.uk

They DO listen YOU KNOW if you use the right channels.

No point squabbling amongst yourselves. Now's your chance to put your views straight to the RA (for a limited period only - 1st June, I think).

I was replying to that statement alone. Just pointing out the most effective mechanism IMHO for you or anyone else to discuss the "demises of the UK channels and how we can promote CB and get new users interested." is to email the RA at:

cb-consult@ra.gsi.gov.uk

Trouble is that Dave thinks that everyone in Communist China is a Communist.
I believe he also thinks that everyone that lives outside the United States is not Christian. He also thinks that when something bad happens to someone it is a "judgement." Trouble is that this is completely against what's in the Bible. Just read the book of Job, he was the most righteous man alive at the time and God allowed him to lose everything, including his health.
The Bible also says that God allows both the evil and the righteous to prosper. So, just because someone is prosperous doesn't mean he's "good."
So when Dave says that an earthquake, sickness, storm, <place bad thing here> is a judgement he doesn't necessarily know what he's talking about.

How about using the passenger side windshield post?

Even better, run the coax inside the post.

If the antenna was installed by the people that built the motorhome, don't assume that they were competent radio techs. Remove the antenna and loading coil from the mount, disconnect the coax from the radio and check for continuity from the shield to the center conductor. It should be open. Then check for continuity from the shield to the chassis near the radio. It should show a short (or less than a couple ohms of resistance). If it shows open then you either have a bad ground connection at the antenna end of the coax, or you have a no-ground-plane antenna.

My suggestion is not to mess around with expensive sticks. Just use a center-loaded cheapie from Radio Shaft for the road, then screw on a 9-foot whip after you park the bus for the night.

>Does the side mount antenna with 8X rounted slightly differenely sound

Much better. Pull the old antenna but leave the cable and mount, and don't forget to water-proof the old mount.

When I moved to into this house I just sold, I found a Vox guitar pedal in the basement. It was beat up, but it worked. I was going to toss it. I checked on ebay, and it was collector's item late 1960's vintage. Got $200 for it.

I tend to agree with you here. Every time I have confronted Dave on an issue of his with Bible texts that directly contradicts what he says he goes silent and doesn't answer. A biggy with Dave is interracial marriage. He states that the Bible says that no one should marry outside their race. BZZZT! Wrong! It doesn't say that anywhere. In fact the ONLY mention of the word "race" in the Bible deals with running a race. What it does do is tell the nation of Israel not to marry the people who live in the lands that they are going to conquer. He uses these passages often. Problem with that is that all the people in that area of the world are of the same race. They belong to different nations and religious groups but they are all the same race. The ONLY thing that the Bible teaches is to not marry outside your faith. It says nothing about blacks marrying whites or whites marrying Hispanics or Asian or anything else.

Another note on Dave, his mother passed away the other day and according to his wife he's taking it pretty hard. My thoughts and prayers are with you Dave.

Hmmm, don't know about this one...
What if the seller puts out absolute falsehoods? Can you expect the customer to research every item they purchase in a lifetime? Just not practical, that's why we have laws against that type of deception...

guy, you got that shot right, It has been said many times over, when keyclowns say they have done something that is illegal, they say it is only words. And they also don't like to hear how they break laws and are federal criminals. you try use those same words you are chased around the Ng by the pack of keyckown wolves.

No probs, seriously. If anyone on the newsgroup want's to raise anything regarding the deregulation then do email them.

e.g. you could say that it's all well and good moving to CEPT only but if Germany has SSB on there freqs why can't we? The relevant standard to quote in your email is "ETS 300 433 - European Telecommunication Standard for SSB amplitude modulated CB radio equipment". Currently the UK Radio Interface Requirement IR2027 (UK Citizen's Band Service) is based on ETS 300 135 (PR27) i.e. FM only. If they are going to re-write IR2027 to remove the UK only channels why cannot they include ETS300 433 as well as or instead of ETS300 135 in the re-write? If enough people put foward this argument they'll at least consider it, after all there is an EU standard for SSB and they are following an EU directive to deregulate (and remove the Muppet channels).

Regards
Gareth

After the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, which killed six and injured 1,000, President Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1995 bombing in Saudi Arabia, which killed five U.S. military personnel, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1996 Khobar Towers bombing in Saudi Arabia, which killed 19 and injured 200 U.S. military personnel, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1998 bombing of U.S. embassies in Africa, which killed 224 and injured 5,000, Clinton promised that those responsible! would be hunted down and punished.

After the 2000 bombing of the USS Cole, which killed 17 and injured 39 U.S. sailors, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

Maybe if Clinton had kept his promise, an estimated 3,000 people in New York and Washington, D.C. that are now dead would be alive today.

And, now that Bush is taking action to bring these people to justice, we have opponents charging him with being a war monger...

AN INTERESTING QUESTION:
This question was raised on a Philly radio call-in show.

Without casting stones, it is a legitimate question.

There are two men, both extremely wealthy. One develops relatively cheap software and gives billions of dollars to charity. The other sponsors terrorism. That being the case, why was it that the Clinton Administration spent more money chasing down Bill Gates over the past eight years than Osama bin Laden?

THINK ABOUT IT!

It is a strange turn of events.
Hillary gets $8 Million for her forthcoming memoir.Bill gets about $12 Million for his memoir yet to be written.
This from two people who have spent the past 8 years being unable to recall anything about past events while under oath!

TWISTEDHED TO BECOME IRRELEVANT

(NEWSGROUP) April 5, 2003 "(Twistedhed) lives for strife. Don't give it to him", a top AKC analyst warned Thursday.

The long-awaited Battle Of recradiocb might be neither the massive "shock and awe" N8-assault some had expected, nor the treacherous thread-by-thread newsgroup sniping many had feared. Instead, a senior AKC advisor said coalition forces will isolate the newsgroup punch clown Twistedhed and set up technical discussion threads to make Twistedhed become increasingly irrelevant to the rest of the newsgroup. "Nothing would bother him more than for this group to stop politicizing and to get back to technical discussions where he then becomes irrelevant."

The new AKC plan stems from current analysis of the keyclown pirate leader. "He wants the fights to continue, as it's his only opportunity to contribute, and somehow feel important." Advisors say ridding the newsgroup of the unbalanced tyrant may take longer than expected, but results to be gained from this strategy are more certain. "When the DX finally dies in the coming year, he'll be left with nothing to relate to."

Have you forgotten about the Iran-Contra mess? Remember who was vice-President? Photographed shaking hands with Noriega?

I think we all need a little perspective.

So you will just keep running red lights until you do hit something and possibly kill someone. $270 is cheap, they should hit you for $500 min for the first one, double that for the next one, $1500 for the third one and suspend your license for one year.

AFAIC some of these lousy laws NEED some breaking. Sure, I used to make zipguns and blow shit up when I was a teenager, then I got into modding Chrysler engines and ham gear... never hurt anybody TTBOMK. Currently I'm developing a device which will foil those red-light cameras... if this isn't lawfucking, I don't know what is. But I'll be damned if I shell out $270 for running a red light without hitting anything.

Agreed... they can't baffle me with brilliance, so they try to befuddle me with bullshit. They go from anything-goes hippies to right-wing vigilante lawyers in nothing flat. And they know which ones I'm talking about.

Oh, come now, Frank.. The ones responsible for the Marine barracks bombing died in the bombing. How do you punish a dead man?

The fact of the matter is... If the US would keep its foreign policy promises in the first place, we wouldn't be so hated out there. Unkept promises are the root of all of these problems..

After you consider, of course, that the US Gov't is ignoring the advice of our first President to stay out of the affairs of other governments, and tend to our own.. If we'd done that in the first place, NONE of this would happen..

Hrm.. Seems to me the word "if" is the biggest word in the English language...

The fact is that suicide bombers normally don't act all by themselves.
Families of some of the victims are suing Iran, claiming they have clear evidence that Khomeni was behind the bombing.

>The fact of the matter is... If the US would keep its foreign policy

Isolationism worked fine before the US became one of the largest economic powers in the world. Then it didn't work so well. The attack on Pearl Harbor (and subsequent war with Japan) happened because the economic influence of the US expanded across the Pacific. You can't have military and political isolation if you are not going to impose economic isolation as well. IOW, US foreign policy, good or bad, is a product of our free enterprise system.

yep....you got it.......and this creep is still looking for his legacy.......what a dick.......he should have never been president.....he caused more damage in those 8 years than we will probably ever know......all he cared about was trying not to make anyone mad and chasing skirt........and that is all this guy was and is about......and he hasn't changed either.......but he was and still is irrelevent.......you see him on larry king talking like he is important and in reality he isn't......people just want him to go away but he won't.......when he left, it almost took a act of congress to get that piece of shit out of town....he didn't want to leave. but when he finally did leave, he and hillary tried to steal a lot of white house furnishings that were the property of the us government...his people did a lot of damage to the offices and the office equipment in the White House.....clinton soiled the office of the president and our White House.......and for that he is a outcast on a pension going around making million dollar speeches......what a piece of work. and oh yes, don't forget......clinton taught our young people by his example that oral sex really isn't sex........what a pervert....he used to have monica give him a bj , then he would go jack off and finish himself off in the corner of a closet in the hallway by the oval office in a area where the secret service could not see him. i will never forget him up on the stage handing out medals for the somolia sistuation........man i tell you , i would have told that piece of crap to go and shove it up his ass, after what happened.....so the man looking for a legacy already has one, he just doesn't want it, but it is there..........monica........and lying under oath ..those are the things this guy from arkansas will be remembered for and what is a real shame, he had the opportunity to make a difference and chose to go down the road he went down......and he taught us all that character does matter.......i hope we will always remember that.......

I just picked up a radio called a "Kimberly 102" the mic has a sticker on it bearing the name of "Wormald Communications" but i am unsure whether they just made the replacement handset or the whole radio.

Point is I am trying to get some info on the set but can't find any anywhere. If anybody knows anything or can refer me anywhere it would be a great help.

Thanks in advance

No coincidence, some go outside and turn their 'puter off.

BTW, it's not my group, and there are a few things wrong with "talking skip on 39 USB with LINEARS". Lets see, over 250 km, using power greater then spec, broadcasting, talking longer then 5 minutes, all the while some AH is trying to jam us.

Welcome to the former home of the Fairfield Community Connection! If you are looking for The Power House BBS, you can reach it at www.pwrhouse.com.

Looking for the Federal Communications Commission? It's at www.fcc.gov.

A few people have inquired about our plans for the fcc.com domain. We do not have plans to sell it, since the domain is extremely useful for the testing of some software that we have developed.

If you have any questions, please send E-mail to postmaster @fcc.com .
Please do NOT send any questions about the Federal Communications Commission, please go to www.fcc.gov for that.

You're about a brainiac, aren't you?

Ginger and JerrSingle must be screen names from the same account.

Dumb AOL'ers. Spend all that money for an inferior service.

Did you set up a webcam and are you watching me? I'm in and out, all day and night. I check my 'puter when I stop in. A slight bit chilly, but otherwise nice weather. A good hour of light left.

Not Southern Oregon - it's freakin dead down here.

I'm selling all the base CB gear cause there aint no one to talk to accept during the day and I work then.

oh well - lots of cool repeaters to talk on. Not stuffy hams and not 147.435 variety. granted there are stuffy hams but they stay on vhf where they belong :)

Some of us work during the week and don't have access or time until after work. So on the weekends some of us would rather go out and play, than troll the newsgroups like a few here do.

talk about double standards, in france you will hear on commercial fm radio 'motherf*cker' because it doesn't mean anything in french. you will not hear 'merde' (sh*t) on their broadcasts but i have heard it stateside.
Your arguement sir is merde....

200,000 RG&E customers without power. More without power from Niagara Mohawk and whatever. Livingston county has 90% of its' residents without power. Only police and fire trucks allowed in Livingston County. Some damage here. Due for 3-6 inches of snow tomorrow, up to a foot in the Southern Tier. Sigh ... some April fools' joke :(

I don't know, Mopar. What do the America Off Line folks pay per month? I'm paying $29.95 a month - for DSL :)
BTW, when the linemen accidentally cut my phone line up on the trunk, the phone was out but the DSL was still working. Go figure.

RADIO HONORS: WORLD AMATEUR RADIO DAY

Amateur Radio Supporting Education' is theme for World Amateur Radio Day. Its coming up real soon. RSGB newsreader Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, is here with the details:

The theme of this year's IARU World Amateur Radio Day is to be 'Amateur Radio supporting technology education in the classroom'.

World Amateur Radio Day is marked on the 18th of April each year to commemorate the anniversary of the founding of the International Amateur Radio Union on that date in 1925.

Ole Garpestad, LA2RR, the Chairman of IARU Region 1 writes: "There is no doubt that the future of amateur radio belongs to those that are now in the classroom. In keeping with this theme, I would like to encourage every society in the Region to let our young people know that amateur radio is a unique hobby - simultaneously sport, scientific study, personal pleasure and collective activity. And that radio amateurs today are voluntary and selfless researchers in the technological field of amateur radio, an important resource to every country, and something to be proud of."

"But the 18th of April is not only a day to think about our future, it is our day, a day for celebration. All of us, societies and individuals, can celebrate in our various ways - organizing presentations, club meetings, parties, honoring senior radio amateurs who go back to the early years of IARU, or just putting our equipment on the air and making just a single QSO on this day, so realizing how large our ham community is."

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH

Again, the date for this years World Amateur Radio Day is Friday, April 18th. (GB2RS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: PROJECT EAGLE ON HOLD

Plans to launch one of two new ham radio satellites have been put on hold. The reason for the setback can be traced to one word: Funding.

The bird in question is named Project Eagle. It, along with the Project Echo ham-sat is one of two birds that AMSAT had previously announced for development.

According to AMSAT North America President Robin Haighton, VE3FRH, the current levels of contributions to the amateur satellite organization are not enough to pay for building and launching both future satellites. One of two projects has to be put on hold and furloughing Eagle has been the decision.

Up until now AMSAT North America had been working on both new satellites simultaneously. While ECHO is still on schedule for possible launch later this year, the launch of Eagle has been delayed indefinitely. (AMSAT)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: TWO-HAM CREW HEADED TO THE ISS

Just as ARISS Chaiman Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, predicted a few weeks ago, two ham radio operators will be replacing the current three man crew on board the International Space Station. A NASA announcement identifies the latest space adventures as U-S astronaut Ed Lu and Russian cosmonaut Yuri Malenchenko.

Lu holds the call sign KC5WKJ while Malenchenko is RK3DUP. They will comprise the Expedition 7 crew, replacing Expedition 6 astronauts and Ken Bowersox, KD5JBP, Don Pettit, KD5MDT, and Russian cosmonaut Nikolai Budarin.

NASA and its partners decided on manning the ISS with two space explorers instead of three as an interim measure until the U-S space shuttles are flying again. A two man crew conserves on the amount of vital supplies needed for on-orbit life.

Three person crews will resume when the Columbia disaster investigation is concluded and the space shuttles take to the sky again. The three remaining Shuttles in NASA's fleet Endeavour, Atlantis, and Discovery have been grounded until the cause of the Columbia accident can be determined and safety changes implemented.

NASA's Return to Flight team has been told to complete their initial tasks in time to support the earliest possible launch date, which would be this fall. But officials of the space agency say that it could take months longer to prepare the shuttles to fly again. (From published news reports)

HAM RADIO AT WAR: DOING BATTLE WITHIN

Ham radio is supposed to transcend international politics, but you would never know this by the on-air antics of one unnamed Ukrainian radio amateur and a few stateside hams.

Lets start with a post on the QCWA remailer by Bob Harvey, K2PI. Harvey says that he heard the Ukrainian operating a contest on March 30th. Thats not news in itself except that the Ukrainian was refusing to work United States or U-K amateurs because of the war in Iraq.

Harvey writes that the Ukrainian said to call him only if you supported his view that the United States was conducting an illegal and evil war. Needless to he had no QSO's with any American or British hams.

But theres another side to it. John Sielke, W2AGN comments over the same QCWA remailer on the plight of a French ham friend of his. W2AGN says that the guy was harassed off of another ham radio remailer only because he was French and the other hams did not agree with France's anti-war stand. Sielke says that the unidentified French ham was truly vilified even though he had made no comments concerning Iraq or politics. He was just attacked purely because he was French. (QCWA Reflector)

RADIO RULES: FCC CONSIDERS INTERFERENCE IMMUNITY FOR RECIEVERS

We predicted a month ago that it would happen. Now comes word that the FCC has issued a Notice of Inquiry, seeking comments on possibly requiring receiver manufacturers to build in a certain level of interference immunity. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has more:

As noted on the CQ Magazine website and elsewhere in cyberspace, amateurs have been frustrated for years by trying to explain to neighbors that interference problems were really the result of poor design. Bad engineering in their TVs, stereos, cordless phones and other receivers.

Now, because of the need to protect Digital Television transmissions, the FCC is seeking comments on the current immunity performance and interference tolerance of existing receivers. Its also looking at the possibilities for improving receiver immunity in the not to distant future.

The FCC says that it is soliciting input from the public on possible approaches to achieving desired levels of receiver immunity. This runs the gammit from better product warning labels to the possibility of implementing mandatory standards governing the manufacture, import and sale of consumer electronics reception gear.

It is all in FCC E-T Docket 03-65. You will find it on the web by using the document search engine at www.fcc.gov.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF

Again the inquirtey into interference immunity standards can be found in FCC E-T Docket 03-65. (CQ Website, FCC)

FCC: VANITY FEES MAY BE GOING UP

If you are planning to go for a vanity call sign, do it now or be prepared to pay a few cents more. The proposed hike to $16.30 for a vanity call comes in an FCC Notice of Proposed Rule Making dealing with fee collection matters released on March 26th. Its all in M-D Docket No. 03-83 and comments on it are due no later than April 25th. (From FCC release)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC - YOU SOLVE THE PROBLEM

The FCC has told the operators of two competing repeaters that its not going to solve the dispute between them. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "The Enforcement Bureau has written to Grearal Gogue of Conway Arkansas, David Stone of Morrelton, Arkansas and Tom Lee of Jerusalem, Arkansas, regarding repeaters AC5RU and KD5CYA. In the letter it was stated after reviewing the submissions of all relevant information, we declined to intervene in this dispute. It is our position, that in this case, both parties are responsible for solving the interference and we urged them to so in the best interests of Amateur Radio."

In this case, two repeaters sharing the same frequency claim mutual interference. On May 24, 2000, the FCC opened an inquiry about allegations that Lee's AC5RU system was causing harmful interference to coordinated repeater KD5CYA, licensed to Gerald Hogue. The allegations stated that Lee's repeater was uncoordinated because the coordination had been forfeited by numerous changes in location.

On August 14, 2000, the FCC notified Lee that it was his responsibility to prevent interference to KD5CYA inasmuch as it appeared to be the coordinated repeater. On September 14, 2000, after reviewing Lee's lengthy response, the FCC rescinded its requirement that Lee solve the interference to the KD5CYA repeater. This is because it was unclear to the FCC as to which repeater was properly coordinated. The Commission said that it was not an appropriate matter for enforcement action. It also urged the parties to take advantage of the mediation and dispute resolution program of the ARRL but one declined.

Lee submitted additional information on January 5, 2001. On February 8, 2001, after receiving additional documents from all parties, the FCC stated that although it failed to see why mediation or arbitration would not be a viable option, we nevertheless agreed to review the matter once again. In response to allegations of deliberate interference, we cautioned everyone involved to cooperate in the resolution of this matter.

Now, almost two years later the FCC has again said its not going to act. It says that after reviewing the submissions and all relevant information, that it will not intervene in this dispute. The agency says that in this case, both parties are responsible for solving the interference and it urges them to do so in the best interests of Amateur Radio. (FCC, RAIN)

AT THE FCC: MULETA NEW WTB CHIEF

John Muleta is the new Chief of the FCC's Wireless Telecommunications Bureau, which regulates amateur radio along with other two-way radio services. According to the ARRL, Muleta worked for the FCC from 1994 to 1998 and his positions included Chief of the Enforcement Division. He has also worked in the private sector since 1998. Muleta succeeds Thomas Sugrue, who headed the bureau the last four years. (ARRL)

RADIO LAW: CONGRESS APPROVES DIFFERENT AMBER ALERT MEASURES

The United States House of Representatives has approved creation of a nationwide Amber Alert network. The action came on Thursday, March 27th after politicians on both sides of the aisle attached several additional child protection measures to the bill.

The bill, approved by a 410 to 14 vote, now goes to the Senate, which earlier approved legislation authorizing only the nationwide child kidnapping alert network. President Bush has commended the House on acting on legislation to help expand an Amber Alert system across the nation. He says that he looks forward to signing a reconciled version of the bill. (Published news reports)

RESCUE RADIO: UK POLICE ASK HAMS TO HELP SOLVE ROAD MURDER

Police in Surrey are asking U-K hams and C-B operators to help solve a case of murder by road-rage. Just after midnight UTC, on Friday the 21st of March, a truck driver on the M3 motorway was driving northbound when someone threw an object at the cab of his vehicle. It smashed the windshield and hit the driver and fatally injuring him. He was able to bring the truck to a safe halt before loosing conciousness. He died at the scene.

Investigators belive that the object was thrown from a footbridge over the highway. They are asking any ham or C-B operator who was driving in the area that night to call in and let them know if they saw anything. Surrey Police say that any leads would be appreciated. (GB2RS)

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS HELP SAVE YOUNG BURN VICTIM IN HONDURAS

The ARRL Letter says that quick action on the part of a group of ham radio operators may have saved the life of an young burn victim in Honduras. The 8 year old girl was seriously burned late last month. Amateur Radio operators and volunteers at the International Health Service clinic in a remote village in southeastern Honduras and stateside hams worked together on the air to bring needed treatment to the child. With ham radio to coordinate the move, the youngster was evacuated by air to the nearest town with a hospital. From there she was taken to the capital city of Tegucigalpa, where the University of Honduras Medical Center has a burn trauma unit. (ARRL)

WELCOMING THE YOUNG: W9SM AT THE WAUSAU CHILDRENS FESTIVAL

The Wisconsin Valley Radio Association will be sponsoring a special event station W9SM, at the 30th Annual Children's Festival in Wausau, Wisconsin.

The date is Saturday April 5th. The Children's Festival features hands-on activities at numerous booths run by various community groups.

The special event station will operate between 1600 UTC and 2200 UTC on April 5th. This, in the General portions of the 10, 15, 20 or 40 meter bands both SSB and CW.

While in operation the station will demonstrate several aspects of amateur radio to the children attending, including APRS and High Frequecy operations. The kids who stop by will also have the opportunity to get on the air.

The Festival is sponsored by the Children's Festival Committee and the Wausau and Marathon County Parks and the Recreation and Forestry Department. QSL via WB2TLQ at his callbook address. (WB2TLQ)

CONVENTIONS AND HAMFESTS: NAB HAM RADIO RECEPTION - APRIL 9

On the convention scene, the annual Amateur Radio Reception at the National Association of Broadcasters Convention is slated for 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday April 9th. The venue is the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas Nevada, right next door to the famed Las Vegas Convention Center.

This years hosts are again CQ Magazine and Kenwood Communications. Publisher Dick Ross, K2MGA and Editor Rich Moseson, W2VU will be there representing CQ. Paul Middleton, K4NUH, will be on hand for Kenwood.

Between 800 to 1000 hams in the broadcast industry attend this yearly ham radio social get together. Among them will be top ARRL officials and some of the folks from Amateur Radio Newsline.

The National Association of Broadcasters Convention is one of the largest held each year in Las Vegas. It typically draws over 100,000 attendees. More information is on the web at www.nab.org/conventions/nab2003 (ARNewsline™)

HAMFESTS AND CONVENTIONS: GO SEE THE TV COMMERCIAL

Ever see a television commercial for a ham radio convention? Well the Rochester Hamfest has one and its now on-line so that you can see and hear it.

The commercial comes courtesy of the Rochester Hamfest. That show is slated for May 30th through June 1st at the Monroe County Fairgrounds in Rocheter New York.

To view or download the T-V spot go to www.rochesterhamfest.org. Then scroll down to the words "click here to see our new TV commerrcial."

And oh yes. A high speed connection is recommended. This is because it is a 5.9 Mega Byte file that opens in most recent media players including Apple Quicktime and Real Player One. (Rochester Hamfest)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: THE 2003 AMSAT-UK SPACE COLLOQUIUM

And the 18th AMSAT U-K Space Colloquium will be held from July 25th to the 27th at Surrey University, Guildford in Surrey England. This year speakers are a bit hard to find. So planners have relaxed the requirement for a printed paper to accompany the talk. AMSAT says that in 2003 this will not be mandatory.

Other changes this year include "Beginners' Sessions" on both Friday and Saturday afternoons and an earlier start of talks. These will begin right after lunch on Friday but alternate planned tours will be available all day.

Full information about the 2003 Colloquium is on the AMSAT-UK web site. You will find it in cyberspace at www.uk.amsat.org/colloquium.htm. (AMSAT-UK)

INTERNATIONAL - UK: CB RULES AND FREQUUENCIES TO CHANGE

On the international freont, look for some major changes to happen to 11 meter Citizens Radio in the United Kingdom over the next several years. This, as the result of the British equivlant of our Notice of Inquirey being issued by their Radiocommunications Agency on March 25th.

The Consultation Document -- as it is known -- contains a proposal to deregulate Citizens' Band radio in the United Kingdom and withdraw the 40 U-K only CB channels by 2010. It also proposes removing the need for individual licensing in 2004.

Not changed would be the current technical equipment requirements and the current operating rules. The deleted U-K only channels would be replaced by the 40 pan-European C-B channels. A press release from the U-K Radiocommunications Agency says that this deregulatory move is intended to provide easier access to C-B and to enhance enjoyment of the hobby. (GB2RS)

DX

In DX, word from KA2AEV that a group from the recently formed Antigua & Barbuda Radio Club will be traveling to their sister island of Barbuda April 18th to the 21st. Plans call for stations on 160 through 10 mters plus a 2 meter station for local contacts using the call sign V21BBQ. Organizers say that to their knowledge, there has never been any ham activity from Barbuda. In addition to racking up contacts the operators hope to expose the islands residents to the magic of the hobby while familiarizing the worlds ham community with Barbuda. THAT FINAL "APRIL 1ST" ITEM: RADIO THAT CAN MAKE YOU SICK

And finally this week, it appears that some hams may be facing a new health threat ... especially if they eat while operating the radio. Roving correspondent Pierre Pullinmyleg is back from his self imposed exile and filed this report on Tuesday, April 1st:

For decades, wives of radio amateurs have said that ham radio makes them sick to their stomachs. Now, it seems that ham radio may actually DO that.

The French Office of Oohs and Lalas, or FOOL, has been studying reports of amateurs falling ill after eating while operating during certain band openings on 6 and 10 meters. Officials at FOOL have determined that the problem occurs only during periods of sporadic-E propagation and believe that the radio waves carry with them into the shack of ham some of the ionization from the E-layer of the ionosphere.

If food is present at the amateur's operating position, then the ions apparently interact with bacteria present in the food to cause food poisoning. The scientists have determined that this is a type of E-Coli contamination which they have named Sporadic-E-Coli, both because it occurs only sporadically and because it appears to be caused by sporadic-E radio signals. They recommend using audio filtration in order to "cleanse" the signals before they reach the speaker, which appears to be the major medium of transmission.

Reporting from the E-layer, this is Pierre Pullinmyleg for Newsline.

Pierre says that another option, of course, is to eat in the shack only during periods of F-layer propagation -- and then -- to only munch on chocolate F2 layer cake. (A Pierre Pullinmyleg Annual April 1st Exclusive Report)

It's about time Japanese cars make it into Nascar. Watch who ever decides to drive them will win the race by a big margin.
Best thing Nascar can do is allow Japanese cars in.

Our question this week deals with the issue of how to calculate the feed point impedance of dipoles.

#1 Assuming free space, #12 wire and less that half wave dipole, what would be the formula for calculating the R and X at the center when the percent of wavelength is known. And along with this answer a length of open wire line will be brought down to a feed point to get rid of the X value. We know that the down line length plus one leg length of the dipole must equal an electrical 1/4 wavelength in order to represent a non reactive feed point. We also know that as the dipole is made shorter and the feed line longer to achieve this, that the feed impedance will get lower.

So what we're really asking is, "what is the formula for the feed resistance, as a function of feed line length to antenna leg length, when the total electrical length is equivalent to a 1/2 wave dipole".

#2 Assuming free space and #12 wires, what would be the feed point Z of a full wave dipole or double ZEPP antenna? We know it is very high in the neighbor hood of 6000 to 10000 ohms.

You can do this by trial and error but it's nice to know the answers.

The AntiTwistedhed Technical Discussion is intended to make Twistedhed irrelevant to the newsgroup by stimulating technical discussion on radio topics.

(when keyclowns say they have done something that is illegal, they say it is only words. And they also don't like to hear how they break laws and are federal criminals. you try use those same words you are chased around the Ng by the pack of keyckown wolves.)

The anger resulting in the jealousy of anothers life and gainful, productive, employment.....

(eat shit moped isn't it time for you to go cut some lawns)

The ire, illustrating the "Premoral Infant" syndrome......

(Your a predictable asshole).

The illusion of a position of power, or one of an authorative nature, is very important to Geogre. It is much like his failed attempts at fascism and censorship by fancying himself moderator of this public ng and carrying on like a spoiled child when reality hits him......

(Tube Man info sent to FCC.com)

The misdirected anger, premoral infant syndrome, and preoccupation with certain related sexual perversions classicly illustrated, almost in text-book presentation.........

(You knew what I meant dildo)

Again, the everpresent premoral syndrome, responsible for most of his anger...

(No snottie he is part of your cb yahoo group)

..competent illustration of something he does not "like", agree with, or comprehend. He self-interprets such as "evil", or "bad", or deserving of his insult, disdain, scorn, etc. I believe Geogre has made quite clear the reason he is dependent upon being supported by the taxpayers.

And finally, the proneness to violence that all self-avowed lids who resort to inventing new terms share. None but those who suffer in communication deficits resort to inventing new terms. Many believe this is an pre-pubescent exagerated manner of masking the inadaquecies you feel when at a loss for real words....which brings us full circle and leads us back to..ta.da.....a comunication deficit.

(tell me what is inside after you smash it with a hammer.)

The wounded ego and inferiority complex all over the place.....

(Hey Scott, we are 3 grades ahead of you geek. Now run along and play before I take your lunch money)

Mmmmmph......also nicely illustrating the "power" control trip Geogre is all too consumed with,,almost as if wishing something hard enough may lend an air of credibility to the opposite of what he has self-rendered.....hyukhyukhyuk.....impotence, magnificent failures, and sufficient outstanding examples that can only be demonstrated by a lid such as Geogre wa3moj. Good show, Geogre, save for the mild reatrdation that affects your partiality.

(NEWSGROUP) April 5, 2003 "(Twistedhed) lives for strife.)

Your ego is now at an all time low that you interpret laughing at you as intetnional strife,,poor Geogre,,,nothing is about you..LOL.

(Don't give it to him", a top AKC analyst warned Thursday.)

And therein is the lack of control manifesting in a manner that you so desperately crave and seek,,control,,,lack of...impotence..drives ya' nuts..<g>,don't it Geogre...,if anyone,,anyone at all will do what Geogre tells them,doesn't matter what , just do anything what Geogre TELLS one to do, he may sleep easier tonight and need half the dose of metamucil instead of the entire gallon.
We may lose him if he continues to carry on like this, he is slowly showing serious signs of mental deterioration,,..the depression he is experiencing may prove to great for him to handle..suicide would be my first guess, and I'm changing my ante in the death pool of rec.radio.cb to reflect such,,,following suicide I would say stroke, then heart attack.

Geogre is demonstrating what is often referred to as "Premoral Infant Sudden Syndrome"...or more likely P.I.S.S. (I'm not making this up,,Premoral Infant Syndrome) His mild retardation compells him to render everything he dislikes or can not handle as "evil" or "wrong"..and, as one may have guessed, anything he "likes" or "easily understands", he construes as "good" or "friendly". There is no cure for this and,,well, it's there for the searching. Someone needs explain it to him,,,his mild adult retardation results in a severe communiation deficit, rendering him not able to interpret anything beyond his myopic scope, resulting in redundant cries and pleas of "Huh?"..."D-uh!"..or.."What does he mean?",,or , my personal favorite illustrating his graduatio from the sixth grade, "What did he say?"...LOL!

(The long-awaited Battle Of recradiocb)

The only "battle" has been by you and your lids fiends that have used the terms "battle", "war", and "jihad" when attacking those in this group. You are indeed a newsgroup terrorist...LOL. Your neat choice of terms illustrate just that.

expected,)

Only the communication deficit sufferers. The rest of us are aware you are impotent and of infantile mind.

(nor the treacherous thread-by-thread newsgroup sniping many had feared. Instead, a senior AKC advisor said coalition forces will isolate the newsgroup punch clown Twistedhed and set up technical discussion threads to make Twistedhed become increasingly irrelevant to the rest of the newsgroup.)

Always attempting to control the rest of the newsgroup.....again, your fascism will not fly in this group,,try alt.Hussein.lovers or something similar. That you would utilize the name "freedom" while attempting to undo what was fought and died for by our young men and women illustrate how despicable you truly are...but I already knew this,,I merely take this little opportunity to point it out for,,welll, you know,,just in case there may be some "newbies" out there. Watching you fail again in attempts at imposing censorship to all that of which renders you an impotent, drooling clown is off topic to say the least, but nicely it shows off your myopic view and obsessive train-of-thoughts you have trouble demonstrating and conveying. That pesky communication deficit.

LOL. How ironic....you are second in line only to N8 in lack of self-control, that you still feel that you can control anothers topics in a medium that was founded on the free and uninhibited exchange of ideas brings us full circle to your premoral problem.

Everyone knows you look to me as some type leader Geogre, it's why you're always sagging on my internet life's tail. "Keyclown" is not in any dictionary to be found, illustrating very uniquely the technique that you and your ilk are reduced to when defeated at all turns: When all else fails, make something up.......LOL. Loser.

Never on the internet have I seen such a devastated and wounded ego such as you now are displaying ,,almost every other line is "he" this..."he" that....so how long until you sop blowing me kisses and "implement" your new policy of entering only technical discussions ? LOL!

(Advisors)

You're a sheople, and if I wait patiently enough you always illustrate me correct about you...only those who need told what to do, those who can't function on their own, those who need a regimented life and told when to to do things and how to do them,,,,need advisors on how to post..like sheople,,,LOL...like you.

(say ridding the newsgroup of the unbalanced tyrant may take longer than expected)

Yea..that pesky first amendment keeps getting in your fascist face when you try to do away with those posters who don't wilt in your bullied but cowardly mannerisms.

(but results to be gained from this strategy are more certain.)

You long demonstrated a propensity for not achieving results in any of your failed endeavors. You are an impotent lid who has a great deal of misdirected anger for the obviously apparent unsettling position in life you find yourself in.

Ahh,,how sweet it is....,another gem from the man who just loves to profess an ignorance that knows no bounds....LOL!

Isn't it strange how all of the keyclowns find nothing wrong with using linears, cussing on the air, etc... but when I bring up the subject of legalizing such harmless behavior, they start talking about me like I was Osama bin Laden!
I can only warn these guys not to watch TV if they take a trip to

Got to the root of the problem---or at least what makes the antikeyclowns tick, anyway. We can print cusswords in books & papers, put them on albums & sell them... but deep in the American psyche, there is something that says "the airwaves are holy---thou shalt not defile them with cusswords, lest thou incur the wrath of God". This mentality probably originated in the prim-&-proper '40s, and most censor-minded individuals don't want to be identified as killjoys. I think Aaron (or whatever name he's using this week) would agree with this assessment... albeit I happen to think those of us who really think of the airwaves as "holy" are off their rockers. (Yes, there really are old geezers who obsessively watch TV and pester the b'cast stations with phone calls every time they hear a cussword.) AFAIC I wouldn't get any sudden chest pains from hearing Dan Rather say "fuck" on the 6 o'clock news, much less hearing Speedy say it on 27.035. What are the censors going to do when our fat old lawmakers have all died---and get replaced by today's foulmouthed keyclowns? Their success would be the best revenge.

HAM RADIO AT WAR: DOING BATTLE WITHIN
Ham radio is supposed to transcend international politics, but you would never know this by the on-air antics of one unnamed Ukrainian radio amateur and a few stateside hams.
Lets start with a post on the QCWA remailer by Bob Harvey, K2PI. Harvey says that he heard the Ukrainian operating a contest on March 30th. Thats not news in itself except that the Ukrainian was refusing to work United States or U-K amateurs because of the war in Iraq.
Harvey writes that the Ukrainian said to call him only if you supported his view that the United States was conducting an illegal and evil war. Needless to he had no QSO's with any American or British hams.
But theres another side to it. John Sielke, W2AGN comments over the same QCWA remailer on the plight of a French ham friend of his. W2AGN says that the guy was harassed off of another ham radio remailer only because he was French and the other hams did not agree with France's anti-war stand. Sielke says that the unidentified French ham was truly vilified even though he had made no comments concerning Iraq or politics. He was just attacked purely because he was French. (QCWA Reflector)

Is this surprising to anyone? Is WA3moj Geogre not at least representative of a small minority of lids? Is his premoral infant syndrome, which dictates to his diminished intellectual capacity that of which he dislikes or is beyond his learning ability, is "evil", a malady that is contagious, or merely confined to the mildly retarded and those who suffer great communication deficits?

The Mullet was plentiful (for you yanks, mullet is NOT a fashionable haircut traced to the trailer park in your suburbs <g>), the Kings are now offshore a way and a few smokers will take the right offerings. I don't think the Mackerel ever went away. The Snook are slowly coming out of the headwaters, creeks, and canals, but are still to be found around inland structures.

Now, about the DX,,,you guys in NY know who I'm talking about...good show yesterday...matter of fact, GREAT show yesterday...you mistakes by the lakes (all of them) need to key it more often, and you guys on the fence along the border, well, your mic won't key by itself (YOU know who I'm talking about) and a 10-5 is always possible on 38 lower, give or take a slight 5 KHz deviation.

California,,,2nd place for domination yesterday..Jersey tried, but no dice, no way no damn how.......Malibu station all early morning.....first time in a long time, I have to wonder,,where was Texas,,the entire state go to a Ho(e) Down or something this weekend?

I was talking to friend the other day and he was telling about his Super Scanners antenna which uses electrical switching in order to direct the signal just like a beam but without the rotor. I was wondering if anyone makes these anymore or did the company go out of business as I suspect. I checked the internet through google but didn't find anything that indicated the company still exists or they are sold commerically. All I seen was that they are sometimes sold between CBers. Ive been wanting some because Im not in position to put up a big tower and expensive rotor at this point. Anyone have any ideas and suggestions?

It is no better then a half-wave dipole. The elements are light duty, the bulbs in the control unit burn out, and relays in the control box go bad.

Go get a PDL-II. That uses a TV rotor and outperforms the SuperSucker.

No one started new threads..I merely changed the header name of the threads to reflect some truth, and isolated another so as to present it in a manner and context in which the mildly retarded would connect with it. It appears to have left it's mark on you, for you not only have identified with such obvious profoundness, but offered your own interpretation of what I meant....LOL.

The "topic" was Geogre's claim of a quiet weekend. I merely illustrated that it was not so, once again (now follow along, and attempt to suppress that deficit in communication that ails you for just a sec), by presenting his own text in a presentation the mildly retarded was forced to face,,,,taking issue with his own words and blaming them on another, is just a tad more ludicrous than your telling and "sudden" <g> concern with who I choose to reply and the manner in which I exercise such. You need God in your life,,seriously,,,he can fill the void you need look to me to fill.

To learn the technical TRUTH about CB Radio without all the hype from people who are just plain ignorant, check out the following books from CBC International. They're selling right now at a big discounts on our EBAY & AMAZON stores too.

Check it out! Go to this link:

http://cgi6.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewSellersOtherItems&userid=lou@cbcintl.com&completed=0&sort=3&since=-1&include=0&page=1&rows=25

To see exactly what these books look like, plus all the specific, chapter-by-chapter details, see our Web at:

Some of the books included are:

BOOK #1: THE "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE To Peaking Out & Repairing CB Radios. List $25. The most popular "big dummy's" guide ever published on do-it-yourself CB repairs & modifications. Covers peaking of receivers, transmitters, modulation, mike problems, antenna & SWR problems, detailed frequency modifications for both crystal & PLL radios. Loaded with charts, illustrations, and specific instructions for most brands including the new export models. This latest edition also covers slider and broadbanding tricks, FM conversions, and much more!

BOOK #2: THE CB PLL DATA BOOK. List $20. The only complete reference source on CB PLL synthesizer circuits ever published! Detailed PLL theory explained in layman's terms. How they work, and how to modify them for many more channels. Includes specific PLL block mixing diagrams, truth charts, & IC pin function diagrams for nearly every PLL chip ever used. Covers all the most popular U.S. & export chassis, with specific listings of all models using the chip.

BOOK #3: UNDERSTANDING & REPAIRING CB RADIOS. List $42. Giant 370-page technical book for the professional repairman. Picks up where the "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE leaves off. Includes circuit descriptions & troubleshooting guide for 23- & 40-Ch., crystal & PLL, solid-state & tube, AM, FM, SSB, CW, American & export models. Covers test equipment (& where to find it), transistor basics, synthesizers, receivers, transmitters, power supplies, T/R switching, antennas, interference, parts & accessory sources. Over 350 illustrations including schematics, charts, and photos. Huge subject index also lets you look up repairs by symptoms. This is "must" reading for any serious CB technician!

Again, that is mostly lifestyle dependant. Many people are very active in the winter. Both downhill and cross country skiing get people out into the "brisk" air. While it is true that many people (myself included) tend to hibernate indoors to escape the cold, there are also a good number of people who do the same thing in the summer, to escape the heat and humidity. I have to admit, that since I've moved into a home with cental air, I've become somewhat dependant on it, when the mercury soars.

That has to be a trememndous drain on the state's budget. Considering that there is no state income tax, and considering the homestead exemption for real estate tax, most of the state's income, comes from taxes on tourism. Is that enough to take care of the state's infrastructure needs, as well as potentially fund all resident children for college?

Would you be willing to start paying a state income tax to keep this program alive? That might be the choice you'll have to make. Considering the number of senior citizens who live there, who are not concerned with education, that vote will be a close one.....

And places like this, are the final reason why I decided not to move south. There are no real mountainous places in Florida, or any of those nice clear lakes.

It seems that there are no "perfect" places to live. Every place has advantages and disadvantages. It comes down to making the best matches you can, to suit your needs.

If I could have Pa. country, with Florida's cost of living, San Diego's weather, and Minnisota's lakes, I'd move there.

If more "yankee" industries move there, much of the yankee attitude will too. Give it time...

Actually, I have seen frisbee golf. I thought it was something invented by a few bored college students. I didn't realize it had caught on as a "sport". And BTW, I'd rather watch paint dry, than watch a game of golf.
Then again, the only sports I do enjoy watching, are Football, and an occasional offshore boat race.

Actually, when I was there in the Bahamas, the popular music was a sort of Reggae, that the locals refered to as "Callipso". I actually got to enjoy it, as it seemed to resonate with the island mood.

Yea, but Florida locals will learn to love a good Cheesesteak as well.
Who said that a business like that, needs to cater only to other wayward yankees? I never realized how regional some things are, until I once ordered a "steak sandwich" in San Jose, and got a hunk of steak on a bun, with a slice of american cheese, and a hunk of lettuce and a tomato. Please! even such staples as Pizza, are served sort of "wierd" depending on where you go.

I would venture to say that those who have skin, that has been exposed to gradual tanning for many years, have probably built up a tolerance to UV damage to some degree. I don't know if the incidents of skin cancer, are more concentrated in southern areas.

Another reason to go to the Bahamas for a business like that. In Florida, it's becoming a real issue between jetski's, boaters, waterfront property owners, save the manatee and seegrass people, etc.
Far too many no-wake zones, and other regulations.

You didn't specify band so here goes:

CB-HF (CB) 40 channels - 26.95 to 27.41 MHz- 4 watts AM - 12 watts PEP SSB

(You can turn up the radio, but it's better just to get an amp)

CB-VHF (MURS) 151.82/.88/.94/154.57/.60 MHz - 2 watts

CB-UHF (FRS) 14 channels - 462/467 MHz - .5 watts - fixed antennas

As you go up in frequency, antenna height is more important then power.

Now you can ask a more directed question. :>

[ANTITWISTEDHED] COAX LENGTH DISCUSSION

There is a misconception among CB operators that changing the length of your coax can "tune" your antenna system. This is absolutely untrue! This short discussion will detail why.

The coax cable is a means for transferring your RF signal to the radiating portion of the radio system. The cable, in theory, is meant to be a contained, non-radiating link. Because it does not radiate and serves only to transfer RF between two components of the transmitter system, it's performance in terms of efficiency is affected by length, but only in terms of overall resistance. In other words, using a long run of coax will reduce the total amount of signal at the antenna, but only because of loss due to resistance and NOT because of standing waves.

Ideally, you want to check the SWR of your antenna at the antenna feedpoint. In a perfect world, this is the best way. However, we all know that this is ludicrous to expect in a standard base antenna installation. Unless a remote SWR meter head is incorporated, we usually use the standard SWR meter located at the radio. The drawback is that resistance and slight impedance mismatch of the coax affects the overall SWR reading.

Because radio waves are tuned wavelengths of energy, we have to take into account the coax cable length. A typical 11-meter signal has a basic wavelength of 36 feet/wave. "Tuning" the coax for the exact full wavelength tends to throw off the SWR meter by not allowing any standing waves to return to the meter. Excess RF on the coax has been given an ideal medium by which to "hide" electrically from your SWR meter. That is not to say that the excess RF is not returning to the radio, you just can't see it on your meter. What we want to do is create an environment where any excess RF (standing waves) are rendered as visible as possible to the meter. This is effectively done by using multiples of the 1/2-wavelength of the radiated signal. One half wave for the 11-meter band is 18 feet. However, this is not the length that you will cut your coax. There is another factor that affects the length. This is Velocity Factor. The velocity factor is basically a term for how fast the signal moves through the coax. This factor affects the overall electrical performance of the coax and thus needs to be accounted for when determining the true half wave length

Here are the velocity factors of the various Belden coaxial cables:

RG-59 .66

RG-59/U (foam) .79

RG-58 .66

RG-58/U (foam) .79

RG-8A/U .66

RG-8/U (foam) .80 9913 .84

RG-213/U .66

Here is how to figure out your true 1/2-wave:

492 x (Velocity Factor) / Frequency (MHz)
For example, I want to figure out the true half wave coax length for RG-59/U (foam) on my home channel (ch. 33 - 27.335):

492 x .79 / 27.335 = 14.219 feet
Now add 13.52 to itself to determine your 1/2 wave multiples. Remember to use every other number. See the example below:

14.219 feet 1/2-wave multiple, 28.438 feet 1-wave multiple, 42.657 feet 1/2-wave multiple, 56.876 feet 1-wave multiple, 71.095 feet 1/2-wave multiple, 85.314 feet 1-wave multiple and so on . . . .

Use only the lengths that fall on the 1/2-wave multiples and you will be all set.

Now in order to get the true SWR of the system, you have to throw away that 3-foot jumper cable for now. The SWR meter has to fall on a 1/2-wave point on the coax run. Using the example above, you need a 14.219 foot jumper from the radio to the SWR meter, and a 1/2-wave multiple length from the SWR meter to the antenna. If my antenna is 65 feet away from my radio, I need a 14.219 foot jumper from the radio to the SWR meter, and a 71.095 foot length between the SWR meter and the antenna.

In laymans terms, the coax length fools your SWR meter into thinking that your SWR is different to what it actually is !

The ONLY way to know what your SWR actually is, is to use a correct length of coax for the operating frequency

You should not be able to change the characteristic impedance of the coaxial cable in most cases. (I never say never...)

But combinations of type and length of coax sections can be made to change the feedpoint impedance at a various locations, done all the time.

The big deal in coax is the 1/4 wave and 1/2 wave section theory. Generic'ly speaking, a 1/4 wave length has "opposite end impedance." If one side is open (high impedance), the far side should be shorted (very low impedance)... the converse is also true.

Half (1/2) wave sections just "repeat" what you put into them.

You sum a lot of this stuff up by saying that odd wavelengths (1/4 wave times x number of additional odd wavelengths) act similar.

Increments of even (1/2) wavelenghts act similar.

So the answer to your question is Yes, 1 wavelength is a multiple of a 1/2 wavelength.

Hope that helps cheers

I a posting for a friend, he has a Cobra 146gtl, that was in storage for several years, and he would like to have a 'ballpart' idea of what to ask for the unit on sale.????? From my point of view apperance wise I would say "8 on a scale of 10'. There is NO mobil mount..
He also has two '8 track' Stereo Recorders, brand name ,,,, CRAIG about a 7 or 8 on 'the scale',,,,, the second 8 track recorder is a JVC, on the 'scale' about a 9.
I had 8 track when I was younger, but did not know until I saw these units that there WERE 8 track recorders ''''outthere''''. I will relay any and all info about the sale value of these three units.
Thanks in advance. cl.

He's classic radical muslim fundamentalist..many of those in Iraq do not WANT "liberated" as we construe "liberation". To "indulge" in such American mannerisms, such as democracy, is taken by many radicals as a personal insult and affront to Allah, in other words,,to allow American-type democracy is too hedonistic, born of sin to much of their culture. Odd thing,,even the BBC is showing what our sanitized American news isn't....the mayhem and gore and those defiant against our presence,,,lucky us, we get to see the minority of the Iraqi people cheering us...the entire world is viewing this world with at least equal coverage to the devastation and deaths.....but not us......we get nonsensationalized calculated figures and stats,,,,,,not much more...oh we get a few bangs and fireballs, but it's way too desensitized...in all fairness, I think Bush actually believes he is making the world a better place,,,it's just a shame he's too damn much of an idiot to realize his word isn't deity-like or king-like status, although he wants it to be....damn shame when the invasion was first planned it was all about "security of the US and ridding the world of mass destructiion weapons",,,and then, a magical and interesting thing happened,,,,Bush' popularity waned and it suddenly became about "liberatiing the Iraqi people". Democracy can not be forced upon any culture, which, unfortunately, is going to be a very long and expensive lesson for those who blindly fell in line behind Bush and swallowed his flip flops and accepted his change of strategies without question. If Bush persues his imaginary "axis-of-evil" that in reality is a "plethora-of-problems" for all but the blue-est blood, world war is in the makings.......read Cheney's old book..it outlines his plan for economic global dominance, originating with the evil criminals of the Reagan years... the Eurodollar was one the first implementations, and stablity, even if a world war is "necessary" trying, in the middle east, is another objective,,,by "stability",,it's randomly easy to guess who controls such stabilization....
Soap box on Iraq now destroyed...

my advice to him was : delete this mag mount away (and forget forever about stupid manetic base antennas) and apply a normal (in car body) CB antenna with splitter or even use one antenna for CB and another antenna for broadcasting stations, there's no better solution.
We also mailed each to other a couple of times.

You know, to be honest, the two of you are really comical. Neither of you has done anything to the other, and will never do so. I can't say I don't enjoy reading the rhetoric, but if either of you think you're making a difference, you are sadly mistaken. It's funny, that's all. If you live in an area that has a lot of snow and ice (especially ice) in the winter the quad

Hey Dave, hope ya' had a fine weekend...

From: nojunk_n3cvj@worldlynx.net (Dave Hall) Twistedhed wrote:
,we live longer..we are healthier,

(I'm not so sure that can be traced to where you live. I think it has

Which is directly correlated to the weather,,the majority of winter dwelling citizens are more inactive during the winter months than they are during summer months.......hence the winter depressions that set in......we can do anything we want, year round outdoors..while many northerners are freezing their tails off, we are playing in the surf.

(Again, that is mostly lifestyle dependant. Many people are very active in the winter. Both downhill and cross country skiing get people out into the "brisk" air. While it is true that many people (myself included) tend to hibernate indoors to escape the cold, there are also a good number of people who do the same thing in the summer, to escape the heat and humidity. I have to admit, that since I've moved into a home with cental air, I've become somewhat dependant on it, when the mercury
soars.)

No doubt that plays a part,,but check it out,,,,lets focus on the seniors,,the age we hope to achieve before assuming room status....when the cold hits the aging bones,they hurt,,,when they hurt, I don't care what y'a wanna do,,the mind may be willing, but the body just ain't gonna do it.

,,
,,our air quality is much better,

(Compared to where? LA? Sure. NYC? Again, I'd agree. But how about

Compared to most other areas that are as populated as we are.

_
we have no-fault automobile insurance,

(So do we, and it sucks. Once they made it mandatory, we became captive customers, and the rates started to skyrocket.)

Not here,,it's great.....I thought the Commonwealth had a hand in things like this.......check it out,,,it's illegal for an insurance company to raise their rates in Fla based on claims,,,thats whyso many yankee companies pulled out of Fla after the last Hurricane..they were picking and choosing who to insure and they were told they have to take them all (that applied) or none......much better since the crooked ones have left town.

our kids get free college as long as they maintain a 3.00 or better,

Do a search,,,it called the Bright Futures Scholarship..automatic tuition paid and granted acceptance to any in-state university,,,but the Bush boys have already elevated the standards..word is, he's gonna gut it completely...they need to keep the future generations dumbed down for the Bush girls and Jeb's oldest son.

(That has to be a trememndous drain on the state's budget. Considering that there is no state income tax, and considering the homestead exemption for real estate tax, most of the state's income, comes from taxes on tourism. Is that enough to take care of the state's infrastructure needs, as well as potentially fund all resident children for college? _
Other taxes make up for it....extra city taxes, county taxes on hotels, certain services, etc. Looking at the homestead exemptions,,you hit it right on the nail,,many folks own homes up north AND here, the up north home being the primary,,,,,,,,,,,,you can only imagine what they pay without the homestead.........what it amounts to, is heavily taxing the tourists, in several ways..although, I never thought it possible, but I can see the middle class being taxed out of my county in years to come...circa Palm Beach.

Hmmm...tough question.........my daughter is in university now and since she would be grandfathered in, my own selfish choice would be "no". Not only have income taxes by the state been soundly defeated and trounced at every mention, it usually equals political suicide for the one who dared raise such an albatross of an idea. I guess I'd rather be like the rest of the country (dependent on private pay, loans, granst, etc) than have a state incom tax..but word is, that program is on the chopping block..I can make this predicition..if G Bush succeeds in a re-election, this program will be gone, as Jeb is in till 2006.

Which is why Bush will lose the Fla vote next election..he screwed the nations largest contingency of medicare recipients by being completely apathetic to their conditions...dunno how much of this is making national news,,but a few businesses (NOT pharmacies) have opened around here filling seniors prescriptions from Mexico and Canada.....example: A common blood thinner an elderly relative is on costs 289.00 per prescription. The business filling prescriptionsthrough Canada and Mexico, filled the same prescription, or I should more accurately say "Obtained" the same prescription, for 48.75, us a 50.00 service fee,,it's a no brainer....well, the success of such companies has made King George angry, and he sent the heavy hand of the feds down on these companies,,they were subpoened with an order to cease and desist..they are are now openly operating in defiance of federal law..the seniors are livid,,,,,,,,,they have organized actual bus trips, the kind that would take you on a vacation, like a tour bus,,,they charter these things to Canada for drugs.....nope...methinks Bush is gonna lose Florida in a huge way,,and if I can remember correctly,,no one ever became president who didn;t carry the voters in Florida, with the exception of our sitting duck....

...crime
outside the big cities is just about non-existent in the smal knit communites.

(That's true here as well.)

Yea,,,hey,,I KNOW there some super fine places in the north,,absolutely gorgeous in the Allegheny Forest,,,Warren Forest, love camping in that state..spent time in Punxatawney, been to Kinzua Dam, Amish country of course, and a a few other places.

Sure there are..we have many clear lakes made by springs,,do a search on the Devils Den, Blue Sink, Ginny Springs,,,just two weekends ago I paddled the canoe up the Weeki Wachee River for some bass fishing,,,12 miles of 100% clarity, white sandy bottom, and white sandy beaches, and not a single gator.....we saw some kids actually "swimming" the LENGTH of it, not the width, all the way to the Gulf.

And as far as mountains,,,,we have Mt. Dora <g>,,seriously,..a trip down the Suwannee river and you'll think you;re back up north....clean spring fed waters, and in the upper portion about 30 miles after it enters Florida, there are high, limestone cliffs on both sides that will make you swear you are in a canyon out west.
But you got me on the summertime weather.....eventually, we will be spending the retirement years up north in the mountains each summer for 3 or 4 months,,,the rest of the time will be spent here,,,don't wanna lose the homestead exemption....:)

(It seems that there are no "perfect" places to live. Every place has advantages and disadvantages. It comes down to making the best matches you can, to suit your needs.
If I could have Pa. country, with Florida's cost of living, San Diego's weather, and Minnisota's lakes, I'd move there.)

Ahhh,,the intrepid Boundary Waters,,,,,must concur,,,but I also must admit, I do so enjoy diving off the boats into warm tropical waters.....but hey,, here in Tampa Bay, we do NOT have the cost of living that the rest of Florida enjoys,,especially in this county,,we did enjoy it up until 1990 or so, but the population has swelled astronomically since then, and so have costs. I have several sisters, all in the northeast, which is what takes me to Pa every so often......about the only thing that hasn't caught up with the rest of the country are, like you alluded the other day,,the wages. I see folks move here all the time from an "up north-type" union job and go right back to where they came from when they realize that 32 bucks an hour job they had is only gonna bring them half that. I can think of one thing that would have me moving...a severe oil spill here..I'd probably go to one of the eastern coastal towns.........got a buddy here who is getting ready to make a move and business venture to the other coast, not far from Melbourne.....he makes decent cash now, but he wants more territory that isn't as saturated as this area with his line of work.

and we don't live in a hurry,
therefore making the word "stress" practically non-existent.

(That was one of the things about the south, that appealed the most to me.)
    Not much has changed.

(If more "yankee" industries move there, much of the yankee attitude will too. Give it time...)

I swear, back when I first read about "road rage", I thought it was something they were attributing to the tourists...but hey, I don't bitch about them (well, ok, in come cases I do) 'cause buddy, when I get up north on them mountain roads, I get my revenge <g>..I drive real slow and when they see the Fla plates, they are usually pretty sympathetic, thinking "There's another of those old coots from fla that can't drive".....but,,it's pretty flat and straight here,,I can;t understand why an out of state plate, that would do 60 or 70 (on a road like route 30), would do 20 in a 55 or 65 mph zone on our EIGHT lane main artery that is flat, and for the most part, perfectly straight....

   A man's word is his honor and many business deals are still reached over a handshake and fishing.

(Same here, only it's usually over a round of golf. Something I never learned to enjoy.)

Shoot, see, we have something in common..the only thing more boring than playing golf is watching it...ever played Frisbee Golf? It's pretty cool and even a sanctioned sport,,even have a few courses near you (Philly).

(Actually, I have seen frisbee golf. I thought it was something invented by a few bored college students. I didn't realize it had caught on as a "sport". And BTW, I'd rather watch paint dry, than watch a game of golf.
Then again, the only sports I do enjoy watching, are Football, and an occasional offshore boat race.)

Hehe..yea,,watching it sucks....that frisbee thing may have originated with college kids out in Ca,,but it sure caught on big,,I am aware of it because the world champion (there really is such a thing) lives in Clearwater...they fly him around the country all year to play f risbee golf and the dude makes 6 figures..endoresements, products,,..I watched this dude play before and it's like watching any performance artist.the "holes" are metal garbage can looking things,,there are drivers, putters, etc,,all sanctioned weight in grams are strict enforcement of such......played the exact same way as golf,,,,,,,to watch one of these tournaments and to see someone like this champion whip a frisbee a few hundred yards, up and oversome trees, with a curve back BEHIND the trees, and hit the basket (There have been holes in ones, I've seen it HIT the basket, but never actually witness a hole-in-one) on his first shot..unreal.....I was a frisbee freak from way back.....this fairly new sport has folks our ages active in leagues ,,,,and the wagers are the same as one would find on a regular golf course...I suck at the game, though,,I can match most of these guys for distance, but whe it comes to "driving" it home, most of these guys are all par 3's, as are most of the courses I've seen....Iv'e managed a few par 3's, but six or seven is more like my style.

..the yankee ladies love us cause our southern twang crossed with our southern manners of holding and opening doors for ALL women and the fact that we say "yes ma'am" and "no ma'am" all the time makes us absolutely irresistible.

(I guess it depends on the woman. I've known many who get insulted if you try any of that on them. That's what "liberation" gets you.)

Yea,,I know the type,,then they flex their anchor tattoo.

(They're not all "butch" types. But they do have that "independent" attitude.)

(The same thing can be said for Jamaica or the Bahamas.)

Yea,,but have you ever actually been there?

>Twice.

Then you know.

I've been to Negril and Freeport,,,,Jamaica, I can see,,the Bahamas are like Miami now,,,dirty and corrupt.

(Yea, but take a trip to the Exuma islands, for some real paradise.....)

I have been hearing, on a semi-regular basis from those who own sailboats, some really outrageously good things about Belize...may have to look into these Exuma islands, as well.

.but, I must say that the Keys have them both beat..the women come on down there and would much rather boogie to Jimmy Buffet than some rap garbage the Bahamas, and even Jamaica is now playing.

(Actually, when I was there in the Bahamas, the popular music was a sort of Reggae, that the locals refered to as "Callipso". I actually got to enjoy it, as it seemed to resonate with the island mood.)

And that's how Jamaica was years ag,,,solid reggae, real island music.,,,,now it's all rap.

..plus, that southern twang usually wins over the British accent each time.

(I guess that's a matter of personal taste.)

Yea..I just tossed that out there for some input from our Brit friends.......now,,bring a Brit lass to the beach, ask her to walk up to the nearest volleyball game and ask if she can join, and she'll have guys on the beach tripping over each other to accomodate her lovely accent.

Fact number two:
2. You damn yankees are moving south in record numbers.

(Hey, some of us like the weather. But most of us can't take the cut in pay either, until we retire. Then the lower cost of living in the south, helps to stretch that fixed income.)

No doubt about it, and no problem with that...but I get to chuckling when I see places open with names such as "Big Apple Restaurant" ,,or,, "Chicago Skyline Chili and Hot Dogs", or my personal favorite "Original Philly Cheesesteaks."

(Hey, If Hispanics can turn parts of the south into little Havana, then a few yankees can bring a few pieces of home with them as well.....)

Oh, I don't mind,,,I just watch them struggle, mortgage their homes they bought after selling their homes up north, and slowly go under. Difference is, the Hispanics have an entire culture to sell to, almost like nepotism,,they will patronize only Hispanic businesses, even if they must go out of their way,,same with the Greeks,,,but Philly people cohesing and pullling together to patronize only Philly restaurants or businesses? Never, ever happen....

(Yea, but Florida locals will learn to love a good Cheesesteak as well. Who said that a business like that, needs to cater only to other wayward yankees? I never realized how regional some things are, until I once ordered a "steak sandwich" in San Jose, and got a hunk of steak on a bun, with a slice of american cheese, and a hunk of lettuce and a tomato. Please!)

Damn, Dave,,,San Jose.....I think I would have kept driving..haha.....

(even such staples as Pizza, are served sort of "wierd" depending on where you go.)

Aw, man, tell me about it,,,we stopped at a "Subway" in the sticks of Ga a few years ago and we all took a bite at the same time and we just stopped and looked at each other....it was a classic moment,,one we learned a valuable lesson from. Didn't even resemble a "Subway"from what we know.

After these yankees lose their asses and retirement nuts in such poorly planned and researched endeavors, the retirees are forced to go back to work,,the fast food restaurants are loaded with the working elderly, and I doubt you will find a bag boy in any of the Publix supermarkets under the age of retirement. But don't get me wrong,,it's all good,,,I have no problem taking a yankees weeks wages for a Ballyhoo or Tarpon filled morning or afternoon...shux Dave, now that I think about, you're a quarter of the way there with your boat, _ (My boat does not lend itself well to fishing. Although I might be one of the first ones out to the shelf.....)

Island hopping....

(Oh yea, I could do some "hopping" alright ;)

and you stay tan year 'round.

((Recent health studies have concluded that that may not be a good

Agreed,,,,but when you're skin has been leathered like a gator for years and years, I guess the only thing left to do is wait for the dermatologist to clear his throat before speaking.....

(I would venture to say that those who have skin, that has been exposed to gradual tanning for many years, have probably built up a tolerance to UV damage to some degree. I don't know if the incidents of skin cancer, are more concentrated in southern areas.)

I think I know 4 folks right off the bat that had a type of skin cancer.... nothing more painful than seeing a really super white body that you know hasn't seen the sun in years, burned to the point of blister..the hospitals and clinics always are busy during spring break...each day the radio stations give the UV index (time 'till burn) and I have neverheard it be more than 40 minutes, give or take,,it's usually much less.

now that I think about it, a yankee just started an "island hopper" with an airboat service,,plenty of boat shuttles and dolphin cruises and sightseeing tours,,but this boy found a niche and ran with it,,he no longer is considered a yankee..says he 'shoulda done this thutty years ago".

(Heck, I once toyed with the idea, of buying 10 jetskis, and moving to the Bahamas. With no income tax, and at the typical $30/ half hour rental rate, it doesn't take much arithmatic to see the potential.)

Thats what they charge here,,but many were shut down in a sting two months ago,,,,none of them were carrying the super expensive liability insurance.....

(Another reason to go to the Bahamas for a business like that. In Florida, it's becoming a real issue between jetski's, boaters, waterfront property owners, save the manatee and seegrass people, etc.
Far too many no-wake zones, and other regulations.)

The manatee problem really is a serious thing,,,it's heartbreaking to see these huge, lovable, vegetarian, gentle giants of a creature with deep and massive prop scars. Saw a baby last year with 3 scars already,,,,,,these things will come right up to you and actually play with you, if they feel comfortable. I was once in Crystal River and we counted 38 of them and there were three of swimming among them.......

Sugar, Dave,..sugar is the king here,,,followed by fruit...,tobacco doesn't even make a dent here......

(Remember, we're talking about "the south", not just Florida.)

South Carolina mostly.......

(Rog-o!)

Fact number four:
4. Number one is cool..we can all do without number two <g>.

That reminds me of an old saying, "Look out for number 1, and don't step in any number 2".
Dave
"Sandbagger"

Touche.

[ANTITWISTEDHED] VACUUM TUBE BASICS

1. What do the numbers and letters in a tube's name mean?

There are several different tube numbering systems that you may see on tubes, which generally are a result of where they were built. Most commonly the numbers contain digits only (e.g. 5751), or are some combination of numbers and letters (12AX7, ECC83, CV4004). These different numbering systems may be from the American or British military, or from American or European industrial or consumer use, and then of course there are many strange exceptions. But to use the notation commonly seen in the United States, here is the meaning of "12AX7":

12 - the filament voltage AX - an arbitrary model number 7 - the number of internal elements, including the filament

To make things more complicated, many tubes have letters after the name, such as 6L6WGB, 6L6GC.
Sometimes these letters mean functionally nothing (design revisions) and sometimes they refer to different voltage capabilities of a given type.The bottom line for buying tubes: there are many different tube substitution possibilities for those wishing to push the limits in the quest for unique performance, but straightforward substitution is for those who just want to re-tube without any extra concerns.

The AntiTwistedhed Technical Discussion is intended to make Twistedhed irrelevant to the newsgroup by stimulating technical discussion on radio topics.

MESSAGE FROM CENTCOM 4-08-03

We are winning against Twistedhed. The people of rec.radio.cb are still fearful of rising up against him. They think we will abandon them like we did last time. Nothing is futher from the truth. Now we begin our humanitarian campaign to feed the people of rec.radio.cb with knowledge. We will win thier hearts and minds by coming not as conquerors, but as liberators. We will give their forum back to them by setting up a new newsgroup structure free from Twistedhed, one that represents all the people.

hmmmm the way this guys english is presented looks textbook, not real time...there will be japanese trucks and eventually cars as its a money thing. c'mon look at the nfl in europe and the nba on tv in asia with
yao. nascar is out to make money and if it includes having fukumoto (sp) driving and finishing 43rd at least its a showing. sports is a business and the real test is if the fans applaud dale jr winning in a toyota then nascar has come full circle. stranger shit has happened....

That guy is lost as last years easter egg. He will not believe anything. Some needs to tie him up to a Abrams tank and drive him around town.

He's classic radical muslim fundamentalist..many of those in Iraq do not WANT "liberated" as we construe "liberation". To "indulge" in such American mannerisms, such as democracy, is taken by many radicals as a personal insult and affront to Allah, in other words,,to allow American-type democracy is too hedonistic, born of sin to much of their culture. Odd thing,,even the BBC is showing what our sanitized American news isn't....the mayhem and gore and those defiant against our presence,,,lucky us, we get to see the minority of the Iraqi people cheering us...the entire world is viewing this world with at least equal coverage to the devastation and deaths.....but not us......we get nonsensationalized calculated figures and stats,,,,,,not much more...oh we get a few bangs and fireballs, but it's way too desensitized...in all fairness, I think Bush actually believes he is making the world a better place,,,it's just a shame he's too damn much of an idiot to realize his word isn't deity-like or king-like status, although he wants it to be....damn shame when the invasion was first planned it was all about "security of the US and ridding the world of mass destructiion weapons",,,and then, a magical and interesting thing happened,,,,Bush' popularity waned and it suddenly became about "liberatiing the Iraqi people". Democracy can not be forced upon any culture, which, unfortunately, is going to be a very long and expensive lesson for those who blindly fell in line behind Bush and swallowed his flip flops and accepted his change of strategies without question. If Bush persues his imaginary "axis-of-evil" that in reality is a "plethora-of-problems" for all but the blue-est blood, world war is in the makings.......read Cheney's old book..it outlines his plan for economic global dominance, originating with the evil criminals of the Reagan years... the Eurodollar was one the first implementations, and stablity, even if a world war is "necessary" trying, in the middle east, is another objective,,,by "stability",,it's randomly easy to guess who controls such stabilization....
Soap box on Iraq now destroyed...

Ahh, yes! Magnetic Base antennea... Not the best, but certainly not the worst for a temporary setup or some sorts!... Ok! Thank you for the update/translation of the problem and solution.

True. But in that case, many older people prefer the dry heat, of places like Arizona. It's a lot more tolerable than the humid air in Florida

You're not alone. Many states and counties are facing a budget crisis right now. Many mayors and Governors are facing the tough choice of either raising or creating new taxes, or ending many programs, or laying off government workers.

Which is precisely the dilemma that many community leaders are in right now. No one wants higher taxes, but the money has to come from somewhere, or else the things that drain the budget have to be trimmed back.

It really should be independant of politics. It's a matter of simple accounting. You either have to increase the money coming in (taxes), or decrease the money going out (cutting programs).

I don't believe that he's insensitive to their needs. The issue is much tougher than what one man can fix. The problem is the cost of medicine.
In a free market economy, something will sell, for what people are willing (or able) to pay for it. If you add an insurance suppliment, you allow drug companies to artificially inflate the cost of drugs, as the insurance companies pick up the lion's share of the cost. Without insurance, the drugs would not be able to be sold at the prices charged, which would force the prices down. As long as we keep increasing insurance suppliments, we are only making the problem worse. You give a good example of the differences in costs with your next statement:

>..dunno how much of this is making > national news,,but a few businesses (NOT pharmacies) have opened around > here filling seniors prescriptions from Mexico and Canada.....example:
> A common blood thinner an elderly relative is on costs 289.00 per > fee,,it's a no brainer.

In Mexico, and other areas, where private insurance is not as popular, and the people are generally poorer, the costs of these drugs has to be lower if they expect to sell them in these markets.
The medical cost crisis that we find ourselves in right now is an example of what happens when you have a free market on the supply side, and a somewhat socialized system (insurance) on the demand side. As long as insurance continues to pay, the costs will continue to rise. Any new laws that increase coverages to seniors, or anyone else, will only exacerbate the problem, and spread the spiraling costs out to the rest of the taxpayers. The costs need to be brought down, if this is to be solved. But capping costs interferes with free market trade. So what's a leader to do?

>...well, the success of such companies has made > King George angry, and he sent the heavy hand of the feds down on these

They are violating federal trade laws. It has nothing to do with Bush's personal views. We have laws that address practices like this. They were in place long before Bush took office.

> our sitting duck....

Bush didn't create this problem, and anyone who truly understands the dynamics of the issue, knows that there is no easy way to solve it. Proposing a band-aid solution, like a huge increase in medicare, might make a few people happy in the short term. But the drug companies will only raise their costs again, to cover the increase in suppliments. Meanwhile our federal SS taxes will have to go up, to cover the increased cost that the medicare coverage would create.

I've never been to "north" Florida. Mostly central and southern parts.
In those areas, the lakes are just deeper extensions of the swamps, and most are not terribly deep. And yes, I'm a bit leary of gators. Nothing like waterskiing in gator country, for a real thrill ;) And the south part is FLAT. When you're used to looking out and seeing rolling hills everywhere, the contrast is readily apparent, when you visit south Florida.

That's why I mentioned San Diego, for weather. It's rarely at an extreme on either side of the mercury. But I wouldn't live in California. Too many people!

Sure. I was amazed at how far down you can see in southern waters. I could see the bottom, 50 feet down, in the Bahamas. I'm lucky if I can see my toes on the Jersey Shore.

Yep. The places where you are most likely to find gainful employement, are also the ones where the costs have gone up. Also, the west coast (Tampa/ Clearwater) is a big retirement area. Lots of slow moving Buicks

Melbourne is where I had set my sights on, 12 years ago, when I was seriously looking to move south. The costs were reletively good, but increasing. Housing was booming, and there were several great engineering opportunities, supporting NASA, and other electronics companies. But even engineers are paid really poorly. You know you're in for a shock when the interviewer warns you upfront not to expect to make what you're used to.

People who are lost tend to drive that way. It's tough for the locals, to have to deal with a fairly high percentage of tourists (Many of whom have a hard time remembering to drive on the right), who don't know the roads. Every 5th car has a rental sticker on it.

There was a semi-infamous ham who used to live in Belize. V31BB. He died tragically, when he was reaching into his amplifier, and accidently hit the B+ and fried himself.

I hear Belize is a nice place. But it's surrounded by some not so nice places, and it's a hurricane magnet.

Which, as I understand it, is also illegal. They don't want people feeding or playing with them. Shame though. I'd be one of the ones swimming with them.

You are correct, it is VERY obvious where your jealousy originates.
It's very clear that you get upset when anyone else demonstrates personal integrity -- i.e, whenever someone is honest about their identity, has no need for multiple aliases, backs up their statements

Well, sort of. Both applications are based on the fact that a 1/4w section of line inverts the phase of the signals. For a 1/4w matching section, Zo = sqrt(ZinZout). Changing that equation around a bit we get Zout = Zo(Zo/Zin), which is the equation that describes your "opposite end impedance" concept. The only problem with both of these applications is that they are practical only when each end of the 1/4w line is terminated with pure (or mostly pure) resistance -- i.e, little or no phase mismatch. For example, when designing a 1/4w matching section, the main feedline must be flat and the antenna must be resonant (a resistive load) or else it doesn't work. So a 1/4w section of line doesn't really invert the impedance, just the phase.

[ANTITWISTEDHED] RF GROUNDING

Concerned that by connecting a receiver to an outside ground you are creating a ground loop that involves house wiring?

You may have a "ground loop". It's harmless. In case of a nearby lightning strike it may actually save your receiver. Take steps to prevent the coax ground potential from getting wildly out of kilter with the line potential and arcing through the power supply. Use a surge supressor designed to protect video equipment: it has both AC outlets and feedthroughs with varistor or gas tube clamps to keep the various relative voltages in check. Of course the best lightning protection is to disconnect the receiver.

You may have discovered that the main ground from the electrical service panel in your house is attached to a water pipe which has been painted over. Stripping the paint from the pipe and re-attached the grounding clamp, you will notice a reduction in noise from your receiver.

Not only did you improve reception, but your wiring is safer for having a good ground. I suspect part of the reason there's so much noise from neighbors' appliances on electric lines may be that a house's main ground wire is quite long. The electrical service comes in at a corner of the house (which is where the breaker box is), while the water (to which the ground wire is clamped) enters at another corner. All perfectly up to code and okay at 60 Hz, but lousy at RF: if it was shorter, presumably more of the noise current would want to go that way, and stay away from the receiver.

What constitues an adequate ground? Depends on what you're doing. If you're trying to get maximum signal transfer with a short loaded (resonant) vertical antenna with a radiation resistance of, say, 10 ohms, 20 ohms of ground resistance is going to be a big deal. If you're transmitting 50 kW, your ground resistance had better be really tiny or things are going to smoke, melt or arc. On the other hand, a ground with a resistance of 20 ohms is going to be fairly effective at grounding a cable with a common mode characteristic impedance of a few hundred ohms (the characteristic impedance printed on the cable is for the differential mode; the common mode characteristic impedance depends somewhat on the distance of the cable from other conductors, but is usually in the range of hundreds of ohms). Of course, if it was lower a single ground might do the whole job (but watch out for mutual inductance coupling separate conductors as they approach your single ground).

In addition, a ground with a resistance of 20 ohms is fine for an unbalanced antenna fed with a high impedance transformer to supress resonance. Such a nonresonant antenna isn't particularly efficient, but high efficiency is not required for good reception at HF and below (not true for VHF and especially microwave frequencies).

Much antenna lore comes from folks with transmitters who, armed with the "reciprocity" principle, assume that reception is the same problem. The reciprocity principle says that an antenna's transmission and reception properties are closely related: it's good physics, but it ignores the fact that the virtues required of a transmitting and receiving antenna are somewhat different. Inefficiency in a transmitting antenna has a direct, proportional effect on the received signal to noise ratio. On the other hand, moderate inefficiency in an HF receiving antenna usually has a negligible effect on the final result. A few picowatts of excess noise on a transmitting antenna has no effect on its function, but is a big deal if you're receiving (of course, one might not want to have transmitter power going out via unintended paths like utility lines: this is indeed the "reciprocal" of the conducted noise problem, and has similar solutions).

If you want to dispell some CB mythology, how about discussing the phrase "common mode"? There is so much techo-babble attributed to "common-mode currents" that the term is overused and poorly understood. Briefly, "common mode" means "signals that are identical with respect to both amplitude and time"; i.e, the voltage and current are in phase with each other. Perhaps you can elaborate on why the phrase is so poorly used and abused....

If that's what the Iraqi people want, more power to them. At least they will have the ability to choose such a government, instead of living with an authoritarian dictatorship imposed upon them by a warped power-monger and his self-serving misinterpretation of Islam. The difference is that they can set up a government where they have the power to oust political misfits such as Saddam, or at least limit their power and/or time in office. Didn't you learn anything in school?

'Bout $40, CL. The 146GTL is the equivalent of the Uniden PC122. A decent SSB rig, but nowhere near the equal of the Iniden Grant XL/LT. (The orig. 148GTL.) Hope that helps. Take care now.

Thank You Frank., I appreciate the flowers. btw, I did take care of the

The only problem with George jamming someone using a linear is, that he also jams others that are on the same frequency, thus he too is then illegal.

I've been here Frank, George has been constantly kill filed, so that problem has been reduced. I was not happy to kill file Dave Hall, because of the constant responses to Twist's trolling, but kill filling both Twist and Dave was the only fair way of getting rid of the BS posts.

The Cobra 146/TRC-451 are an older style then the PC-122. They have more discrete components. PC-122's have more IC's and are smaller & lighter.

The BALLPARK:
I agree on the $40 worth. They are known for cold solder joints and strange "gremlins" in the operation of the radio.

Nobody except Dave or Debby uses 8 tracks anymore. We've all gone with CD burners. I fill 'em with MP3's. Plays for hours.

Twisteded: I managed to hold on to a few tapes and we have an old "Hi-fi" that was a wedding present the inlaws received during the esoteric period <g>. The 8 track in the thing actually works, but the turntable plays a bit fast..one of the "Steppenwolf" tapes still plays...even says "recorded in stereo" so I know the quality is there (haha).....won't convince me of the superiority of CD's, except for the sake of versatility, but to me, it's all about the live sound, man, the sound,,nuthin' like the sweet, sweet sound of vinyl, (LOVE that old live Skynyrd album, "One More for/from The Road")....there with all the nuances, mistakes, and out of place riffs and coughs that make it HUMAN,,,never heard a sweeter "Tuesday's Gone",,Billy Powell, just a gittin' on down) or check out theat live rendition of "Gimme 3 Steps"...now I have that CD also,,,,,,big, big difference,,,sounds FLAT, almost mechanical (which it is) and nothing like the vinyl.
DAT has its merits..but I never really grew super fond of any of the tapers equipment for DAT....I know I''m preaching to the choir,.....and I always feel good, but now I feel better. :)

Allow me to refocus your uncontrollable penchant for wandering off topic. The original post was to make contact on sideband, DX, with one using a linear. The receiving end, an out of state DXer, has no way of knowing if the person is using a linear when the DX is hopping. You can sling all the bullshit you wish, it doesn't change the fact that you are look to me for "leadership:? As I told Geogre, I am not his mother, now I will tell you, I am not your mother,,although there would probably be a remote possibility I COULD be your father, Luke, er, Frank, er,

(You are correct, it is VERY obvious where your jealousy originates.)

Of course I am correct,,,I am always correct when putting you in your place. Although, your communication deficit has manifested,,through anger I would assume,,,,you are seeing things that aren't present. Re-read it above, I am not a jealous man, I have more riches than most men....the good Lord has always seen to it that I do...perhaps some of that may be traceable to the fact that "riches" to me are not equated monetarily, necessarily. I value health and family and even friends way beyond any pmaterial possessions..plus, I thank the man upstairs daily,,even if I think it was a lousy day, I still give thanks, as I know many have it more unfortunate than I,,,,,I merely need tune in here and watch you and your ilk to be reminded of how blessed and fortunate I truly am.

(It's very clear that you get upset when anyone else demonstrates personal integrity)

LOL...that's pretty funny,,,,,you know nothing of the word....and the fact that I have a great relationship with everyone on this forum who DOES have integrity, kinda places you on stage where everyone can watch you shoot yourself in the foot while attempting to draw down for your imaginary war and battle..LOL..

(-- i.e, whenever someone is honest about their identity, has no need for multiple aliases, backs up their statements with facts, etc, -- the very same qualities which are beyond your minimum level of moral achievement.)

Uh-oh,,,,,and here I thought I was dealing with someone who didn't suffer from an inferiority complex. Communication deficit, yes,,inferiority complex, no...but it's clear you have both....What was it that set you off this time? The poor spelling that gave you away? Again, you cry to the messenger, about the messenger...hehhe. You make the usual "Arrogance arrived through ignorance" mistake that someone actually cares about your identity.

(It's not suprising that you are compelled to rebel against those people using the extreme opposite behaviors which you envy.)

YeP,,,you guessed,it...,I envy Geogre's use of misdirected anger and threats to the group, and his homophobe/homosexual remarks to many. I envy N8's knack ability for carnal terror.
I envy your inabilty to control and manage your inadequacies and insecurities. I envy Lelnad's threats of violence and stated beliefs for shooting those he does not agree with. Did I leave anyone out?

(I guess that means you will never own up to your forging of N7VCF or your accusations of me being a child molester,)

Never happened. If it did, you would have wet yourself in your haste to post them. Instead, you wet yourself at leisure.

(but it's not like anyone could ever expect you to take responsibility for your own actions -- you are "Twistedhed, the RRCB Punchclown" --)

And this term you conjured up bothers you why, now? Oh, I get it,,that communication deficit,,you didn't like it when it was shown that your use of terms are made up, just like everything else in your imaginary world where you serve only I.

(what else could anyone expect from you? Honesty? LOL...)

Everyone is aware I am the bastion of integrity..it's why you and Geogre devote so much time to my posting history,,you're ate up with the fact that cb is anonymous. Deal with your rapidly diminishing fragile psyche.

(Oh, I do indeed matter, Twist. In fact, I matter so much to you that you are afraid of giving a direct answer to my question. Care to try again? Who am I this week, Twist?)

Your question matters to none but yourself. Your annoyance over my complacency is readily apparent. Identity has never mattered on cb. Your impotence at making identity an issue in a cb forum has long been one of your downfalls and self-deprecating behaviors. Again, get God in your life,,,you will see that what I say doesn't matter,,its not a difficult concept to grasp.....he can lead you much better than I, despite your resistance and insistence.

Of course,,you clarified that with the use of the word "maybe" in your original quote..but it does illustrate a certain hypocrisy concerning your behavior and views concerning laws.......it clearly defines your willing possibility to break an FCC law. But hey, I dont care what you do,,if you wanna jam someone, go right ahead.,,,

No contradiction. I always maintained I am no ones mother and I don't Care to share what it was :) <g>

If you want to dispell some CB mythology, how about discussing the phrase "common mode"? There is so much techo-babble attributed to "common-mode currents" that the term is overused and poorly understood.
Briefly, "common mode" means "signals that are identical with respect to both amplitude and time"; i.e, the voltage and current are in phase with each other. Perhaps you can elaborate on why the phrase is so poorly used and abused....

HAHAHAHAHHAH....poor lid..Frank never mispelled as bad as

I've been here Frank, George has been constantly

but kill filling both Twist and Dave was the only fair way of getting That's great, shark. I'm not prejudiced in any manner whatsoever,,,,I give credit where credit is due, so I take no problem in agreeing with Geogre on certain points,,as I maintained once, he has some valid points, he just isn't the most talented when attempting to convey his thoughts, points and ideas. However, one claim he made about you has me re-examining what I tossed aside as bullshit,,,,..if you would take any time at all, you would see that 99 percent of my posts are in response to another who feels they must make me their topic of choice, a reponse to a troll, maybe, but nevertheless ....to make such a blunder and blame your inability to be "happy" in this, or any ng, on me, or any other, is childish and foolish. I have nothing against killfiles, but I have, and always maintained, killfiles are for the weak of mind.

Most adults can exercise what they choose to read without resorting to censoring themselves..for crying out loud, even Geogre doesn't killfile...of course there are exceptions to every rule, such as a prolific spamming domain or flooder,.........

I read all the posts,,even N8's....you see me responding to n8? No,,but I read them,,why? Because I believe everyone has a redeeming quality somehow, somewhere, and in my own and humble opinion, everyone, can teach another knowledge in some manner. Nevertheless, you appear to have a full plate.

Lost another, who wnats to be Frank Gilliland, said:
(If that's what the Iraqi people want, more power to them. At least they will have the ability to choose such a government, instead of living with an authoritarian dictatorship imposed upon them by a warped power-monger and his self-serving misinterpretation of Islam.)

Given the choice, they will more than likely bastardize the religion, much like foreigners do with their faith upon living in America for a certain amount of time. The hard-core aspects of many religions tend to get watered down when Americanized.

(The difference is that they can set up a government where they have the power to oust political misfits such as Saddam, or at least limit their power and/or time in office. Didn't you learn anything in school?)

Sure I did. I learned enough to know that Gilliland as never as ignorant as you.

Haven't we been through this already? Try reading Part 15,

No doubt that plays a part,,but check it out,,,,lets focus on the seniors,,the age we hope to achieve before assuming room status....when the cold hits the aging bones,they hurt,,,when they hurt, I don't care what y'a wanna do,,the mind may be willing, but the body just ain't gonna do it.
(True. But in that case, many older people prefer the dry heat, of places like Arizona. It's a lot more tolerable than the humid air in Florida)
_
My brother is stationed out of Tucson. I camped in Sedona and another area I forget, but I missed the water...at least here you have an idea when you are burning,,not out there.
our kids get free college as long as they maintain a 3.00 or better, (That's interesting. I was unaware of that.)
_
Do a search,,,it called the Bright Futures Scholarship..automatic tuition paid and granted acceptance to any in-state university,,,but the Bush boys have already elevated the standards..word is, he's gonna gut it completely...they need to keep the future generations dumbed down for the Bush girls and Jeb's oldest son.
(That has to be a trememndous drain on the state's budget. Considering that there is no state income tax, and considering the homestead exemption for real estate tax, most of the state's income, comes from taxes on tourism. Is that enough to take care of the state's infrastructure needs, as well as potentially fund all resident children for college? _
Other taxes make up for it....extra city taxes, county taxes on hotels, certain services, etc. Looking at the homestead exemptions,,you hit it right on the nail,,many folks own homes up north AND here, the up north home being the primary,,,,,,,,,,,,you can only imagine what they pay without the homestead.........what it amounts to, is heavily taxing the tourists, in several ways..although, I never thought it possible, but I can see the middle class being taxed out of my county in years to come...circa Palm Beach.

(You're not alone. Many states and counties are facing a budget crisis right now. Many mayors and Governors are facing the tough choice of either raising or creating new taxes, or ending many programs, or laying off government workers.)

Yup,,state deficits are at record levels and with the feds cutting state monies,,it's gonna get worse..

(Would you be willing to start paying a state income tax to keep this program alive?)

Hmmm...tough question.....my daughter is in university now and since she would be grandfathered in, my own selfish choice would be "no". Not only have income taxes by the state been soundly defeated and trounced at every mention, it usually equals political suicide for the one who dared raise such an albatross of an idea.

(Which is precisely the dilemma that many community leaders are in right now. No one wants higher taxes, but the money has to come from somewhere, or else the things that drain the budget have to be trimmed back.)

I wonder who would be elected on honesty these days...one who readily says "We must taxes".

I guess I'd rather be like the rest of the country (dependent on private pay, loans, granst, etc) than have a state incom tax..but word is, that program is on the chopping block..I can make this predicition..if G Bush succeeds in a re-election, this program will be gone, as Jeb is in till 2006.

(It really should be independant of politics.)

We can dream, hey.....

(It's a matter of simple accounting. You either have to increase the money coming in (taxes), or decrease the money going out (cutting programs).

I know it.....it burns me that some foreign students get free rides on our governement when there exist plenty of bright and articulated American poor kids that could cut the mustard in their place.

(That might be the choice you'll have to make. Considering the number of senior citizens who live there, who are not concerned with education, that vote will be a close one.....)

Which is why Bush will lose the Fla vote next election..he screwed the nations largest contingency of medicare recipients by being completely apathetic to their conditions.

(I don't believe that he's insensitive to their needs. The issue is much tougher than what one man can fix. The problem is the cost of medicine. In a free market economy, something will sell, for what people are willing (or able) to pay for it. If you add an insurance suppliment, you allow drug companies to artificially inflate the cost of drugs, as the insurance companies pick up the lion's share of the cost. Without insurance, the drugs would not be able to be sold at the prices charged, which would force the prices down. As long as we keep increasing insurance suppliments, we are only making the problem worse. You give a good example of the differences in costs with your next statement:)

.dunno how much of this is making
national news,,but a few businesses (NOT pharmacies) have opened around here filling seniors prescriptions from Mexico and Canada.....example: A common blood thinner an elderly relative is on costs 289.00 per prescription. The business filling prescriptionsthrough Canada and Mexico, filled the same prescription, or I should more accurately say "Obtained" the same prescription, for 48.75, us a 50.00 service fee,,it's a no brainer.

(In Mexico, and other areas, where private insurance is not as popular, and the people are generally poorer, the costs of these drugs has to be lower if they expect to sell them in these markets. The medical cost crisis that we find ourselves in right now is an example of what happens when you have a free market on the supply side, and a somewhat socialized system (insurance) on the demand side. As long as insurance continues to pay, the costs will continue to rise. Any new laws that increase coverages to seniors, or anyone else, will only exacerbate the problem, and spread the spiraling costs out to the rest of the taxpayers. The costs need to be brought down, if this is to be solved. But capping costs interferes with free market trade. So what's a leader to do?)

One of my sisters is an RN, and I feel, when medical decisions, such as whether or not to have a surgery (electives excluded) are dictated by the insurance executives and taken away from primary physicians, the box of Pandora was opened never to be closed without complete destruction (dismantling and restructuring the health care system).

..well, the success of such companies has made King George angry, and he sent the heavy hand of the feds down on these companies,,they were subpoened with an order to cease and desist.

Wait just a second,,it has EVERYTHING to do with Bush,,,the medicinal pot clubs in California operated virtually unimpeded through the nineties......Bush is still beholden to the zero tolerance and the war on drugs.......a more direct connection..Bush Sr. was director of the Quayle's family pharmaceutical empire in 72..(YOU know the one) .now you know why such a dunce was selected as his running mate.

they are are now openly operating in defiance of federal law..the seniors are livid,,,,,,,,,they have organized actual bus trips, the kind that would take you on a vacation, like a tour bus,,,they charter these things to Canada for drugs..........nope...methinks Bush is gonna lose Florida in a huge way,,and if I can remember correctly,,no one ever became president who didn;t carry the voters in Florida, with the exception of our sitting duck....

Nahh...he didn't create it, but giving tax relief to those who need it least while many seniors choose between medication and food each month is gonna cost him.

Sure there are..we have many clear lakes made by springs,,do a search on the Devils Den, Blue Sink, Ginny Springs,,,just two weekends ago I paddled the canoe up the Weeki Wachee River for some bass fishing,,,12 miles of 100% clarity, white sandy bottom, and white sandy beaches, and not a single gator.....we saw some kids actually "swimming" the LENGTH of it, not the width, all the way to the Gulf.
And as far as mountains,,,,we have Mt. Dora <g>,,seriously,..a trip down the Suwannee river and you'll think you;re back up north....clean spring fed waters, and in the upper portion about 30 miles after it enters Florida, there are high, limestone cliffs on both sides that will make you swear you are in a canyon out west.
I've never been to "north" Florida. Mostly central and southern parts. In those areas, the lakes are just deeper extensions of the swamps, and most are not terribly deep. And yes, I'm a bit leary of gators. Nothing like waterskiing in gator country, for a real thrill ;) And the south part is FLAT. When you're used to looking out and seeing rolling hills everywhere, the contrast is readily apparent, when you visit south Florida.

But you got me on the summertime weather.....eventually, we will be spending the retirement years up north in the mountains each summer for 3 or 4 months,,,the rest of the time will be spent here,,,don't wanna lose the homestead exemption....:)

(That's why I mentioned San Diego, for weather. It's rarely at an extreme on either side of the mercury. But I wouldn't live in California. Too many people!)

I like northern Cal,,,,like a different state from southern cal,,but no tropical weather.......

(It seems that there are no "perfect" places to live. Every place has advantages and disadvantages. It comes down to making the best matches you can, to suit your needs.

Ahhh,,the intrepid Boundary Waters,,,,,must concur,,,but I also must admit, I do so enjoy diving off the boats into warm tropical waters.

(Sure. I was amazed at how far down you can see in southern waters. I could see the bottom, 50 feet down, in the Bahamas. I'm lucky if I can see my toes on the Jersey Shore.)

..but hey,, here in Tampa Bay, we do NOT have the cost of living that the rest of Florida enjoys,,especially in this county,,we did enjoy it up until 1990 or so, but the population has swelled astronomically since then, and so have costs.

(Yep. The places where you are most likely to find gainful employement, are also the ones where the costs have gone up. Also, the west coast (Tampa/ Clearwater) is a big retirement area. Lots of slow moving Buicks ;)

Got that right. And Lincolns and Caddys.

I have several sisters, all in the northeast, which is what takes me to Pa every so often......about the only thing that hasn't caught up with the rest of the country are, like you alluded the other day,,the wages. I see folks move here all the time from an "up north-type" union job and go right back to where they came from when they realize that 32 bucks an hour job they had is only gonna bring them half that. I can think of one thing that would have me moving...a severe oil spill here..I'd probably go to one of the eastern coastal towns.....got a buddy here who is getting ready to make a move and business venture to the other coast, not far from Melbourne.....he makes decent cash now, but he wants more territory that isn't as saturated as this area with his line of work.

(Melbourne is where I had set my sights on, 12 years ago, when I was seriously looking to move south. The costs were reletively good, but increasing. Housing was booming, and there were several great engineering opportunities, supporting NASA, and other electronics companies. But even engineers are paid really poorly. You know you're in for a shock when the interviewer warns you upfront not to expect to make what you're used to.)

Yea,,that is where one usually makes their decision one way or the other.

(That was one of the things about the south, that appealed the most to me.)

Not much has changed.

(If more "yankee" industries move there, much of the yankee attitude will too. Give it time...)

I swear, back when I first read about "road rage", I thought it was something they were attributing to the tourists...but hey, I don't bitch about them (well, ok, in come cases I do) 'cause buddy, when I get up north on them mountain roads, I get my revenge <g>..I drive real slow and when they see the Fla plates, they are usually pretty sympathetic, thinking "There's another of those old coots from fla that can't drive".....but,,it's pretty flat and straight here,,I can;t understand why an out of state plate, that would do 60 or 70 (on a road like route 30), would do 20 in a 55 or 65 mph zone on our EIGHT lane main artery that is flat, and for the most part, perfectly straight....

(People who are lost tend to drive that way. It's tough for the locals, to have to deal with a fairly high percentage of tourists (Many of whom have a hard time remembering to drive on the right), who don't know the roads. Every 5th car has a rental sticker on it.)

A man's word is his honor and many business deals are still reached over a handshake and fishing.

(Same here, only it's usually over a round of golf. Something I never learned to enjoy.)

Shoot, see, we have something in common..the only thing more boring than playing golf is watching it...ever played Frisbee Golf? It's pretty cool and even a sanctioned sport,,even have a few courses near you (Philly).

(Actually, I have seen frisbee golf. I thought it was something invented by a few bored college students. I didn't realize it had caught on as a "sport". And BTW, I'd rather watch paint dry, than watch a game of golf. Then again, the only sports I do enjoy watching, are Football, and an occasional offshore boat race.)

Hehe..yea,,watching it sucks....that frisbee thing may have originated with college kids out in Ca,,but it sure caught on big,,I am aware of it because the world champion (there really is such a thing) lives in Clearwater...they fly him around the country all year to play f risbee golf and the dude makes 6 figures..endoresements, products,,..I watched this dude play before and it's like watching any performance artist.the "holes" are metal garbage can looking things,,there are drivers, putters, etc,,all sanctioned weight in grams are strict enforcement of such......played the exact same way as golf,,,,,,,to watch one of these tournaments and to see someone like this champion whip a frisbee a few hundred yards, up and oversome trees, with a curve back BEHIND the trees, and hit the basket (There have been holes in ones, I've seen it HIT the basket, but never actually witness a hole-in-one) on his first shot..unreal.....I was a frisbee freak from way back.....this fairly new sport has folks our ages active in leagues ,,,,and the wagers are the same as one would find on a regular golf course...I suck at the game, though,,I can match most of these guys for distance, but whe it comes to "driving" it home, most of these guys are all par 3's, as are most of the courses I've seen....Iv'e managed a few par 3's, but six or seven is more like my style.

(I was quite the "distance" king of frisbee in my younger days. Not very accurate, but it would give the dog a bit of a run.....)

NOW you're talkin......

Yea,,but have you ever actually been there?

>Twice.

Then you know.

I've been to Negril and Freeport,,,,Jamaica, I can see,,the Bahamas are like Miami now,,,dirty and corrupt.

(Yea, but take a trip to the Exuma islands, for some real paradise.....)

I have been hearing, on a semi-regular basis from those who own sailboats, some really outrageously good things about Belize...may have to look into these Exuma islands, as well.

(There was a semi-infamous ham who used to live in Belize. V31BB. He died tragically, when he was reaching into his amplifier, and accidently hit the B+ and fried himself.

I hear Belize is a nice place. But it's surrounded by some not so nice places, and it's a hurricane magnet.)

Yea,,that's exactly why I haven't went yet....

(Actually, when I was there in the Bahamas, the popular music was a sort of Reggae, that the locals refered to as "Callipso". I actually got to enjoy it, as it seemed to resonate with the island mood.)

And that's how Jamaica was years ag,,,solid reggae, real island music.,,,,now it's all rap.

>Yuck!

(Yea, but Florida locals will learn to love a good Cheesesteak as well. Who said that a business like that, needs to cater only to other wayward yankees? I never realized how regional some things are, until I once ordered a "steak sandwich" in San Jose, and got a hunk of steak on a bun, with a slice of american cheese, and a hunk of lettuce and a tomato. Please!)
Damn, Dave,,,San Jose.....I think I would have kept driving..haha.......

(Business trip. Not much I could do. There was always Carl's Jr. But it was at this same place, that I really learned to loath Denny's....)

hehe..when I was out there, Jack in the box were allegedly poisoning folks with bad meat....

Agreed,,,,but when you're skin has been leathered like a gator for years and years, I guess the only thing left to do is wait for the dermatologist to clear his throat before speaking.....

(I would venture to say that those who have skin, that has been exposed to gradual tanning for many years, have probably built up a tolerance to UV damage to some degree. I don't know if the incidents of skin cancer, are more concentrated in southern areas.)

I think I know 4 folks right off the bat that had a type of skin cancer.... nothing more painful than seeing a really super white body that you know hasn't seen the sun in years, burned to the point of blister.

(Those are usually the people most subceptable to skin cancer.)

Thats what they charge here,,but many were shut down in a sting two months ago,,,,none of them were carrying the super expensive liability insurance.....

(Another reason to go to the Bahamas for a business like that. In Florida, it's becoming a real issue between jetski's, boaters, waterfront property owners, save the manatee and seegrass people, etc.

Far too many no-wake zones, and other regulations.)

The manatee problem really is a serious thing,,,it's heartbreaking to see these huge, lovable, vegetarian, gentle giants of a creature with deep and massive prop scars. Saw a baby last year with 3 scars already,,,,,,these things will come right up to you and actually play with you, if they feel comfortable. I was once in Crystal River and we counted 38 of them and there were three of swimming among them.......

Which, as I understand it, is also illegal. They don't want people feeding or playing with them. Shame though. I'd be one of the ones swimming with them.
Dave
"Sandbagger"

Oh no,,the law is quite clear,,,we can swim with them, but the key is one can not approach them..if they approach YOU, you may pet it or touch it briefly,,you may not harass it, hold it, grab it, follow it, or attempt to get near one in any manner or anything else..but these gentle creatures really do swim right up to you..I think I hae a URL with some pics somewhere,,,if I find it I'll send it to you.................of course, there exist many areas that are off limits such as breeding and sanctuary grounds, but they come in the rivers every year like clock work,,they just left the rivers over the past 2 weeks for deeper water.....gotta get some shut eye...gotta grab some sardines in the early AM.

Oh yeah, we're great at tearing down symbols we don't like. But where is Saddam? For that matter, where is Osama? We don't have a clue, do we?

So, who "frees" Iraq from the imperialist US forces? How about the fact that the Iraqi People are now living in "an authoritarian dictatorship imposed upon them by a warped power-monger" named Dubya, who violated international law and all moral and ethical standards by invading a sovereign foreign nation without any authorization from the UN, yet claims to be enforcing a "UN Resolution"?

Dick Cheney is a craven coward who got five student deferments to avoid service in VietNam with the comment that he had "better things to do than serve in the military." No wonder they keep the guy hidden in an underground bunker. He's not qualified to be in the government. And have you noticed that his corporation (Halburton) got the first contract granted to "rebuild the Iraqi oil fields", very likely without any competitive bidding (as required by law)? Neither is Dubya, who has no clue what his constitutional duties and (especially) limitations are.

Didn't YOU learn anything in school, Frankie?

This was nothing but Dubya's Great Adventure, in which he was to chicken to participate. Or, even better, it was the "George and Tony Show". What a farce: A so-called Grand Coalition (of two waning imperialist nations).

How is our invasion of Iraq any different from Iraq's invasion of Kuwait? There is no difference. It was made painfully obvious (to all but the self-deluded) that this attack was about oil. Notice that the first things we grabbed were three major oil fields and two off-shore pumping stations? If you believe the line that it was to "prevent an ecological disaster", I have a bridge near New York City that I'd be willing to sell you. Cheap.

BTW, since when is a restaurant in a civilian neighborhood a legitimate military target? "Not targeting civilians", huh? What a crock! Nobody gives a damn about the owner and his employees or their customers. I bet Dubya doesn't eat out for a good many years!

I'll bet that, just like with VietNam, we'll be able to itemize and even name all the US dead, but will never give a hoot about how many Iraqi civilians we murdered.

Let's assume that the operator hasn't admitted using a linear. One way of determining if he is using a linear is by looking at the spectrum.
The majority of amps are cheap, solid-state, push-pull squawkers with poorly regulated bias, which means the output is rich in odd-order harmonics. This is in contrast to almost every legal CB ever made, which uses a single output device that produces mostly even-order harmonics. Most amp-heads don't bother using a filter, which makes that task even easier.

Another method is simply by the use of a field strength meter. If you set the meter for a given reading at a given distance from the antenna of a legal CB, then your neighbor's CB slams the needle with 18dB more at the same distance (and he isn't using a parabolic antenna pointed right at your house), it's a pretty fair conclusion that he's running power.

As I watched the TV images of Saddam's statue being pulled down, I had a very scary thought. Imagine if Baghdad was Los Angeles?

The court buildings downtown would be trashed, along with tax offices... our Republican Guard, the LAPD, would either run like hell or hole up in their houses in Santa Clarita and try to shoot it out with the liberated Americans... old rednecks, robotic government clerks, welfare mamas, and assorted retreads for Reagan would still be loyal to the collapsed regime, and would run out into the streets to cuss the liberated Americans out and smack them upside their heads... eventually we pro-gov folks would have to call in the Red Chinese army to come in and kick the liberated Americans' asses, so we could get to work bringing back taxes and restoring our beloved old bureaucracies to power.

Scary.

Well Richard,
How many millions did Adolf Hitler kill as a leader of a sovereign nation? What about Stalin, Mao, Pol Pot, Edi Amin, how many hundreds of thousands died at their hands as leaders of a sovereign nation? How many years were there negations by the league of nations with Hitler?
Did it matter? NO, someone has to stand up to these people, if there own people can't or won't. I don't think it has to be us every time damn it, but someone has to do it. Look at Britain 1938, if they didn't have that weasel Chamberlain as PM, they and France might have invaded Germany and taken Hitler out before thousands of brave soldiers from all around the world died to remove him and HIS legitimate regime.

Including the filament? Damn, now I have bunch of mislabled tubes.
My 6DT5 is now a 6DT6, 6CA5 is now a 6CA6. Did you do any research before you posted this?

last one I owned was a matching amp and radio combo a Yaesu FL-2100b to go with my FT-101ZD, it had a pair of 572b's maybe 600, maybe 700 watts output if the line voltage was high that day.

You can find copies all over the place! Here are a couple (you might have to cut and paste)...

http://www.sirioantenne.it/prodotti_ant.php?idc=1008171241&idg=1008171169&idp=66

http://www.pacific.us.fm/cbradio/antennas.htm

But I have to ask you...WHY?! Why do you want a Sigma IV? First off, unless you find an original one, you will end up with JUNK! The antennas being made over seas are JUNK!!! If you find an antenna with the name "Halcon" on it, it is being made by CTE or Sirio in Italy. They are JUNK!

Second, the Sigma IV is nothing more than a half wave antenna...basically a j-pole for 27 MHz.

If you want a a good OMNI CB antenna, I'd go with this list...in order...

IMAX-2000
ABS-2010 (Shakespear Big Stick)
Maco V58
Interceptor 10K

A 5/8 wave antenna will give you a better signal than a half wave. I can get more detailed if you wish.

Sure, the Sigma IV looks neat and is totally different than any other antenna; but if you understand the DESIGN of the antenna you will see it for what it really is.

BTW, I have Sigma IV's, Sigma 5/8, Super Scanner, Astro Planes, Stardusters, etc in the garage. I've tested many antennas and while not a commercial expert, I can hold my own in the antenna arena.

If you want the best of the best when it comes to an OMNI, go no further than the Interceptor 10K...

I'll made this REALLY, REALLY simple: Two stations are using the same freq and interfering with each other's comm. One is legal and the other is not. Who's jamming who? Answer: the illegal station is causing 'harmful interference' (Sec. 15.3) to the legal station, and there is no 'harmful interference' to the illegal station because the station is not legal (Sec. 15.5). If someone wants to pick nits and say that the illegal station isn't illegal when receiving, don't forget that eavesdropping is prohibited (Sec. 2.701) -- not a smart argument to use in court when the 'legal' receiver is used in 2-way communications utilizing an illegal transmitter.

Now if there is anyone that STILL doesn't understand, maybe they should quote the law that says "jamming is illegal, period".

A thought from Australia,
I did post a subject about this previously, but here it is again.... While you have the chance, Yell, kick, scream, hurt, pain anything you can to get as many modes/freqs as you can, while it is open to discussion.
The worst they can say is no, most likely they will say is yes. Stop arguing and work together to make your own CB....

I talked to him yesterday. He told me the Americans were completely surrounded, and that Iraqi forces were in full control. The scenes yesterday were Hollywood Theatrics. He told be this while he was rowing his rowboat out to the Persian Gulf.

496. *BEWARE OF SALES OR TRADING WITH "Mitch Roberston"

Ya know I always know better but for some reason this time I didn't heed my own warning. I had advertised a HR2600 with a chipswitch and 2 - 150 amps for sale. One having a preamp switch problem and needed a new switch but the amp side worked perfectly. And I got alot of action but no sales. Well after 2-3 months I got an email from

MITCH N2RADIO [mitch@n2radio.com] MITCHELL Robertson [MR_CPTN@militaryministry.net]

Stating that he had a 6900TB to and an Boomer 600 amp to trade for my stuff. I was like ok, no problem. I got everything packaged up in bubble wrap and boxed real well. And waited for ups to pick it up. And he was to do the same. Well he gave me a tracking number 2 days later and the package was on its way to me. Well mine left and went to him. I triple checked the operation of all the equipment before I packaged it up. Just because I did a trade earlier that month (Sept) and had a DOA problem with a scanner. So I made sure that the equip worked perfectly. Well I found out that Mitch was in the military and was being shipped out. And his family is moving. So they wouldn't be able to get email for some time.

Well the package arrived at completely the wrong address, which was intentional because Mitch and his wife Laura had both double-checked the shipping addy with me. I finally get the package and guess what? Its 3 Chilton's repair manuals no equipment to be found. Well did I get hosed but bad. So over the next 4 months I emailed both addresses well over a hundred times. And no response at all. Well I have a few connections in the military and I'm making some requests. I'll see what happens it should be interesting to say the least. The last email I sent Mitch and his wife I told him this and told him by Jan 1 If I didn't hear anything I would take action. Still no reply!!

Well as I'm typing guess what, I get a box in ups!! SO I open it up and there is my 2600 back and one 150 amp that I sent to him. And a note that the 2600 doesn't receive, the first amp is dead, and he kept the other amp and sent me 2 beat up 15.00 microphones one with an echo. DAM JUNK!! And a mini para dynamics meter DOUBLE JUNK!!! Then he has the balls to throw in a pc board for an amp kit. Well I just wanted EVERYONE to know what happened to me. So if you do business with him BEWARE I warned you.

This newsgroup has no charter because rec.radio.cb was created by hams who wanted to kick the CBers out of the hammie newsgroups. There is a FAQ, but in recent years it has been maintained by proponents of freebanding and illegal amplifiers. So the only rule is to use your best judgment.

Lost-another-ISP-and-wants-to-be-another says:
(Let's assume that the operator hasn't admitted using a linear. One way of determining if he is using a linear is by looking at the spectrum.)

K...please tell how the average cbe may look at his Cobra, Uniden, Rat Shack, etc, and "see" the spectrum.

(The majority of amps are cheap, solid-state, push-pull squawkers with poorly regulated bias, which means the output is rich in odd-order harmonics.)

In one of my very first threads in this group, I said the same thing, that "Most" market amps out there are filthy.... .along.the same argument that was done at that time..someone claimed that clipping or modding a radio can/will/may cause bleed and distortion...I claimed a simple mod for extra channels would not necessitate any more bleed capability than the radio already had.

(This is in contrast to almost every legal CB ever made, which uses a single output device that produces mostly even-order harmonics. Most amp-heads don't bother using a filter, which makes that task even easier.)

I'm not an amp head,,never was,,,,I've played around and my personal feelings are the really big ones often are more trouble than they are worth for someone who just wants to talk, not repair, constantly realign, adjust, replace, etc.......

(Another method is simply by the use of a field strength meter. If you set the meter for a given reading at a given distance from the antenna of a legal CB, then your neighbor's CB slams the needle with 18dB more at the same distance (and he isn't using a parabolic antenna pointed right at your house), it's a pretty fair conclusion that he's running power.)

No doubt,,,,but we were speaking of DX, skip, long distance propagation....

Several.

  Although, your communication deficit has manifested,,through anger I would assume,,,,you are seeing things that aren't present. Re-read it above, I am not a jealous man, I have more riches than most men....the good Lord has always seen to it that I do...

(Eye of the needle, Twist.)

Umm..not here,,more like an eye of the tiger...an aging, friendly, happy and content tiger, but nonetheless. I take no personal responsibility for my good fortune and health, other than thanking the man upstairs I believe responsible. I believe praising him is why I am so blessed,,if that is "Eye of the needle" to you,,,,so be it.

(But I suppose you would puree the camel in order to justify breaking that law.)

If I was hungry and had no teeth and a camel and a blender was available,,,of course.

(So what does the good Lord say about killing mushroom-picking college kids?)

Killing is wrong.,,as are many laws.
Again, you take issue with the messenger, illlustrating your deep personal involvment with your deep-rooted self-resentment that you somehow feel the need to project on to another,,,as if by my educating you on Fla law, I somehow had a hand in crafting the law you take issue with.............such concepts have always been lost on you.

(or stealing real-estate?)

Homesteading was a very legitimate manner of gaining land,,,as is paying the delinquent tax on anothers neglected land for a period of time until such law deems it yours by an "eminent domain" of sorts for private citizens. Misconstruing one who legally utilizes a law afforded us as "stealing" does nothing but illustrate how little you know of such matters.
The disagreement with such legal endeavors, and the illustration of your behavior, has always brought out the anger and beligerence in you.

perhaps some of that may be traceable to the fact that "riches" to me are not equated monetarily, necessarily. I value health and family and even friends way beyond any pmaterial possessions..plus, I thank the man upstairs daily,,even if I think it was a lousy day, I still give thanks, as I know many have it more unfortunate than I,,,,,I merely need tune in here and watch you and your ilk to be reminded of how blessed and fortunate I truly am.

(Yes, you are nothing if not Christ-like.)

No one is Christ-like.to entertain such thoughts illustrates your willingness to blasphemize,after all, you have demonstrated time and time again nothing is sacred with you.....not only have you betrayed trust in this group, you have accused several in this group of great untruths with nothing to offer except your mouth.

(Next time you get God on the horn maybe you should discuss the moral justification for accusing someone you don't even know of being a child molester.)

Never happened. I don't play your games of untruths. ,As everyone is aware, you would have wet yourself in your haste to post such a thing,,instead you wet youself on demand.

(It's very clear that you get upset when anyone else demonstrates personal integrity)

LOL...that's pretty funny,,,,,you know nothing of the word....and the fact that I have a great relationship with everyone on this forum who DOES have integrity, kinda places you on stage where everyone can watch you shoot yourself in the foot while attempting to draw down for your imaginary war and battle..LOL..

(...hmmm, lately you have accused me of being George.)

LOL....lay off the dope...that never happened either..haha! But you may proceed to attempt to claim such.....it illustrates the depths you fell and illustrates the importance of what matters most to you..<g>

(Well, why don't you get your buddies at MSN to trace my ISP?)

Why the hell would I do that?
This is a cb forum.....no one is interested in your identity..LOL..tell ya' what,,if you;re that uncertain of who you are, send me an email and I'll let you know......lmao!

(Even better, why don't you just contact them to verify that I pay my bill in cash each month, in person, at the office? And while you are at it, go ahead and contact my previous ISP's with the same question, as well as asking them if I got booted like you claim?)

LOL....

(You won't because you know I'm telling the truth,)

Hhaha....I won't because you are no one,you don't seem to grasp the larger picture here,,,your narcissism is blinding you to the fact that you are the only one who cares if you live or assume room temperature. That you somehow feel an internet stranger, whose identity you have been obsessed with and who dangles you at will, somehow "cares" about you......well.....LOL.

(and it would force you to publically admit that you are either a pathological liar, or that you are just plain ignorant. And that's an admission that you fear more than hell.)

Actually, I wasn't postitive that it was you that lost an ISP until this thread. Now I'm certain...LOL

(Ok, I had my fun.)

And I damn sho had mine :)

>I'm done hogging the punchclown.

Why....did she leave you for a cber?

That wasn't the original claim nor discussion. Two folks meeting on the "interfering" with each other. Your communication deficit is responsible..

i cannot believe after all that has happended that this idiot powell is going back to the united nations to talk about what needs to be done in iraq....as if we need these pricks to tell us anything....i am very pissed off about this and this man should be fired right on the spot....of course they will not do it because he is supposedly popular and he is black....so i guess we can just forget that....but for bush to listen to this butt kisser who has kissed ass all the way up the line to the point where i think he really has presidential ambitions. and on that case i wouldn't vote for this idiot if he was the last fucking candidate on earth......the nerve of this guy......going back to the un after they screwed blued and tatooed us......he is giving a illegitimate organization a fresh new foothold on our affairs and make no mistake.......the united states and its people will rue the day, we did not finish off this bunch of bastards when we had the chance.........i just cannot believe this crap....i was hoping for a hardline on these pricks but i guess the politically correct know it alls at the state department have won out.......you have to know that a lot of these people think they are smarter than everyone else and they know what is good for us , and nothing could be further from the truth. a lot of these idiots are one world government types who long for this very aparatus to be created....and so there will be peace in the world , blah, blah, blah.....there will never be peace until the Prince of Peace returns to take personal control of what is already His anyways...and that is one little fact that these one world government types have forgotten to include in their little plans.......and there ain't no doubt about it.....................

521. OT: France hit by meteor

You are the President of the United States and NASA tells you that a large meteor is heading straight for Earth and it will strike France at 2:00am one month from today.
France calls and begs you to use your entire available arsenal to save it. You know that by doing this it will take away from the buildup in the middle east and hurt the war against terrorism. If you don't, France is toast.

Here is your dilemma.

Do you stay up and watch it live, or tape it and watch it in the morning?

Maybe you haven't been around here very long, but Eitner has, espousing CB amps and freebanding the whole time. In fact, he has even declared himself a "CB Amp God". Google has the archives if you want Suggest you contact his Commanding Officer at Fort Collins. He or She would have little or no legal pressure to assist but usually is interested in the actions of a member of the unit.

(WHHHHH!!!!)

Look at the looting and rioting going on. We have the National Guard to keep the peace in times of disaster or emergency. The Iraqi Police are afraid to put their uniforms on for fear the US will shoot them. We don't want to be the police until they define and fill a new government. The British want to go home, too. And by having a UN peacekeeping force there, instead of US or British solders, is much better then US staying there in charge and looking like we just took it over.

(Soapbox back to you)

bush spends too much damn time dancing with these dickheads that do not have our best interest at heart....this new tone crap is about done in my opinion...this kind of kind gentle mindset cost men their lives over in iraq....this type of pussy shit has pervaded our armed forces and it comes from these touchy feely pricks who think that we should all be real nice when dealing with others even when we are fighting.......this kind of bullshit can get you killed. so now i ask you, so far we have been fighting and kicking ass over there and where the hell are all the leadership twits......even that dickhead that was always on tv saying the iraqi army was kicking ass has disappeared.......where is he???? where are the rest of those sorry bastards.???? i would have given a year's pay to be able to kill every son of a bitch on that russian diplomatic convoy that was allowed to leave bagdad under diplomatic immunity..........no doubt about it........who the hell was in that damn convoy.???? i want to know.......bush better get his head out of his ass and get real mean or we could lose this damn thing and end up looking like real jerks..........bush had better start realizing who his friends are and who his enemies are and quit fooling around with these people......you cannot deal with them like he is dealing with them....you have to be a hard ass or they will take advantage of you. that is the way it is........russia is not our friend...........france is not our friend, ...germany is not our friend......and secretary of state powell is not a friend of this nation...i don't understand why bush has people in his administration that do not think like everyone else does......his administration should be one minded on all matters.......there is enough arguing to be had with the liberals.........so why do you have to argue with people that are supposed to be supporting you????....and that my friends is a fact......and if these idiots do not wake up real soon and realize what is going on....we will lose the peace that these fine warriers are attempting to make happen.......bush had better get his head out of his ass and soon.........and quit fooling around and quit listening to his daddy who's fault this whole damn thing is caused by......if it wasn't for his silly ass , trying to be nice and all of that shit....typical northeast liberal shit......well sadaam would have been history a long time ago......but now this........so junior wake up and smell the coffee before it is too late..damn it.....

I'll agree with Scott too. When the fighting is done, we could prove without a doubt that we went in for only the reason to free them, by the UN taking over the peace-keeping role it will prove that fact.

Exactly..always boils down to the issue of control and the quest for power over another,,,the notion that another somehow knows what is best for someone other than their own self and that they will do everything possible to impose their vapid will on another, plagues many.

How ironic..ALL your posts are whining of that of which you have no control over and can not comprehend. All your posts demonstrate you have no life but that of which we permit and bestow upon you here at will.. Referring to yourself as "we" as an "AKC" tells all,,,,,,,they do not exist anymore,,,dismantled, effectively defeated, angry, pissed, tossed by their ISP, sort of like you,,,,,watching you flail about for the "AKC" is tantamount to a pathetic attempt at some type inner salvation, recognition, or reoragnization. You will fail, as usual. You're impotent.

Uhm, wouldn't this be considered "French Toast"? Usually, it is best for breakfast! But some like it for late night snack, so the dilemma is still there. Watch it happen - have it while it's hot or save it for breakfast - the taped version.

LOL..that's bullshit. If anything, you speak only for yourself concerning your disdain for cbers and your misconstrued interpretations of why the group came about. Read up,,,it's all there...talk to Eitner..I think he set you straight a few times in the past...

(There is a FAQ, but in recent years it has been maintained by proponents of freebanding and illegal amplifiers. So the only rule is to use your best judgment.)

That much is true,,do a search on "N8WWM" and follow the threads.... you and N8 and the rest of the "Akc" came in here shouting how we shouldn't be talking about this or how we shouldn't be talking about that,,,,when told to pound salt, you lids became angry at your lack of control and impotence in controlling what was discussed here....in return, y'all began attacking many who spoke of anything your limited intellect and fragile psyche construed as "wrong". Illustrating your lack of tolerance for others views and rights, your temerity and aggravation manifested when you attempted to curb the freedom of speech that took place here by attempting to start your own moderated ng. Stating only topics you construe as "legal" would be permitted, you were soundly trounced with no takers. It was about this time you began your slow but steady degradation and returned to your haunts..espousing your extreme jealousy for those like Eitner, Toll, etc.

You're right about the proponents of freebanding..hell, several hammies here have stated they don't give a rats ass what is done between 27.9650 and 27.9950....it's only lids like yourself that spend their entire life in a desperate search for some type authority or power that act as you do,,so far, you are the only lid to cry outloud and publicly tell the world that freebanders affect your "work"..LOL! Not surprised,,,we affect your sanity, mental health, and mood swings as well,,,it's called the domino theory,,,you are a living example of what happens when one is rendered incontinent due their overwhelming, all-consuming single obsession. Such mania is ingrained into your easily impressionable and fragile psyche....you have no choice in the matter.

speaks for itself, Twist, and it sure as hell doesn't speak in your favor!

BTW, who am I this week, Twist? Who is it that you are going to accuse of being a child molester today? Dave Hall? Leland Scott? Dwight Stewart? Glenn Sparks? "George"? I may be an atheist, but at least I respect what other people believe. And I don't need to believe in Christianity to be offended by anyone that would spew bullshit like you do while claiming to be a peace-loving Christian! You are not only a hypocrite in the eyes of the newsgroup, but even DAVE holds higher religious convictions than YOU do, you piece of trash!!! Now get your fat ass off the computer, go to mass and beg for mercy from God, because he's the only one that's going to grant it to you!

Hey Frank, serious question, what do you think about the "under God" in the pledge.
As you know, we have an atheist that took it to court to have it removed. I don't want it removed, but just wondered about what another atheist thinks about it.

Wrong again, Twisty (as usual):

ftp.isc.org/pub/usenet/news.announce.newgroups/rec/rec.ham-radio-reorg

...from which I shall quote the only justification for the formation of rrcb:

"6. Why create a .cb group? There is currently no place for Citizens' Band radio discussions explicit in the hierarchy. These postings currently wind up in rec.ham-radio, where they tend to generate flamage all out of proportion to their volume."

Hams just wanted CBers out of their newsgroup. Legal or not. Period.

If the majority of people want to repeal the separation of church and state there should be an amendment. Until that happens, the Bill of Rights shouldn't be ignored. Either way, my alliegence is to the Constitution. Same with any other controversial matter -- abortion, gun rights, etc, -- I made a pledge to support and defend the Constitution. That's what matters to me.

And Twistedhed has some swampland in Florida to sell. He gets it by paying the taxes for poor old folks who think that he is just being a nice and generous person, not suspecting that he is using a loophole in the law that gives him the title to the land after paying the taxes for a few years. I wonder how many blue-haired old grandmothers he has fooled -- and forcibly evicted -- with that scam. What a guy, that I know you can damage your CB if the antennae is not tuned to the radio and you use it to transmit, but can you hurt it if you just use it to monitor transmissions and have not set the SWR?

Identity in Crisis lisped:
(Quit with the rhetoric, you already lost the game. The post above points to a multitude of examples that prove you are nothing but a pathological liar, and there are literally hundreds more. The truth speaks for itself, Twist, and it sure as hell doesn't speak in your favor!)

LOL..temper, temper,,,,the only thing it illustrates is the odd length of time your mania has been one of me, only me, and nothing but me..LOL. That it is a personal issue with you illustrates the magnitude of your inability to handle your personal life and emotions.

(BTW, who am I this week, Twist?)

Your identity crisis is not of any interest to anyone here...really...go on and ask...LOL

(Who is it that you are going to accuse of being a child molester today? Dave Hall? Leland Scott? Dwight Stewart? Glenn Sparks?)

Calling for support when you are defeated and illustrated a lid does nothing but illustrate what we all know of you already. You are angry, of little man-status, and impotent to change your pathetic predicament in life you deserve.

What does "George have to do with anything? Your bent and fragile psyche getting ahead of your self-esteem problem resulting in daft off topic outbursts again?

(I may be an atheist, but at least I respect what other people believe.)

_
No, you really don't. Respect is not calling those you know nothing of "criminals" for voicing their opinion.

(And I don't need to believe in Christianity to be offended by anyone that would spew bullshit like you do while claiming to be a peace-loving Christian! You are not only a hypocrite in the eyes of the newsgroup, but even DAVE holds higher religious convictions than YOU do, you piece of trash!!!)

Your ire is boiling over Christianity. I am used to being persecuted for my outspoken beliefs...you are yet but another petty lost, troubled soul in a sea of discontent. Other's joy and success 'causes you debilitating rage and unstable envy.

(Now get your fat ass off the computer, go to mass and beg for mercy from God, because he's the only one that's going to grant it to you!)

Mass? Since when is a Catholic an atheist...(mmph).....No, I suggest you go do that slow burn before embarrassing yourself with lies even further...LOL.

Actually, probably not much of a problem with MODERN sets, in xmit, as transistors have been made to compensate for high vswr, or they have a swr sensor that decreases input power to the PA corresponding to the sensed SWR of the antenna! but the older ones (over 10 years old, don't take the risk) . as info jim nn7k

He's right... the modern set has been designed with more "margin" in that area and can normally be operated into a 30:1 mismatch (open antenna) for a considerable time... perhaps indefinately depending on ambient temperature.

I have designed a small audio gain block (10dB gain) that can be used to make a stock microphone as powerful as any of the power mics out there. You would require a "dynamike" gain adjustment (or equivalent) on the set to use it properly. If you didn't, it would be too damn loud ! It contains about 20 components and could be fabricated on a breadboard fairly simply. I'm also in the process of laying out the PC board and perhaps I will make a few extra boards that people can build if they are interested. I will be putting the schematic and PCB layout out at my web site shortly...

I've read reports where the immediate below statement is based on.... there are protective circuits for the finals....BUT.... I've seen several sets with those same features fry. So, I wouldn't take it for granted.
Just my opinion, but based on actual case histories. Several..... Same with 2 way and Ham rigs, same sort of so called protection devices, but still, they fried. I can't begin the tell you how many rigs, cb, etc, I've repaired for this problem. "I" don't take anything for granted. It is designed and built by man, it CAN and DOES fail.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1339 - April 11, 2003

The following is a closed circuit report. Here is Amateur Radio Newsline's support fund administrator, Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

For the month of February we heard from: Monthly contributors Joseph Bartzi, Jr., KC8DKF of Wadsworth, OH, and Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, of San Jose, CA. Total contributions were $25, with NO clubs heard from. On the other hand, our expenses were $661.

That doesn't work! We need your help to keep these newscasts on the air!

I'll make you a deal: you send whatever you can, and I will take the next few weeks to catch up on who's been helping us stay on the air over the past year.

A reminder that Am,ateur Radio Newsline™ is a federal, 501 (c)(3) non-profit corporation. All contributions are tax-deductible.

The address for the Newsline Support fund is PO Box 660937, Arcadia, CA 91066. If you missed it, it will be given again at the end of this week's newscast. I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

Thanks Andy. That ends the closed circuit with Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1339 with a release date of Friday, April 11 2003 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Australia says its time to restructure that nations Amateur Radio Service and ham radio in Iraq. These stories and more on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1339 coming your way right now.

AMERICA AT WAR: BAGDHAD RADIO CLUB STATION CLOSED FOR DURATION OF WAR

Ham radio will hopefully re-emerge in Iraq after the war has ended. In the meantime, the Daily DX and the ARRL Letter relay information from Diya Sayah, YI1DZ. This, on the plight of one of that nations best known Amateur Radio operations.

YI1DZ, is one of the primary operators at the Baghdad Radio Club YI1BGD station in Baghdad. He reported that just prior to the outbreak of hostilities in Iraq that he had dismantled the station. Also, that all of the equipment is stored in as safe a place as possible.

Daily D-X Editor Bernie McClenny, W3UR, says that he doubts there will be any activity in the near future from YI1BGD or any other Iraqui Amateur Radio station. The YI1BGD club station went on the air in the 1970s and the Iraqi Association for Radio Amateurs remains an International Amateur Radio Union member-society. (ARRL, Daily DX)

IN THE PUBLIC LIGHT: AMATEUR RADIO AT NAB-2003

I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in Las Vegas Nevada, where the National Association of Broadcasters Convention Amateur Radio Reception is just winding down. An estimated 700 hams involved in the broadcast profession spent the last 2 hours enjoying one anmothers company. They also heard a brief talk by ARRL Presodent Jim Haynie, W5JBP, who used the occasion to thank thee Las Vegas Amateur Radio Club for an important monetary donation:

Haynie: "I want to thank the members for the $1000 donation to the (ARRL) Education and Technology Fund. We think it is particularly important in as much as the Big Project as we call it -- in slang terms -- is teaching kids about Amateur Radio who will hopefully be the next engineers at your radio station or something like that. This exposure to electronics is very important to Amateur Radio and very important for industry.

So with that, have a good time , and again my thanks to the Las Vegas Amateur Radio Club for your vey wonderful and generous donation."

Well over 100,000 broadcasters and those in allied businesses attended the 2003 National Association of Broadcasters convention. Among them where three friends who hads not seen one another in almost three decades. They are Dick Flanagan, W6OLD, Martin Geisler, WA6TIC and this writer. All of us were members of the Palisades Amateur Radio Club back in the 1970's. Ill be back with more about this radio club after a short airplane ride home.

Annd less we forget. The N-A-B Amateur Radio Reception was again co-sponsored by Kenwood Communications and CQ Magazine.

Reporting from a quiet alcove just outside the Las Vegas Convention Center on my way to McCarren airport, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, for the Amateur Radio Newsline. Don. (ARNewsline™)

RADIO LAW: HAM RADIO CC&R BILL REINTRODUCED IN CONGRESS

Another Congressional attempt is under way to provide relief to amateurs prevented by private deed covenants, conditions and restrictions from installing outdoor antennas. The ARRL Letter says that New York Representative Steve Israel has again introduced the "Amateur Radio Emergency Communications Consistency Act" into the current session of Congress. The measure, designated HR 1478, would require private land-use regulators such as homeowners' associations to reasonably accommodate Amateur Radio antennas consistent with the PRB-1 limited federal preemption. PRB-1 now applies only to states and municipalities. (ARRL)

RADIO LAW: CALIFORNIA PRB1-LIKE LAW TAKES A GIANT STEP

Some good news for hams living in the Golden State. ARRL Southwestern Division Director Art Goddard, W6XD, says that the California version of PRB-1 passed the Local Government Committee on a unanimous vote at its April 2nd meeting. Goddard says that the next step for A B 1228 is the full California State Assembly.

Representing ARRL at the Committee hearing were Dean Straw, N6BV and Pacific Director Bob Vallio, W6RGG. In his bulletin, Goddard took the time to thank Mike Mitchell, W6RW, Assembly member Bob Dutton and his staff as well. (ARRL SW Div. Newsletter)

SPECTRUM SHARING: SATELLITE-FED TRANSLATORS IN THE COMMERCIAL FM BAND

The FCC has assigned RM-10609 to a proposal by Calvary Chapel of Twin Falls and two smaller broadcasters. This, for authority to allow satellite-fed translators or Satellators in the "non-reserved" F M 92 to 108 MHz band. Amateur Radio's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more.

As we all know, 92 to 108 Mhz is the band that is currently used by commercial broadcasters, over-the-air-fed translators and most Low Powe F-M stations. Currently, what are called Satellators are restricted to the 88 to 92 MHz band and the translator must be owned by the primary station.

But Calvary Chapel of Twin Falls and the other petitioners want the FCC to allow satellite-fed translators in the non-reserved F M 92 to 108 MHz band. The petitioners claim this proposal will have little impact on existing stations in the spectrum. This is because there is currently a freeze on new terrestrial translators in that band.

The FCC has not indicated when it might act on the Calvary Chapel of Twin Falls rules change request.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

So far the only major objection has come from National Public Radio. N-P-R generally supports the Twin Falls petition, but proposes that coverage distance limitations be set for Satellator operations. More is on the web at http://gullfoss2.fcc.gov/prod/ecfs/comsrch_v2.cgi (CGC Communicator)

RESCUE RADIO COMS: THE BOSTON MARATHON NEEDS YOU

If you are planning a trip to Massachusetts later this month and will have a hand held radio with you, the ARRL Letter says that the Boston Marathon can use you.

The 107th running of the event is slated for Patriots' Day, Monday, April 21st. Planners say that they still need more Amateur Radio volunteers to assist with communications for this year's event. If you want to donate your time, please contact Paul Topolski, WSEX by e-mail to w1sex@arrl.net or Steve Schwarm, W3EVE, at w3eve@arrl.net.

Once again, that's the Boston Marathon, on Monday April 21st and its looking for hams top help out. (ARRL)

ON THE AIRWAVES: THE LIBERAL RADIO NETWORK

Venture capitalists from Chicago are reportedly behind an effort to start a liberal leaning talk radio network. One that might offer an alternative to conservative talk show hosts heard across the airwaves these days.

The group will be called AnShell Media L.L.C.. Its backers are reportedly investing an initial $10 million. They are also hoping for assistance from like minded entrepreneurs.

With the intent to be on the air by this fall, the are talking with comedian and author Al Franken about working with the network. They also hope to attract other politically liberal entertainers and political guests as well. (ThePolicyPeport nerwsletter)

UPCOMING EVENTS: COMMEMORTING FRANK LLOYD WRIGHTS WESTCOTT HOUSE

The Westcott Wireless Preservation Association will be hosting special event station W8AGA on Saturday, May 3rd. The operation will taker place from Frank Lloyd Wright's Westcott house in Springfield, Ohio.

The Westcott Wireless Preservation Association serving the Westcott House Foundation by continuing radio operations at the Frank Lloyd Wright designed Westcott home. Wright designed Ohio's only prairie style house for Burton and Orpha Westcott in 1907. The house is now undergoing extensive restoration and will eventually be opened to the public as a house museum.

But in the here and now, the special event station is coming on the air. A special QSL card will be issued to any station with a confirmed QSO with W8AGA and who sends a QSL card and SASE to the Westcott Wireless Preservation Association. QSL information is on the web at

CONVENTIONS AND HAMFESTS: MILWAUKEE - A SUPER SUCCESS

On the convention and hamfest circuit, word that last weekends A-E-S Superfest in Milwaukee Wisconsin is being called a super success. A late season storm made for some fairly inclement weather but it did not dampen the spirit of the regions ham community that showed up in droves to see what was new and buy what was hot.

According to industry sources the weather may have played to the advantage of dealers by driving the crowds to the display floor. And while Friday was a bit slow, Saturday more than made up for it with lots of high tickeet items moving out. We are told that averaged out sales were pretty good on both days and nobody is complaining.

The Superfesrt is held every April and is sponsored by Amateur Electronic Supply. (ARNewsline™)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: PC SAT ECLIPSE POWER PROBLEMS

AMSAT says that PC Sat is still going strong, but is on ragged edge of power budget during maximum eclipses. This is according to Bob Bruinga, WB4APR, who reports that controllers have caught the satellite on several occasions doing a low power reset.

Bruninga adds that fortunately they have been able to restore the bird before the batteries went to negative power budget. WB4APR recommends that since there are as many as 50 users per day, it is best if everyone turns off any unattended user stations at night when PC Sat is in eclipse. (ANS)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: SECURITY PROBLEM WITH SENDMAIL - PSTCH AVAILABLE

According to its developer, the most widely used program for transferring e-mail between computer networks has a security flaw. One that could allow attackers to disrupt the flow of e-mail and intercept messages.

The program involved is called Sendmail. The security flaw does not directly affect your personal computers but it does put e-mail and information sent over the Internet at risk. Fixes for the vulnerability are available, free of charge, at Sendmail's Web site by applying a patch or upgrading to the latest version of Sendmail.

Atlanta-based Internet Security Systems Inc estimates that Sendmail handles as much as three-quarters of all Internet e-mail traffic. Sendmail Inc. which developed the program is located in Emeryville, California. (Published news reports)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: TUBE-TYPE PC'S

It seems that a venerable old friend simply refuses to die the death of technical obsolescence. The vacuum tube continues its reemergence into the audio marketplace, this time -- believe it or not -- in Personal Computerss.

The first tube motherboard appeared last year in response to PC gamers who craved the allegedly "more natural" sound produced by vacuum tube technology. Those who have seen the boasrds call it a strange sight to behold.

ON THE AIRWAVES: DIGITAL RADIO MONDIALE IS ON ITS WAY

After long years of gathering a consortium, prototyping and testing, Digital Radio Mondiale has announced that there will be an official launch at the World Radio Conference in Geneva, in June. Thiis according to a report in shortwave.com.

Digital Radio Mondiale, better known by its initials D-R-M is the world's only non-proprietary, digital broadcasting system for short-wave, medium-wave and long-wave with the ability to use existing frequencies and bandwidth across the globe. With near-FM quality sound, DRM hopes to revitalize the AM broadcasting bands below 30 Mhz in markets worldwide.

And right on the heels of the launch announcement came the granting of two highly significant standards for DRM. First, the International Electrotechnical Committee has given the Digital Radio Mondiale on-air system its highest stamp of approval as an International Standard. This was followed by the International Telecommunication Union granting permission for any broadcaster to use existing frequency assignments for DRM digital transmissions. This, provided that there is no interference with other stations. (ASWLC)

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE PARC FIELD DAY FILM LIVES AGAIN

And finally this week some very good news for ypou ham radio cinema fans. After having been among the missing for over two decaders, a famous ham radio movie has surfaced. And it will soon have its first official public screening since its restoration was completed. The guy who has the movie on his shelf -- our own Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has some background on this ham radio cinematic classic:

The film's real name is simply Field Day 1971. It is a tongue - in cheek look at the planning and execution of the ARRL Field Day operating event by what was then one of the most active radio clubs in the United States. My home radio club The famed Pallisades Amateur Rado Club of Culver City California. Home of "good-guy the gokld plated radio" repeater.

Field Day 1971 was produced and edited by George Hively, W6GRH, -- then WA6YEA -- as a club project over thirty years ago. Hively, who has spent his life in the motion picture business wrote the script, supervised the filming, edited it together and provided the music and the narriation. And notice we said filming. Field Day 1971 was produced long before the advent of home videotape. It was shot using Super 8 millimerter motion picture film and consumer cameras. The sound track was on a separate tape cassette. In fact, it still must be projected that way -- even today.

A preview screening of the restored movie took place a March 8th at the HandiHams winter camp in Malibu California. They loved it. As a result of that enthuiastic welcome, a public showing of Field Day 1971 to the California ham radio community has been tentatively scheduled for Wednesday evening May 14th. This, hosted by the Santa Clarita Amateur Radio Club that meets just North of Los Angeles.

And for those of you who are wondering where the movie has been hiding the past 20+ years, this might surprise you. It has been kept safe and well protected by a former PARC member -- Richard Burton, the ex-WB6JAC. Richard contacted us a few months ago asking if we would like to have the movie. We said yes, and with the assistance of Anita O'Delll, N2IHX, the movie was brought back to projectable condition.

Because there is only one projectable print of Field Day 1971 available it cannot be lent out. But W6GRH tells Amateur Radio Newsline that plans call for it to be transferred to video -- either VHS casssette or possibly DVD. And the sound will always match the picture that way. We hope.

With Field Day `71 -- the movie -- sitting on my desk as I record this, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF.

Many TV Sweep Tube Amplifiers can use tubes like the 8950 or 6LQ6/6JE6 labels, Also Drifttronix/Swan's, Homebrewers.

yeh you are right ...he knows exactly what you are doing, as do i, and that you are using a communications concept kit as your amp and calling it your own design which is fine....i don't care about it......anyone dumb enough to order one of the stupid things from you deserves exactly what he gets....a pile of junk.......now then, i ask you again chitown chump.............you call yourself a professor.......ok, then tell me what are your educational credentials that back up this illustrious title. i ask you because toll free knew as i do that you sir are nothing but a idiot running around trying to impress anyone that will listen with your self diagnosed radio knowledge if you want to call it that..oh and another thing.......why don't you tell everyone so they will know.......exactly how many of these 'amps'.......you have sold...'professor'..........hmmm?????............

Personally, no, it doesn't offend me at all. What offends me are people that say you can't be a good American unless you believe in God (many of whom will break the laws of both God and country as soon as your back is turned).

That is nonsense... if you went to my web site you would see that I'm only using the Communication Concepts chassis. It's an excellent robust chassis and is very expensive. The circuit and pcb are my design. I would be glad to show you the Gerber files... if you were smart enough to know what they were.

You should have quit while you were behind... lol

Unlike yourself, I have no identity crisis. So far you have accused me of being Glenn Sparks, Leland Scott, N7VCF, Big Ben (bigbensblazer@yahoo.com), a couple others that I have forgotten, and most recently "George". So I'm just curious who you think I am now.

So who am I this week, Twisty?

Why would I want to "get out" on 11 meters when I "get out" just fine with 1 watt on the lowfer band. I get out even further on the AM BC band, and globally on VLF. Whenever I find a CB amp and I just scrap it for parts to be used later for much more useful and constructive purposes. You want to hear what a communication deficit sounds like? Hop on 6 or 27.555 and listen to the comm-challenged idiots bellowing "WORLDWIDE....WORLDWIDE....A-A-A-D-I-O-O-O".

Boy! Ain't that the truth! Especially these "Christians", or at least I think that's what they think they are...you know, the ones who have that stylized fish on the back of their vehicles. In my experience, these are the

You can do a few things in this case. You can contact the base provo martial and file a complaint! You should also send a letter to the base commander.. Because it went across state lines file a complaint with the US Postal authorities, i.e. they regulate UPS... And you can also file a complaint with the F.B.I. because he's in the millitary they handle it..

626. FCC WARNS AMATEURS: UNLICENSED OPERATION COULD COST YOUR HAM TICKET

==>FCC WARNS AMATEURS: UNLICENSED OPERATION COULD COST YOUR HAM TICKET

The FCC has let a trio of Idaho amateurs know that unlicensed operation outside Amateur Radio frequencies could lead to revocation of their ham tickets. FCC Special Counsel Riley Hollingsworth recently wrote three Boise amateurs, citing allegations that they had transmitted without a license on several 11-meter frequencies.

"Information before the Commission indicates that you have transmitted without a license on 26.350, 27.420 and 27.700 MHz using SSB and SSTV," Hollingsworth said. He pointed out that, in addition to revocation proceedings, fines for unlicensed operation normally range from $7500 to $10,000. Letters went out March 17 to Dave Every, KD7QAS; John F. Hail, KD7QAW; and Tom M. Sjoberg, KD7RCS. Every holds a General ticket, while Hail and Sjoberg are Technician licensees. Hollingsworth says he understands that the unlicensed operations have ceased. The three frequencies involved are below and above the Citizens Band.

An Ohio ham, Dave K. Childers, N8QGI, also heard from Hollingsworth March 18 in a case involving alleged obscene or indecent transmissions last December on 27.115 MHz--CB channel 13. Hollingsworth did not raise the issue of unlicensed operation in that case, but he did spell out the FCC's position on the transmission of obscene or indecent words or language. He also requested Childers, a Technician licensee, to respond to the complaint within 20 days and indicated that a tape recording would be made available to him upon request.

Although the alleged Idaho and Ohio operations occurred on 11 meters, Hollingsworth said he contacted the four individuals only because it was determined that they were FCC Amateur Radio Service licensees. Complaints in the Idaho cases came from the amateur community, Hollingsworth indicated.

The FCC also sent a Warning Notice March 24 to Anthony L. Basile, N3HFB, of Pennsylvania, citing "monitoring information" indicating that the licensee has been deliberately interfering with three 2-meter repeater systems in his area. Hollingsworth warned of fines and revocation proceedings and said that until the matter is resolved, the FCC would not routinely renew Basile's Advanced class license, which expires in September. A similar Warning Notice went out March 18 to Tech Plus licensee Erin J. Rourke, N0KCN, of North Dakota, alleging deliberate interference to a 2-meter repeater in the Fargo area.

In another enforcement case, Hollingsworth has notified Drew B. Feldman of Los Angeles that the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau had set aside his Amateur Radio license KG6PFC. "That action is based upon complaints about the operation of your station," Hollingsworth wrote March 18. In May 2000, the FCC canceled Feldman's Tech Plus ticket, N3KSO, after he failed to appear as requested for re-examination. Feldman subsequently retested for the Technician license and was issued KG6PFC on February 20. Following the complaints, the FCC canceled the grant a month later.

Good enough. I was just so pissed about that guy who brought the lawsuit. He used his daughter as an excuse to bring a lawsuit on something she didn't care and he doesn't even recite. Now the asshole wants to file a lawsuit for the words "In God we trust" on money.

While it may create flames and strife, I am aware of some more truck drivers who will receive a "surprise" in the near future as well. All of the above is the result of more attention being paid to out-of-band operations. If only people would just not do that, it wouldn't even be an issue now. But complaints are being lodged, not only by hams, but other spectrum users as well. I know from Mr. Hollingsworth's last forum last month (Charlotte, NC), that other people have been shifted into enforcement--even taken on additional duties--as a result of people's complaints. We don't always hear about the complaints from behind the scenes, nor what may be taking place on the legal end; much of the current willingness to ignore rules can be blamed on FCC and the Congress itself which, BTW, the Enforcement Bureau freely admits. The bottom line is that, as predicted, the actions against CBers AND Hams alike are increasing. Note the recent warnings in several past ARRL Letters. One difference in the two hobbies, despite some hams'* willingness to flaunt the rules of the service, is that hams overwhelming support enforcement--not to be "anal", not to be holier-than-thou, or to stick their noses up at other people's hobbies, but because it is generally assumed (not always correctly, of course) that Amateurs are instructed in the rules of THEIR service and are, therefore, expected to set an example. It doesn't always happen, but most operators understand that to continually disobey rules can result in privileges OR loss of bands. It is also unfortunate that some hams do cop an attitude about CB ops, because that is a shameful and inexcusable way to act, OR to convince new people to become hams.
Sad, really.

Just got a 2002 freightliner from the company. It also has the bigger hollywood mirrors. Anyways I had to go an buy me 2 1/2 lag bolts just to mount it onto the mirror bracket. Now instead of having a 1.2 swr reading I have a 4 plus reading. I know this is not good and I have been playing around with mounting it on both sides of the truck but the SWR stays the same. I am using a 4ft. fiberglass Francis which worked well on my other truck. Does anyone have any ideas that could help out this frustrated driver?

Thanks, Scott

Well, if the cab of the truck is made out of fiberglass instead of metal, the only thing that will help you out is to get a new (old) truck that has some metal to it... Ground-plain is everything...

Try replacing your coax and the connectors. Use RG-8U, it's small and well shielded. Good for stock radios and flexible. I'm bettin on a bad connector or pinched coax...maybe add a ground wire out to the mirror bracket...dont see it doing much but it's easy and worth the try if the mirror mount has no real ground connection.....good luck

see this..

Some, but not all Freight Liner Trucks with the new molded mirrors have had problems achieving a good grounding system for their CB Radio Antenna systems. It has been found that a low SWR can be achieved by adding a ground wire to both antennas.

Coax substitution is always a good idea to test for bad coax.

OPERATIONAL DISTANCE AT CB FREQUENCIES
The popular statement, "There's good news and bad news ...", could have been written for CB radio. The good news is, sometimes you can talk to someone down the street, or halfway around the world. The bad news is, you may not always be able to talk to someone down the street, or halfway around the world. That is the nature of communications on the CB band.
The frequencies that CB radios operate on are affected by terrain, ambient weather conditions, the forever changing height of the ionosphere, sun spot cycles with their radio frequency (RF) interfering magnetic waves, and the quality and design of the equipment. On any given day (or hour of the day) you might find that the person you spoke with earlier can no longer be contacted. And, while you are trying to talk to that person who is two or three miles away, somebody that lives a thousand miles or more away comes in as if they were in the other room. Since it is humanly impossible to manipulate the things in nature that affect all radio wave transmissions, especially those in the CB band, knowledgeable people with honest intentions will not promise the CB user a specific distance that they can consistently communicate over. Of course, dishonest people are apt to tell you anything when trying to separate you from your hard-earned money.

If ask to make an honest statement regarding the distance that one may expect from a legally operated CB, the statement across the industry must read as follows.

CB operators can expect a fairly consistent operational range of three to five miles in an area of limited obstructions. Prolonged periods of relatively consistent performance between two or more sites in the five to twenty-mile range is a very common occurrence. Consistent operation between locations beyond twenty miles will most often be sporadic. During the course of any given day, for a period that will vary in duration, could occur at any given hour and be in any possible direction, communicating over hundreds, thousands or even tens of thousands of miles with no more than 4 watts is a very probable possibility.

There are many things that a CB operator can do to maximize performance under any set of conditions.

Adjust the SWR
Use high quality coaxial cable
Use top loaded antennas
Use 5/8 wave antennas
Select a longer antenna
Mount antenna higher
Use antenna(s) with proven history of performance
Clean coax and power connections
Make sure other station has quality components Use in off-peak periods
Use power microphone
Have radio peaked by qualified technician
CB is meant to be a fun, useful, inexpensive, and unlicensed means of communications for Joe Citizen. Cost is minimal and airtime is free. If you are aware of the limitations that go along with the frequency, you can expect your CB to perform exactly as it was intended, so long as you do the most that you can do with the pieces you can control. Have fun! Have good conversations! Have CB!

If I remember correctly, the reason for going into Iraq was Weapons of Mass Destruction. Iraq said they had none. Twit Bush said we know you do and you have xxx days to give them up. Now that the US has destroyed Iraq, they have not yet produced a single weapon for the world to see. Soon Turkey and Syria will be into the mix and the entire region will be a mess.

Will the world hold the US responsible for War Crimes against humanity?

PS: The other odd thing is 9/11 was used as an excused for going into Iraq yet the CIA has never been able to prove any ties with the Saudi terrorists and Iraq.

Who says it's not good? A 2:1 SWR still means that you are radiating over 90% of the power you send to the antenna. And the rest is not necessarily lost. Don't get hung up on SWR meter readings, because they don't mean as much as some people think.

Nope. Just someone who can remember what Bush said 1 month ago. It worries

He is on a yahoo cb forum espousing the virtues of running amplifiers and the repair of them. And yes he argues with alot of people on there some blame his fondness for alcohol ok, enlighten me. What were the stated reasons for going into Iraq?

I believe it was due to the claims that Iraq was not handing over WMD and Iraq replied that they had none. Note that I only know what CNN broadcasted from your Pres. What does your 'memory' tell you?

Is that to say that "all" CB equipment is junk or that the specified equipment in this situation is junk? Could you please clarify on this?

Do you think these weapons are just laying out in the open???? They can't find sadaam let alone and WMD as of now. The UN has been there looking for them they are well hidden do you think they just hid them in thier palaces? How about Underground? We are there to fight first then look for weapons later, something you french asshole's no nothing about

The operation from Day one was to Liberate Iraq.. hence the name Operation Iraqi Freedom. The Iraqi people are rejopicing in the streets, they are holding up pictures of geroge Bush who cares what some asshole from Canada thinks it is not your war just sit on the sidelines and watch.

I hate debating with ignorant people. It is an unfair fight because they have no idea what are the issues let alone be equiped to discuss them. The problem is you feel you need to convince me. I truly feel sorry for you guys when the rest of the Arab states get their act together. hint guys, Iraq was not the 9/11 issue. Watch your backs, Turkey is NATO but I wouldn't consider them a friendly force right now.

ps: For those of you who learn your Geography via bomb footage, Canada is not French. Maybe you should reflect on the reasons why the world didn't want to play war with you guys this time.

So what your saying is, that, in 1939 the British should've just ignore the fact that Germany invaded Poland. We should've not worried about Hitler, it was a domestic affair, he didn't have chemical weapons, he wasn't working on nuclear weapons, he didn't have missile's, he didn't torture thousands & kill millions, yes if we did what this fine example of Canada says......
We would be speaking German right now. So you ask where's the comparison to Saddam.
As for Canada being French, No, Quebec is French, you're not from Quebec are you?

I don't recall Iraq invading anyone recently. The 91 Gulf war was 100% justified. Since then they have been playing fair. They are heavily in debt but it has been caused by 12 years of sanctions. This war like all wars is about money and power. Iraq wanted Kuwait and the world beat them back into their own borders. Don't get me wrong, when justified, pound them into the sand. I don't like being lied to and Bush is trying to rewrite history. Even the code word 'Iraqi Freedom' is insulting since the original reason given to the world was: 'He has WMD and will not give them up'. Note that after months of UN inspections, nothing was ever found. I hope for your sakes that something is found otherwise the US will lose face in the diplomatic circles. You have to remember that not everyone believes everything they hear. CNN, BBC World News and AlJazeera (I get all 3 networks here) all covered the same events this month. All three had a different slant/opinnion. It doesn't change the facts that a particular event happened.

The Arab world doesn't forget. They stood back and allowed the US to enter Iraq. If the US can not justify their actions, we all will have a tough time. The US can not take on the Arab nations. They have more money than the US and control the oil. If the Arabs shutdown the supply, the world would come to a halt within a few weeks. So, if you can put aside the insults for a bit and think this through, what would you recommend as the next move? The battle is over but the war continues.

As for the French, do me a favor and rid us of them, I am tired of French labels on my food.

Exactly my point. Most of the terrorists were Saudi, not Iraqi. Why isn't the US bombing the Saudi? OIL! The US tolerates and turns a blind eye because the US (and the rest of the world too) wants the oil.

Note: the above opinion of Saudi is not mine. It is the stated opinions of US Experts being interviewed who are trying to find links between the Saudi terrorists and Iraq. So far, nothing found. It would be easier to stomach if there was a link.

Trust me here, we are on the same side. I am simply questioning what people tell me. I don't blindly go where told unless I have some evidence. What is more discouraging is when the US experts admit to lack of evidence. That is why it was such a hard selling job to the rest of the world.

Hi

Question from a newbie..

Just moved house...I have a homebase rig and a 5/8 wave antenna....not set them up yet.

I have a friend who lives about 20 miles from me, line of sight, who is pushing out a lot of power and should get to me no problem..

Anyone any ideas as to roughly what power would be needed to get back, based on a 5/8 wave antenna? There is one reasonably sized hill between me and my mate, the rest of the terrain is fairly flat with few buildings.

Would 15W be enough or would I need more? Communication doesn't need to be 100% but just useable most of the time.

The antenna would be properly swr'd and decent coax used.

many thanks

harry

Sure enough is! I hear he has about 24 kids. Funny, looks like he's been sucking on too many donkeys or camels to be with a woman.

And ya know, it's funny.... lately I've heard on news, the Russians, Germans, and so on are glad Saddam is out of power. Now how else would that have happened? His own death, yes, but hell, that could have been another 30 years.... Let's face it, they didn't have the balls to do it themselves. And as long as they don't have the balls, then we shall most likely always be the super power. One thing they can all admit to, is when WE go after them , we tell them. They just don't listen! 9/11, was more or less out of the blue to us, no warning that the average people knew of. They say they had intelligence. Not enough to stop it, that is for sure.
IF the CSer Osama is taking tapes to Al jezera, how come we don't have a spy there to watch and wait and pop him when he shows up? Strange how they seem to never find him. Saddam is going to be another, you watch!

Oh, ok. Tell that to the hundreds of thousands dead Iraqi's that Saddam & his Son's & subordinates tortured. Yup, they've been playing fair. Living in

Yes, they have been playing fair, if you think like

I pity you. A handful of people armed with box cutters managed to take out a few thousand people and a billion dollars plus in assets. They did so knowing it was a 1-way mission, no return. That is your enemy. Although your political leaders might not acknowledge it, trust me, your military leaders understand the Arab mentality.

The middle-east is not scared of the US. In their religion, dying in defense of their beliefs is the highest form of enlightenment. The US is probably the strongest single military on the planet. The problem is it could not handle a multi-country force against it. That is why we have NATO. If the Arab states decide to combat the US, how would it handle the onslaught, especially with no gas? Note that the Arabs would not use air power, they would infiltrate the US and knock out assets one by one. Or they would hit poorly protected interests in other countries.

If the middle east cuts off our fuel, we won't be quite so mighty.Face it, they have us by the balls.
ANY reserves would be sucked up in days by Military vehicles, and the rest of us? Well if you want to see a bad economy, try millions laid off due to no transportation to work and no fuel to run plants and so on.

Yep, if the Middle East wanted to end us, they have the power in their hands. Yes out money pays them, but they could do with out for a few weeks if they truly wanted to own us. Then THEY would have it all.

Now I can see another reason they call CB the Childrens Band. From all the replies to Why Twisty's Libel Suit Is A Joke that I have read you all sound like a bunch of little kids.
If I were new to CB Radio and was thinking of getting into the hobby, if I payed attention to a lot the messages in this group I wouldn't get into the hobby. It reminds me of the Amateur radio newsgroups when they talk about all the people getting the No Code Tech license.
Just my opinion guarenteed in the first amendment.

Only using voice is legal on CB. All else is illegal.
It's all the others that think they have to tweak their CB's so that it transmits with more power so the people like me that try to talk and hold decent conversation can't. They like to talk over you so you can't get out or use foul language a lot.
Tim please stick with just voice using legal power.
And before you add me to a stupid list I am not a Ham radio operator yet.
And most ham radio operators I have heard in both Oregon and Nevada have been a lot nicer than most CB'ers I hear.

LOL good one.
Keep up the good posting Leland. I am one of those people that use CB's legally. And in Nevada there are tons of people who think it's funny to talk over everybody who tries to have a good conversation with good clean language.

And as soon as I can learn the Morse code I am going to get my Ham radio license.
Both CB and Ham Radio are great hobbies, despite the people who think they can get away with illegally using the equipment.
Most of the Hams I have heard on my scanner have been polite and go by the rules.
Most CB'ers I have heard in Nevada are into linears and freeband crap.
Just my opinion.

I guess that they think 100 milliwatts is not enough power to go more that a few hundred feet, that it's ok to have the Morse code key on them.
I don't consider them real cb radios because they don't have the full 40 channels or like the old radios the full 23 channels.

I own several cars and I am thinking of installing GPS devices on each one of them. The trick is to transmit the GPS information back to my home in real time. I can settle for a radius of 10-20 miles from my home. So obviously the transmitter would have to work on a 12v battery, uses no public telephone system, and can be distinguished among the several cars.

My problem is to find the RF device that can meet the requirements. Any thoughts on this project?

Hey so far I have seen mostly CB radio operators bashing the Ham Radio Operators.
I have seen a few ham radio operators say things about CB operators.
Contrary to a whole bunch of other messages it's the CB'ers that are the ones causing the trouble not the ham radio operators. And it's the CB'ers that are operating Illegally, that use Freeband frequencies that interfer with other services that I have seen posting against the ham radio operators.
The general idea of most postings in this newsgroup is that it's great to modify CB's so they have higher power output or use the freeband frequencies. And they believe that they are basically invincible and won't get caught by the FCC.
There were a few people that I used to hear on the CB that I don't hear anymore because they lost their equipment to the FCC and had to pay a huge fine too.
God Bless the FCC for enforcing the law.
I admit I have several times asked about modifying a handy talkie but have since decided that it's better to be legal and use it legally.

Type "GPS fleet tracking" into your favorite search engine. You will get hundreds if not thousands of hits.

I tend to agree with you. If you go to any of the Ham News Groups you don't see them complaining about CBers. The decisions are about radio and very seldom does CB ever come up. Mind you Hams are at the forefront of technological advances while CB is stuck with 30 year old technology and no advancement.
One funny thing is in the US the FCC has a hard enforcement practice and CB seems to thrive. Ware as in Canada, IC has taken a hands off self policing approach and CB is completely dead. Local Radio stores say that they may get 1 question about CBs a month so they don't even stock them any more. Many of the trucks I see at work don't even have CBs in them.

Fair? You call playing a constant shell game with weapons inspectors, being fair? Only the very naive and gullible would believe that Saddam has not been involved with WMD while under a cease fire agreement not to do so. His whole personality is predicated on despotic behavior.

> They are heavily in debt but it has been caused by 12 years of sanctions.

No, they are in debt because Saddam's regime had decided that building opulant palaces and more statues, honoring their narcissistic leader, was more important than feeding and caring for its people. The sanctions, BTW, were imposed thanks to Saddam continuing to thumb his nose at the rest of the world, with respect to WMD. Don't blame us for sanctions. Saddam brought that on himself.

> This war like all wars is about money and power.

And you know this how?

> Iraq wanted Kuwait and the world beat them back into their own borders.

The U.S. beat them back to their borders, with some help for others. We have taken the lion's share of the responsibility for these operations. And what makes you think Saddam wouldn't do it again, if given the chance? We effectively removed that chance now. I'm sure Kuwaiti's are sleeping a bit better these days.

> Don't get me wrong, when justified, pound them into Nobody lied to you, except the leftist bent news you've obviously bought into.

> Even the code word 'Iraqi Freedom' is insulting since the original reason

That was only ONE of a few reasons. The other two had to do with removing a dictator who is a destabilizing element to the region, and who has attempted genocide to a section of his own people, among others. There are ties, and in fact, hard evidence now, that Saddam has housed training camps for terrorists. Part of the aftermath of 9/11, was that we would seek out and destroy terrorists, and those who aid and harbor them.

> Note that > after months of UN inspections, nothing was ever found.

Considering that the inspectors never had full access, without an Iraqi escort, that's not surprising. What's also not surprising, is that in the week since we took over Baghdad, we have found a cache of suspicious chemicals, radioactive material, and what could only be, a mobile bio-research lab. There are literally over a thousand possible sites that we will have to cover. I have no doubt that we will find much more. We have had Iraqi defectors who have told us as much.

> I hope for your

Why? You obviously believe all the negative press you hear, regarding the U.S. intentions.

And your job is to figure out who's "slant" is the right one. I certainly wouldn't trust Al-Jazeera, the voice of Osama Bin Laden terrorism.....

Militarily, we could wipe them all out in a year. I'm sure the Israeli's would be glad to help.

That might create a short term problem for the economy, and hasten drilling in ANWAR.

> If the Arabs shutdown the supply, the world would come to a halt within a few weeks.

So you contend that we be held hostage to a bunch of oil mongers? If those countries want to treat terrorism with a wink and a nod, we'll take care of it our way. Even the north Koreans are shaking in their boots, and how quickly we overran Iraq. Who do you think will command more respect? Someone who flexes their muscles occasionally, of someone like France, who never seems to have the stomach to do what's right. Every school kid learns how to deal with bullies. If you don't stand up to them, they will continue to terrorize you. What we are doing in the Middle East in no different.

Almost all amateur transceivers can be modified to operate in the 11 meter area by simply clipping a diode or two (Icom 735 = 2 diodes) or cutting one wire. Yaesu (FT757 and 767) is even easier, because you only need to flip a switch. (Note: Some of the older rigs are more complicated than that.) You should be able to find a suitable rig for les than $500.

For info on any specific radio, check out <www.mods.dk>. There are other modification pages on the web, too.

Maybe Chris Sweeney in Casa Grande, AZ, (better known as "Sheriff Bob" on 27.555) would like to sell his Yaesu FT920? Couldn't hurt to ask him.

Caveat: These radios are not legal for transmitting on CB. ;)

Thanks to all of you that answered my first question about SWR and damage.

Now I have another question for you guys. (It's due to my lack of understanding of radio science.) I have an RV which is mostly fiberglass. I understand that I have to have a no-ground-plane antennae. I was told that the NGP antennae's are not very good. Now my question is this: do I have to use a NGP antennae if I NEVER transmit and just monitor? Can I use a regular antennae? My problem is that I don't seem to be receiving from any distance (using a no-brand name NGP antennae). On ch 19 there just isn't much chatter, at least not on my CB. I believe it's the antennae. Does tuning the antennae improve reception or is tuning just for transmission? Also, can I mount the antennae on the back of the RV and run the wire to the front? That would be about 50 feet. What do you guys suggest?

Thanks

Since you feel that your callsign makes you superior to all others, my call, to you, is GOD. It's turds like you that have stopped me from taking an official test. Without studying, I can pass the no code test with 90+ in 9 minutes on qrz.com. Who cares? I can get my share of ham talk on repeaters or my old sideband channel.

The others are worthless trolls. You should read Jerry Oxendine's latest expose of the differences between CB and ham. He hit the nail on the head. If you were a good ham, you could be a new Nï¿½BK (SK).

Garmin has a combination FRS/GPS radio that transmits it's position to other Garmin FRS/GPS radios. Just hack one to put a better antenna on it at home.

You won't damage your radio but your receive sensitivity will not be as high if the radio is not matched to the antenna.

Jeb,
If you don't plan to do any transmitting the kind of antenna you use for receiving isn't reallt too important. Almost anything will work, but the higher you can mount it, the better. Tuning the antenna will make some difference if you are only recieving, but nothing spectacular by any means. Tuning an antenna is primarily for transmitting purposes.
You might try a 'regular' antenna and provide a ground (or groundplane) for it. It wouldn't have to be very elaborate at all. A couple of 18 feet wires arranged in an 'X' configuration with the antenna mounted where they cross will work. Connect the two 'ground' wires to the braid of the feed line, or the 'ground' portion of the antenna mount. Glue, tape, or nail the wires to the roof of your RV. I'd then go ahead and tune the antenna so that you can transmit (why not, it's there anyway).
'Doc

PS - Don't nail the wires down, fibreglass doesn't like nails. The 'redneck' way is to use old bald tires.
If your high-class 'redneck', use new tires...

What he stated is true,,now that the POW's are safe and his (lying Bush) rating is gonna go even higher, it doesn't change the fact that Bush changed his stated objective several times about his reasons for invading Iraq...

A) rid world of WMD's (which is total bullshit as many countries have them and we will do NOTHING, ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to certain countries that possess them)...

B) fighting terrorism (Another smokescreen, as one would be hard-pressed to find a country that DIDN"T support SOME type terrorism).........

C) liberating the Iraqis (The LEAST credible of all, WHY stop with Iraq?
There are literally countless of "illegal governments" (according to the US) around the world that need "liberated" IF American-imposed democracy was truly a goal,,but it isn't, which is why the buck stops with the oil wells).....

Also, allow us to reflect on the matter there would have been no POW's if it wasn't for Bush' waning popularity post 9-11..he needed drastic measures as he failed brilliantly in his stated 'number one priority" objective of "apprehending Osama",,so he went after a sitting duck, and made up the rules as he went along...somewhere along the line Bush morphed Osama into Hussein and sheople bought it.......

Now that Iraq is toppled, can you not feel the newly created safety in the world? I know I'll sleep better at night knowing that Hussoma,,er,,Ossein,,, can't finance, direct, recruit, or train anymore of those terrorists like he did on 9-11 or fire anymore of those tons and tons of chemicals he had that Bush protected the cities of the US from,

  I agree with the poster,,those that blindly get in line behind Bush and accept whatever babble he hands the sheople this week illustrates just how complacent and truly apathetic we as a nation have become.

If Bush was truly concerned about the nature of this country, he damn sure would have foregone his tax cuts to those who need them the least during a time of war..,,everyone is suppose to do their part but there shall be no sacrifice by Bush and the richest of the rich.............

Those false patriots who would like nothing better than to take away the right and silence those who opposed Bush and/or the war in Iraq are strangely silent when asked why it's ok for Bush to exercise his right to focus on HIS personal agendas for friends and beholden constituents by slashing taxes only for the top two percent when the rest of the country are making sacrifices....or when asked if Bushes ineffectiveness with ecomomic policy is due his incompetence, impotence, ignorance, complacency, or failure to acknowledge.
Iraq is but one country of 18 that are officially designated hostile and dangerous and each of these 18 countries all meet the same criteria as the reasons given for invading Iraq. Those that continue to parrot the notion "we HAD to "liberate" the Iraqi people" do not understand the greater logistics involved worldwide and are matter-of-factly stating their preference for the Iraqi people's freedom is greater than the value they place on American GI's lives.

No matter, if you agree or not, the one matter that is absolute bullshit that is screwing this nation like no other president has ever done before, was the Bush promise of health care for all Iraqis. This is an absolute travesty and abomination to the US citizens who work and pay taxes with no adequate health care fot their own families. If the US government is going to begin handing out free medical care, it damn well needs to begin at home.

This newsgroup has no charter because rec.radio.cb was created by hams

FAQ, but in recent years it has been maintained by proponents of freebanding and illegal amplifiers. So the only rule is to use your best

The actual posts made here represent but a mere fraction of those that sandbag. Most radio related and technical questions are handled exactly the same as before except the infected puss was eliminated. Nothing changed except the cancerous lesions were cut out and not included in the de-reconstruction of such discussions. They were hung out to dry,,you see them each day here, pining away for,,,,,,,,what they sorely lack, an education in communication.

Perfect. Your stance is so hypocritical it begs to be pointed out. You have demonstrated only those rules, laws, and amendments YOU agree with are somehow "patriotic". You feel, and have chastised those those who dared to exercise their right to speak out against the president as being unpatriotic, or are somehow against America. "In God We Trust" is our national motto. This is not some Christian, right wing, political slogan. We adopted this motto because Christian men and women, on Christian principles, founded this nation, and this is clearly documented...that you failed to have learned such and continue to espouse the opposite clearly indicates your lack of knowledge of the subject.
If a Christian God offends you, then I suggest you consider another part of the world as your new home, because God is part of our culture.

Someone just proved the mentality of a lot of the posters in this group.
What evidence do you have that makes you think that I am in Drag?
Or is that just your idea of being funny.
I guess a few of the other people who posted replies to my last message don't know how to read the message all the way through.
Because I did admit to asking about modifying a rig.
And since had changed my mind to keep it legal.
But I guess they only read what they want to read.

Got my May issue of Radio Active today !!!

Elaine Richards (elaine@pwpublishing.ltd.uk) used her entire editorial making sure all readers know about the plans of the RA.

Len's (ontheroad@lenover.com) On The Road column page 44 once again highlights peoples views on the subject.

AND

In the letters page, Backchat page 27 there is a letter asking for more CB content especially rig reviews. Elaine's simple answer is review your rig, send it in and we will print it.

I believe in the absence of a specialist CB mag that this is mag to buy to keep up to date.

Suppose im a little best as im also a scanner but so many CB'ers are and its a great mag.

If any of you want to get a copy Email Elaine or contact the subs queries at subs@pwpublishing.ltd.uk or on 01590 641148. Unfortunately it is rare in the shops now but lets not lose another grate mag due to poor circulation.

"tuned to the radio" is not always the best of terms.

An antenna system doesn't have to be tuned resonant to work. It's specific to the design and type/operation of the antenna.

There are plenty of non resonant antennas that work well for both transmitting and receiving.

Receive mode is not specific to anything at all plugged into the antenna jack. Even a wire will do... just a question of how well it will receive a signal.

But most antennas by convention are matched to the radio input impedance and are often tuned for a specific desired bandwidth.

When using a totally wrong type of antenna to monitor (listen) to a frequency, you might consider pulling the coax ground connector back and allowing just the center pin to contact the radio. Try it sometimes...

(as an example)
Not the most optimal method by any means, but you can use a 40 meter ham antenna on 80 meters RECEIVE ONLY buy connecting just the center conductor to the radio. It works while you make up a proper transmitting antenna system.

Hey so far I have seen mostly CB radio operators bashing the Ham Radio Operators.
I have seen a few ham radio operators say things about CB operators. Contrary to a whole bunch of other messages it's the CB'ers that are the ones causing the trouble not the ham radio operators. And it's the CB'ers that are operating Illegally, that use Freeband frequencies that interfer with other services that I have seen posting against the ham radio operators.
The general idea of most postings in this newsgroup is that it's great to modify CB's so they have higher power output or use the freeband frequencies. And they believe that they are basically invincible and won't get caught by the FCC.
There were a few people that I used to hear on the CB that I don't hear anymore because they lost their equipment to the FCC and had to pay a huge fine too.
God Bless the FCC for enforcing the law.
I admit I have several times asked about modifying a handy talkie but have since decided that it's better to be legal and use it legally.

A fitting example was your defense of N8..yes,,,hypocrites.

>you get mad when someone tells you your >doing something illegal,

--

That is bullshit. You can tell someone they may be illegal till you're blue in the face,,no one cares. Archives show that each and every time one of you tell another they may be "illegal", it is always done with insult, such as name calling or some other bullshit......leaving it as "i's illegal" isn't good enough...if you fail to convince (read: convert) one to your position, the anger is easily traceable, and it damn sure ain't the chosen one you are confronting.

(but when they mention they may do something illegal you get your panties in a bunch and then want to act like your a legal beagle. haha you crack me up along with your leader twisty, he blames others for causing problems in theis ng yet has persisted to do so for over 2 years that my friend and I use that term loosely is a hypocrite)

I blame no one unless personally affronted with an untruth,.such as your daily pathetic failed attempts. No one is responsible for anothers happiness or calamity,,except me,,I'm obviously responsible and to blame for yours and apparently a few others. When you learn some self-control, you may figure it out all out,,until then, you shall continue to dangle.

I never said my 'merde' doesn't stink. You seem to think thats the case.
As for my class of license....whats that got to do with a thing? Sure I got it a long while before the cw was basically dropped. But again, so what?

Im talking to you Scott...you are the one trying to prove something. And attempting to tear me down to do it. Sorry, wont work.

And no I dont have a funny hat and dont have a HT tied to my waste at hamfests. In fact I dont even listen to 2m FM anymore. I do it on HF.
Where real ham radio is.

George I must asnwer to this article falling into the line of akc. I can see why there is a so large degree of disharmonie actions caused by the posts of such people as Twistedhead and his followers. I have read the records of group and illegal is the one who is most vocal. Now they attack Ginger eakle for saying she is legal [even though she admit to change of emotion?] and they have attack me [looking at my ISP and calling names] for supporting it.

Aaron, is that you... just kidding.

Most of what you say Ginger is right. Although I don't always operate 100% legal, I try and make a point of not interfering with other radio occupants. I certainly don't infringe on any others designated bands...

Many out here enjoy a kind of thrill of being a rebel, just to be "someone". They will make every attempt to interfere with anyone out on any band to be recognized. I trust you won't lump me into their club...

Has this AMP been aprroved by the FCC? Ah heck, I will just go ahead and send the Info to them and ask them to reply back if its approved or not.

Like you have done for hammie radio?

Funny thing that callsign does not belong to me and I am not a Ham, now I guess that throws a wrench into your disdain for hammies.

Funny I never said there was anyone on those frequencies, or anythign even remotely close about those freqs nice diversion tactic. But I did say aren't these the same people(hams)that you listen to on the repeaters, you did say you do listen to ham repeaters or was it just ham freqs.

ANTI-TWISTEDHED WEEKEND WINDER-UPPER

Twistedhed should really leave the newsgroup. If you check out rec.radio.cb and look to see where the strife is happening and in what threads you will find that the one common denominator is Twistedhed. That's right, Twistedhed is the locus, the center, the ground zero of all the unrest in this newsgroup. If you research the archives you will see that it has always been that way. Twistedhed has been on a tear, persecuting Leland Scott for imaginary wrongs since time immemorial. He has attacked Dave Hall forever and a day as well. George, N8, Voob, Kari, Kevin Meunzler, have also suffered at the hands of this lunatic. Good luck if he favours you, for then you'll be subjected to abuse for weeks on end. The only sure solution is to compel him to leave by writing his ISP which is webtv.net. A complaint couched in terms of violations of his TOS should do the trick.

The AntiTwistedhed Weekend Winder-Upper contains hot-buttons and topics guaranteed to get Twistedhed all wound up and spinning like a top and spewing nonsense in a jiffy.

789. [ANTITWISTEDHED] CLASSES OF AMPLIFIERS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.cb

From: "Operation \"RRCB\" Freedom" <atanycost@antitwisty.com> Message-ID: <MJycnVtUhao2_AajXTWcpA@comcast.com>
Source record: 156109

Class A1
A Class A amplifier in which grid current does not flow over any part of the input wave cycle.

Class A2
A Class A amplifier operated under such conditions that the grid is driven positive over a portion of the input voltage cycle, but plate current still flows over the entire cycle.

Class AB1
An amplifier operated under such conditions of grid bias and excitation voltage that plate current flows for more than one half the input voltage wave cycle, but less than the complete cycle. i.e. The operating angle of plate current flow is appreciably greater than 180 degrees, but less than 360 degrees. The suffix "1" indicates that grid current does not flow over any portion of the input cycle.

Class AB2
An amplifier operated under similar conditions as AB1, but where the excitation voltage is of such amplitude that grid current does flow over an appreciable portion of the input wave cycle.

Class B
A Class B amplifier is biased to cut off of plate current (without excitation voltage present) so that plate current flows over only one half of the input voltage cycle. The operating angle of plate current flow is 180 degrees. Grid current flows. The magnitude of grid current at a given point on the input wave cycle depends on the instantaneous voltage at that point. Higher input voltage points having higher grid current magnitudes. This "variable input impedance" requires a stiff driver capable of delivering some power to the input of such an amplifier stage.

Class C A class C amplifier is biased to a value greater than that required for plate current cutoff. Excitation voltage is of such magnitude that grid current flows over all of the period of the input wave cycle. The angle of plate current flow is less than 180 degrees, actually as low as 120 degrees, up to about 180 degrees. These amplifier circuits also require power to drive them

The AntiTwistedhed Technical Discussion is intended to make Twistedhed irrelevant to the newsgroup by stimulating technical discussion on radio topics.

George, much like with you, I don't care to get in a pissing match with Twist. Lately, I've not agreed with his views of what has transpired in Iraq. I have my own views and beliefs. I hope they hold true.

That being said, I read what I want, disregard what I don't want to read, argue with what I choose, and get a chuckle from a lot that goes on here. On the subject of Twist being incoherent, I don't think that's the case. The words he uses are not big at all. I understand the meaning of them perfectly. Not to belittle you, but those "big" words are found in dictionaries from coast to coast. You may want to consider purchasing one.

While it is possible in some cases, and depending on the design of the transmitter's final amp stage, to damage an output transistor, skipp makes a good point. Don't worship the god of "SWR". Remember that a dummy load has a 1:1 swr, but good luck talking to anyone using one.
Hey Skipp are you the keeper of the Siltronix web page? If so, good to see you and my Swan 1011 is still working well, just wish the sunspots were better.

To learn the technical TRUTH about CB Radio without all the hype from people who are just plain ignorant, check out the following books from CBC International. They're selling right now at a big discounts on our EBAY & AMAZON stores too.

Check it out! Go to this link:

http://cgi6.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewSellersOtherItems&userid=lou@cbcintl.com&completed=0&sort=3&since=-1&include=0&page=1&rows=25

To see exactly what these books look like, plus all the specific, chapter-by-chapter details, see our Web at:

www.cbcintl.com

Some of the books included are:

BOOK #1: THE "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE To Peaking Out & Repairing CB Radios. List $25. The most popular "big dummy's" guide ever published on do-it-yourself CB repairs & modifications. Covers peaking of receivers, transmitters, modulation, mike problems, antenna & SWR problems, detailed frequency modifications for both crystal & PLL radios. Loaded with charts, illustrations, and specific instructions for most brands including the new export models. This latest edition also covers slider and broadbanding tricks, FM conversions, and much more!

BOOK #2: THE CB PLL DATA BOOK. List $20. The only complete reference source on CB PLL synthesizer circuits ever published! Detailed PLL theory explained in layman's terms. How they work, and how to modify them for many more channels. Includes specific PLL block mixing diagrams, truth charts, & IC pin function diagrams for nearly every PLL chip ever used. Covers all the most popular U.S. & export chassis, with specific listings of all models using the chip.

BOOK #3: UNDERSTANDING & REPAIRING CB RADIOS. List $42. Giant 370-page technical book for the professional repairman. Picks up where the "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE leaves off. Includes circuit descriptions & troubleshooting guide for 23- & 40-Ch., crystal & PLL, solid-state & tube, AM, FM, SSB, CW, American & export models. Covers test equipment (& where to find it), transistor basics, synthesizers, receivers, transmitters, power supplies, T/R switching, antennas, interference, parts & accessory sources. Over 350 illustrations including schematics, charts, and photos. Huge subject index also lets you look up repairs by symptoms. This is "must" reading for any serious CB technician!

Any antenna has the property of being "reciprocal", meaning that whatever is true for transmitting is also true for receiving. If it's tuned for the highest efficiency while transmitting it is also at it's highest efficiency for receiving, and vice-versa.

>Also, can I mount the antennae on the back of the RV and run the wire to the

Probably not a good idea because no-ground-plane antennas need a specific length of coax, which is usually 18ft and provided with the antenna. Instead of that NGP, if you can find or build a decent ground plane on your vehicle you could mount a normal antenna just about anywhere, and with any length of coax. My first choice would probably be to install a mount on the rear bumper (assuming the bumper is electrically connected to the rest of the frame), and use a 9ft whip for the antenna. And don't forget the tennis ball!

Randy why don't you say the same to twistys.his posts are just as incoherent if not more so as twisty trys to use big words

--
George, much like with you, I don't care to get in a pissing match with Twist. Lately, I've not agreed with his views of what has transpired in Iraq. I have my own views and beliefs. I hope they hold true.
That being said, I read what I want, disregard what I don't want to read, argue with what I choose, and get a chuckle from a lot that goes on here. On the subject of Twist being incoherent, I don't think that's the case. The words he uses are not big at all. I understand the meaning of them perfectly. Not to belittle you, but those "big" words are found in dictionaries from coast to coast. You may want to consider purchasing one.

Many don't agree with my views on Iraq..over a third of the country...maybe more...this is a great medium to exchange the free flow of information and the exchange of ideas,,,if we were to all agree on the same things, there would be no need for a venue of informational exchange and we wouldnt rely on people like Geogre to illustrate that some do not agree with extending rights to others that they abuse.

I like discussing issues with an opposite view point,,,what becomes redundant is when one tries to convince the other that one way is "better" or the "only" way or feels the compulsion to become insultive of nature and insensitive to anyoe but their own myopic POV..

My views on Iraq are now focused upon the $$ aspect. I thought the entire country was tired of building and rebuilding other countries,,maybe I was wrong...maybe giving free medical care to another country will show our working poor who can't afford medical care that Bush actually does care about the poor,,,he makes so many of them
....seriously,,,the free medical care promise by Bush rots.

ANTI-TWISTEDHED WEEKEND WINDER-UPPER
Twistedhed should really leave the newsgroup. If you check out rec.radio.cb and look to see where the strife is happening and in what threads you will find that the one common denominator is Twistedhed.
That's right, Twistedhed is the locus, the center, the ground zero of all the unrest in this newsgroup. If you research the archives you will see that it has always been that way. Twistedhed has been on a tear, persecuting Leland Scott for imaginary wrongs since time immemorial. He has attacked Dave Hall forever and a day as well. George, N8, Voob, Kari, Kevin Meunzler, have also suffered at the hands of this lunatic.
Good luck if he favours you, for then you'll be subjected to abuse for weeks on end. The only sure solution is to compel him to leave by writing his ISP which is webtv.net. A complaint couched in terms of violations of his TOS should do the trick.

The AntiTwistedhed Weekend Winder-Upper contains hot-buttons and topics guaranteed to get Twistedhed all wound up and spinning like a top and spewing nonsense in a jiffy.

I believe Lelnad realized it is better to choose carefully when to be insulted instead of allowing negative factors such as Geogre to tell him when to be insulted. Playing by Geogre's rules has cost him dearly and Geogre hung him out to dry. The akc no longer exists..Geogre fancies himself a self-appointed spokesperson of a self-destroyed lid regime.
One merely needs to look at Geogres rising desperation and level of frustration for confirmation.

"Frasso",,,,you see the effectiveness of such behavior,,look at yourself.

No problems with hammies, only a minority of lids, such as yourself, who have an unexplained hankering to hide their identity and attempt to impose your will upon internet cb strangers. That you feel others somehow "care" about the crisis you suffer, is too amusing. When your obsession of identity you come apart.....

I have many friends that are hammies..some of them even attempt to elmer you on a regular basis, only you suffer too great a communication deficit to comprehend proper communication technique. You prefer to focus on the premoral infant syndrome that plagues you and is responsible for holding you down.

You're more than welcome, but the fact remains that you said nothing of the sort. Re-read the original posts, nothing at all saying that you've had a "change of mind". Having George back you up is like having the Iraqi information minister on your side, not good.

"Only using voice is legal on CB. All else is illegal.
It's all the others that think they have to tweak their CB's so that it transmits with more power so the people like me that try to talk and hold decent conversation can't. They like to talk over you so you can't get out or use foul language a lot.
Tim please stick with just voice using legal power.
And before you add me to a stupid list I am not a Ham radio operator yet.
And most ham radio operators I have heard in both Oregon and Nevada have been a lot nicer than most CB'ers I hear."

"LOL good one.
Keep up the good posting Leland. I am one of those people that use CB's legally. And in Nevada there are tons of people who think it's funny to talk over everybody who tries to have a good conversation with good clean language.
And as soon as I can learn the Morse code I am going to get my Ham radio license.

Both CB and Ham Radio are great hobbies, despite the people who think they can get away with illegally using the equipment.
Most of the Hams I have heard on my scanner have been polite and go by the rules.
Most CB'ers I have heard in Nevada are into linears and freeband crap.
Just my opinion."

"Again I agree with Leland C Scott you can get just as much enjoyment out of the CB hobby being legal."

Still didn't answer my question. I use rechargeable Nimh AA batteries so I always have a supply of charged batteries. So that's not a problem.
I had a friend that used to tweak the power of handheld cb's but he left town and I don't know how to get a hold of him.
If it's possible to mod where can I find it?
Thanks

Have it all you want, but to come here and start asking questions on how to mod radio's then all of a sudden get an urge to be a "good legal radio operator", is anything but normal.

Has this AMP been aprroved by the FCC? Ah heck, I will just go ahead and send the Info to them and ask them to reply back if its approved or not.

And then what will you do? Couple your license status with the fact that you aren't familiar with such things and it reflects grandly on why the state of hammie radio is in such dire straits.
It is possible a cber may enlighten you on the information that eludes you.

LOL..no,I do have another brother in Texas, but no relation to the chicks. I think their music is ok,,but not near my genre. Buying every copy of their cd that the store had took a few bucks,,but the left-wing radicals were happy when I donated the lot of them. What we peace-lovers go through to do our part....

Not lately,,check Rolling Stone,,due their anti-Bush and war stance, they are now selling records in places where no one even knew who the hell they were before this little stunt Sales are up worldwide. Even PJ O"Rourke had something interesting things to say about them. Methinks the Dixie Chips played the American public and are lauging all the way to the bank. If you can't hear anything on those frequencies, get a better antenna. I hear stuff all the time, when I listen. They are national SIMPLEX freqs.

I have many radios and receivers. I can listen anywhere. Hams and repeaters are covered in the range. I can even do the denied portion of 800 MHZ. I don't because cell phones are more boring then hams. Taxi service is great listening. You never know what you'll hear. The drivers are as entertaining as the dispatchers, who are entertained by the customers. Set up two radios, one on dispatch and one on cabs. Split system, no repeater.

here ya go radiodan.....this is the poopfessor speaking sometime earlier this year......

I was looking at their web site... and I'm not real impressed by the photos of their equipment. They claim to be in the amp business for over 30 years. I would think that they would have come further in their asthetics by now. I also don't think their specs are very professional. They give no spec on harmonic content, show no graphs for input/output powers, and say nothing about biasing class. It looks like they could use some help... lol radiodan i know you are busy and don't have time for mudducks but would you explain to this pinhead why your amps are good ???

"The simple fact that many more people are sand-bagging on the side, just reading the various posts, makes it all worth while. The word has to get out to those who may not have made up their mind whether to operate legal or not. A point needs to be made that there is in fact a rather vocal group that points out the pit falls and the trouble one may find themselves in if they choose to go the illegal route. In fact there is nothing wrong with operating totally legal, and the opinions of the pirate operators are not the only opinions out there. The fence sitting CBer needs to understand that should they choose to go the illegal route they are playing with fire and will sooner or later will get burnt. So the endless debates on this news group are not waged solely to convert the already hard core pirate CBer, but for those who check in for advice etc, and have not yet made up their mind".

A brilliant liar you're not....you're lousy even at that. The call is yours.....

>Says you LOL

Why,,of course, says me,,,and several others whose respect is worthy of a level you can only hallucinate of.

_
your word is nothing and it will never be taken over the late Dick McCollum's word,,

>He ass for brains PhilC is the one who >claimed I was wa3moj not the late dickie >mccollum,

Nah,,there were several that solidified WHO you were, but only 'cause you were hung up on identity for so long while simultaneously denying your own.

No shit for brains do a google lookup of the wa3moj in this NG and play along like the rest of the window lickers.
Are they the same several that claimed I was Leland, Aaron, Frank and Doug??

>you ned to get your head out of your ass.

Why does what I do or say have such a profound impact upon your fragile psyche?

because you lie

Not only that, but you're not as intelligent as you like to think you are concerning the internet....

>All this from a guy who uses web tv lol, .

Illustrating the irony as another example in a long line of communication you fail to comprehend.

Really? Then who am I other than an internet stranger that has you exerting vast amounts of angry fascism at whim? <g>

>You have never been more wrong. LOL and it >is funny as hell.

yes, Geogre,,you were set up like a bowling pin,,,conned and goaded into such acts..

I was goaded into setting him up lol and so far for 2 years it has worked well.

I just brought it up,,,,,interpreting such as "ignoring" it is your dilemma,,try not to project it onto others.

more twisty clamour keep stammering frasso

>when the day does arrive and I do reveal who >I am

_
LOL......that you feel any await such a "day" is a crude but effective and illustrative example of your narcissism arrived at through ignorance and communicative deficits.

what did he say?

Longer is better. Drilled holes are better. Good grounds are essential.
Coax length does not matter in a proper installation. SWR should be below 2:1 with 1.5:1 being just fine. No one will notice if you split hairs and attempt 1:1. You may actually lose performance that way.
1:1 only means 50 ohms, it does NOT mean resonance. Good luck.

MFJ made two antenna analyzers. One was the "simple noise bridge" and almost next to useless. The other one had the signal source and was rather complex. It worked very well for what it is.

Twsithead is not lay? Why should George sleep if Twishead not sleep? Saddam Twistteahd is accurate the despotic. Ginger Eakle wants no illegal and George is the same so Lanshasrk and Uday and Otay must atack. What kind of freadom is this? Hypocricy. Blah. I will join akc before I bow to Twisthed and illegal CB.

Just one thing to add: An SWR of 3:1 means that you are reflecting only 25% of your signal. When you consider that you need four times as much power just to double your range, and that you can lose much more than 25% of your power just by using a cheap antenna, you will realize that even an SWR of 3:1 isn't a very significant loss.

anybody should to know, that antena acts two way, on receiving mode and transmitting mode most important condition of antenna working is to be in resonance it's needed for having good reception, for transmitting also good SWR
is needed, to prevent final transistor ... only half wave vertical antenna (middle or down loaded) works good with no ground plane for simply, but good 1/4 wave GP - "ground plane" is needed you may also hang an ordinary dipole antenna, using two pieces of random wire, 103 inches each sorry for my english, but I live in at least "6 hours later zone", Shux, geogre,,,we have always been liberated,,,it's why attempts at

The pinnacle of radio liberation is pirate radio and freeband. That your that there is in fact a rather vocal group that points out the pit falls illegal route. In fact there is nothing wrong with operating totally legal, and the opinions of the pirate operators are not the only opinions out there. The fence sitting CBer needs to understand that should they choose to go the illegal route they are playing with fire

Nope, there isn't..but the ex-Lelnad's post ASSumes a "pirate" or freebander (whatever broad and odd definitions you attach to such terms) speaks out against LEGAL cb..not one person, pirate nor freebander, has complained or taken issue with such, making your argument playing with yourself deliver the much needed ego boost your lack of

Yea..my bad,,,,what I meant to type was that maybe over a third of the country share my beliefs concerning skepticism over the presidents true motives concerning the Iraqi invasion. I know what the polls say, and I've never believed them. The last election showed that they are fudged and not really accurate, right up until the last second....remember Bush called Gore and congratulated him, then called him again a short time later and rescinded. If this wasn't a major fudge on the polls and medias part, then it came from the Bush team.
I believe I am being conservative with those estimates. I could be mistaken,,,,but I believe his approval rating is nowhere near what the numbers claim. On a sidebar to Geo,,,the initial name was NOT "Operation Iraqi-Freedom".

I agree with the majority here... antennas should be 5ft. or longer for decent reception, coax length only affects signal attennuation, a 4'x4' sheet of metal (copper,aluminum,stainless,iron) makes a fine ground plane that could be attached to the base of the antenna using a short length of copper braid.
Keep in mind that RF currents are rather touchy about following the path of least resistance.
Always try to make soldered connections when dealing with RF currents.
The lack of reception is more prone to be a receiver problem, see if the receive can be turned up at a preferred cb shop.
Cobra's are notorious for having poor receive in stock condition.
A 100pf capacitor can be used inside the radio between the shield and ground to improve the receive as well.
Good luck traveler and look out for the BIG trucks.....
P.S. state your general location and we can recommend a decent cb shop

Amateur radio is the gentlemans club of RF communications..... if the unlicensed operators want to bash us and cause interference

Thanks Mad Dog..
I am located in the Baltimore area.
BTW, I always look out for the big trucks - many years ago I WAS and owner-operator. Back then I had a Freightshaker powered by Cummings but that was before de-regulation and exploding fuel prices. Now I drive an RV that's built on a Freightliner chassis and power by CAT with an Alison transmission. Funny how things work out!

You don't need the generator in the trunk, just the proper size alternator under the hood... sometimes that means more than one alternator under the hood.

I prefer the radiation angle of the 3/4 and 5/8 wave antennas.

You'd probably have to drive the dual 3-500z amp with at least 60 to 80 watts... think of the space heater you'd have in the trunk... :-)

Don't know if the extra gain over the 80 watts would really be worth all the trouble during certain band conditions.

Might be more work to operate it...

agreement. there is nothing wroing with legal cb --

Nope, there isn't..but the ex-Lelnad's post ASSumes a "pirate" or freebander (whatever broad and odd definitions you attach to such terms) speaks out against LEGAL cb..not one person, pirate nor freebander, has complained or taken issue with such

>(.at the time when pirate calls some individual a mud ducxk or step on them with illegal power they are at that time taken issue against legal cb and forward the favour of illegal cb.)<

Calling one a mud-duck among these pages is akin to favoring illegal cb? LOL.....not at all. Try to remain on topic,,,,you have now changed the equation to what takes place on the air as opposed to the topic of what is said among these pages..

>(Can you have more increased undersatnding now?)<

But of course. What I said is true, you recognized it as such, as you have not a single example of anyone in here attacking another for espousing legal views.
What you did, was fail to change the topic when it was pointed out that no one has been attacked here for speaking about or espousing legal cb. That of which you interpret as illegal behavior on the air is an entirely different claim. Everyone has this "increased undersatning (sic)" except those that share your communication deficit. You really hate to be wrong, but you should have grown quite accoustomed to it by now.

> (Ginger eakle is truthful which begins the discusion.)<

You ought worry about your own limitations in communications before you go trying to ruin yet anothers.

The answer to both questions is No.

The frequencies are not in the CB band, which is 26.965-27.405. The frequencies in question are used (or at least assigned) to Civil Air Patrol, remote monitoring and government land mobile services.

You do not need a license to operate on the CB band, however, only unmodified, type accepted CB equipment is legal to use in that band.

(No, I'm not a radio cop. I'm just giving the factual answers to your questions)

Really,,,I do not,,unlike you, I ask no redundant questions...again, I ask who "they" are? You have went from delusionally obsessed to severe paranoia. One of your pals lose another ISP, Geogre?

_
>you and your band of cohorts who roam the >NG <

I have no cohorts. I am a loner, and an independent radio station. The last club I belonged kind of fell by the wayside over the years. And once a freebander has all the countries in several modes with such low power it makes lids like you green with envy, there really is no sense in belinging to anymore clubs, if the interest is DX.
Now, LPFM pirate stations have really been getting huge lately, many personalized stations popping up on your FM dial,,,,just gotta poke around'.

You're angry at everyone Geo, except the ex-AKC members who are no longer a factor,,I mention this only because you have expressed repeated difficulties in the past in comprehending such things.

(How does what i said "PhilC was set up and he took the bait and perpetuated it." equall me being angry?)

It illustrates that your ire has no bounds. Phil hasn't posted in how long and you're reaching for him, now.

> lol nice twisted diversion tactic.

Merely pointing such things out...._

>yet you run from it like SAR's

That you misinterpret my talking of it as "running from it" is deservedly entertaining.

>Lie #2 Thats the point tipsy, you dont talk >about it you run from it

The "Frasso" thing? Nah, I don't run from it,,,,what would you like to discuss, Geogre? It has nothing to do with anything except your obsessive compulsiveness and unsatiable desire and curiousity with the identity of the one you feel you must answer to, for whatever twisted inner reasons you hold.

>(is that why you ignore it because it hits home?)<

I just brought it up,,,,,interpreting such as "ignoring" it is your dilemma,,try not to project it onto others.

>(The projection that you display regarding frasso is there for all to see)<

It may be, except that I never "regarded" Frasso...YOU did..LOL.

>(, i have done nothing except to enlighten others of the fact which is apparent.)<

Allow me to enlighten you to that of which you fail to see...difference is, unlike yourself, I will not attempt to convince you I am not the one you think I am..it simply doesn't matter.

>more twisty clamour keep stammering frasso

Being easily frustrated upsets you,, >yes

Well, it wasn't a question, but since you recognize your low tolerance and easily frustrated psyche,,why not approach the problem, not lash out at your symptoms?

LOL...if I were to ever get "upset" from anything I read in this ng, I would be ashamed of myself, much like yourself.

Truth hurts, Geogre. You simply must learn to grow on your own and not look to others for validity.

I-95 exit #41A Jessup,Md. T/A Travel center....
There is a CB shop located in the hotel on the 1st floor, he is a little pricey for my taste but he does good work.
Ask him to check the IF amplifier and the receive side of the board then turn up the receive to your liking.
P.S., I drive a 2002 KW T2000...Burgundy metalflake w/a C-12 Cat and straight 10

I believe your dealing with a Century Class...yes
If so add a 50ohm 9' jumper between the co-phase harness and the radio, worked for me.....change the antennas to 5' firestiks for even better

You're angry at everyone Geo, except the ex-AKC members who are no longer a factor,,I mention this only because you have expressed repeated difficulties in the past in comprehending such things.

(How does what i said "PhilC was set up and he took the bait and perpetuated it." equall me being angry?)

It illustrates that your ire has no bounds. Phil hasn't posted in how long and you're reaching for him, now.

I haven't reached for him your lieing again, i mereley stated the facts as they are PhilC was the one where all this started your reaching for BS excuses because the truth and you are like water and oil.

>Lie #2 Thats the point tipsy, you dont talk >about it you run from it

The "Frasso" thing? Nah, I don't run from it,,,,what would you like to discuss, Geogre? It has nothing to do with anything except your obsessive compulsiveness and unsatiable desire and curiousity with the identity of the one you feel you must answer to, for whatever twisted inner reasons you hold.

who said frasso was a person? is it a secret identity?

Allow me to enlighten you to that of which you fail to see...difference is, unlike yourself, I will not attempt to convince you I am not the one you think I am..it simply doesn't matter.

Well, it wasn't a question, but since you recognize your low tolerance and easily frustrated psyche,,why not approach the problem, not lash out at your symptoms?
----

why did you snip my quote and take it out of context? as you say truth hurts so you need to distort what is said Ah never mind that is typical of you it is all you have.

there ya go skip... co-phased sigma 4's......with 2000+ watts out... traffic jams would take on a new problem!!!!

pair of 3-500's can run the entire band i would think, without retuning....... hahahahha.... gotta be in a cadillac, they got the best air conditioner....

and where you gonna get 240 volts from an anternator???? guess you could run the genset off the car motor.....kill the freeking mototr.... hahhahahahaha....."ROVER" later guys!

And this is what's most troubling about the FCC's stance. It would seem that literal interpretation of Riley H.'s message, would seem to imply that the statistically small percentage of hams, who also freeband, stand a much greater chance of getting popped, than the vast majority of freebanders, who have no license at all. Tracking down illegal signals is the same, whether or not the station operator is licensed or not, so I don't quite understand the logic in this position. Illegal is illegal, and ALL the people involved should be cited equally. If this is purely a political issue, where Riley has authority over only ham operators, then an equivilent position needs to be created to address unlicensed operators as well.

This attitude, will also have the effect of convincing many freebanding fence sitters, to not legitimize their radio hobby, by upgrading to ham status, simply because it puts their freeband activity at greater risk. I don't think the FCC's goal is to promote unlicensed, illegal activity. But that's exactly what they're doing, by placing greater emphasis on singling out hams who also freeband.

Skepticism is fine. But remember, it doesn't take a remarkable level of intelligence to question something. In fact, the people most likely to question matters, such as foreign policy, are also the same people who know the least about it, and who are generally not privvy to the facts, or all known (and possibly classified) information.

Hello? What planet have you been on? Gore called Bush and conceded the election to him, and it was GORE, acting on the advice of his election team, who later rescinded, which then started the whole recount debacle. Why would Gore be demanding a recount, if Bush had conceded to him?

This is a matter of history now.

What is "rare" about this radio? It's also sold as the HTX-10, sidewinder 400, some other brand with 485 in the model number.

The RS versions can't be modified, the other brands can.

I'll pass on this one.

I've got nothing against someone making a buck, even if I don't think it's anything rare or particularly valuable.
What cracks me up is that the above link sends you to a page called 'make a shorter link', which tells you it will shortly redirect you to the actual eBay auction link. It would have been a much shorter link if he had posted the direct URL to the auction itself! How is doubling the linkage making a shorter link?

Where are you getting only 1/3 of the country disagrees with you?-

Yea..my bad,,,,what I meant to type was that maybe over a third of the country share my beliefs concerning skepticism over the presidents true motives concerning the Iraqi invasion.

(Skepticism is fine. But remember, it doesn't take a remarkable level of intelligence to question something. In fact, the people most likely to question matters, such as foreign policy, are also the same people who know the least about it, and who are generally not privvy to the facts, or all known (and possibly classified) information.)

As you say, skepticism is fine, but I did not display it,,,I outright don't believe it...skepticism gives the impression one should proceed with caution, as things may not be as they seem or appear,,I have no doubt that things rae NOT as they appear, and I know full well what we are being told is sanitized and censored.....ask ANYONE that has a family member over there.
Alluding to your comment abourt "questions"..you will find no questions by me concerning the pres and his actions or foreign policy unless it is rhetorical and posed to someone that gets very uncomfortable when a light is shined on behavior they would rather not illustrate..yes I know my anti-Iraq invasion may very well be in the minority, but allow me to illustrate how not one, not a single pro-Bush advocate or pro-war advocate will dare comment on the Bush statement of making health care available to all citizens of Iraq,,,because y'all KOW he f'ed up with that.

I know what the polls say, and
I've never believed them. The last election showed that they are fudged and not really accurate, right up until the last second....remember Bush called Gore and congratulated him, then called him again a short time later and rescinded.

>Hello? What planet have you been on?

Check my postings during election week,,it's self-evident where I was and how busy I was.
The election went from a bad joke of candidates to something reminiscent of a Saturday night live skit, both candidates showing their intolerance and malice when the chips were down. Partisanship sucks and is the originator of most of the hate to be found in politics, but as you almost alluded, one doesn't need a brain to parrot the party line..in fact, most people that feel the need to bash a certain party know the least about it and partake of where they find a familiar comfortability,in numbers,,so they self-identify with a party that they think sounds good, and they repeat the party line propaganda without knowing whether it is based in fact or folly.

(Gore called Bush and conceded the election to him, and it was GORE, acting on the advice of his election team, who later rescinded, which then started the whole recount debacle. Why would Gore be demanding a recount, if Bush had conceded to him?)

Because of the rescinded call.
Nevertheless, it shows exactly the esteem I held both candidates in......if I was interested in either, or had an iota of hope that either were anything but louses and liars, I may have paid a bit more attention......the fact that this presidential election was one of the lowest turnouts in recent modern history shows my views toward each candidate were shared by a large percentage of folks that decided to stay home.....now,,,about oyur view on the medical care for the citizens of Iraq.......

This is why it is most helpful to not be licensed at all. Freebanding

Allow me to interject..you haven't ran the stats, Dave, please do not try to give the impression that you somehow have. If you had, you would see , overwhelmingly that of thebusts for freebanding, over ninety-some percent are hammies....by comparison to cbers, that is a much larger

Of course they have a much larger chance of getting popped.

Allow me,..the majority of hammies getiing popped for freebanding are turned in by hammies such as yourself,,,,,not "hunted down and triangulated", except to ascertain the repeated violation when needed.

LOL>..there aren't that many fence-sitters,,,,,can you name one in three years that actually came by here, asked as much, changed their mind about freebanding, and are now a hammie? And if you can name one, how many others constitute the "many" you feel is present?

It most CERTAINLY places their freebanding at risk.

Not what they are doing at all. The hammies are supposed to set an example, just like you stated...how can this "respect" you once spoke of achieved when there are so many hypocrites in the group and on the air? Riley knows how,,by holding them to this "higher standard" you claim exists by virtue of a license over freebanders. Can't have it both ways.....

Maybe spilling it is a factory spec? That is unless it is used as a boat anchor.
Then you just spill the Stoner into the water.

There are no "hard" numbers to base a factual statistical analysis on.
But it doesn't take a leap of faith to figure out that the majority of freebanders are NOT hams. I mean, yes, some are, but why would hams go to all the trouble of getting licensed, and given all the legal frequencies, and then bootleg on illegal frequencies, which do not give any better conditions, then on the legal bands? CB'ers have also outnumbered hams by as much as 10:1, over the last 25 years. Again, it doesn't take a focus group to figure out, where the majority of freebanders came from.

> If you had, you would > see , overwhelmingly that of thebusts for freebanding, over ninety-some

I would agree, and that's my point. The percentage of those busted for freebanding, being hams, is much greater, then the percentage of hams vs. total freebanders. In other words, out of the people busted, the majority seem to be hams. But those hams are a statisical minority of total freebanders.
In another venue, that might be called "profiling".

>...by comparison to cbers, that is a much larger

Gear? I guess you'd better tell RCI, Uniden, and the rest of the "export" market, than their "gear" is not being bought, and that only ham gear is used on the freeband.

Are you implying that the majority of total freebanders are licensed hams? Sorry but I don't agree. Again, why would a licensed ham need to run on the freeband, when there are better H.F. bands available? Unless, you're talking about "CB Plussers", who have no H.F. privileges.

But why should they? They are no more illegal than the unlicensed freebanders. In fact, at one time, operating without a license, upped the fine ceiling to the $10K area, on top of the actual violation, where as a licensed station may only get fined a few hundred dollars. That was the incentive used, to "convince" CBer's to get a license, back when they were required.
This recent FCC stance has sent a totally different message. It now appears that if you have any aspirations to run a pirate station of any type, you are better off not being licensed at all. This certainly is not encouraging people, to make the effort to become legitimate. The only possible good side to this is, that it might pressure licensed hams into not risking the loss of their ham license, by their momentary lapses of good judgement when they run on the freeband. So you end up removing a statistical minority of the total freebanders. That has about the same effect on freebanding, as taking 100 gallons of water out of the ocean, has on the water level.

And you know this how? And assuming that you are correct, are you telling us that there are hams out there, who have nothing better to do, then to monitor the freeband, and turn in other hams, (Who must somehow sound distinctive from the other unlicensed stations, since only an idiot would use a ham call on an illegal frequency). And how does one "turn in" a ham who doesn't I.D. without having to triangulate on him?

Many people have asked for exactly that. It seems to fall on deaf ears. Which is why I am questioning this seeming double standard. If the FCC is so unconcerned with rampant illegal freebanding, that they show no incentive toward creating a stronger overall enforcement action, then why do they single out hams who are also freebanding?

What happens in rec.radio.cb, is not necessarily indicative of the opinions of operators on the air. Most of the people, who post regularly here, have already made up their minds. Those who are "fence sitters", usually pop up, throw out an innocent question, and then get lost and buried in the resulting thread, which has erupted into another fierce illegal/legal debate between the most vocal proponents from both sides. I have answered many such questions over the years, from people who didn't hang around (at least not by the same screen name). I can't remember them all, specifically.

Understood. I see no problem with holding hams to the higher standard for which they stepped up for. But by singling them out in a crowd of other lawless operators, they are also sending a message that it is better to be completely lawless, then to be so occasionally. The incentive then becomes obvious. It only encourages more unlicensed operation. I don't believe that this is the message the FCC should be sending.

> Riley knows how,,by holding them to this "higher standard" you claim

I would just feel better, and it would make more sense, if the FCC would focus instead on the most blatent, high profile, illegal operators. The ones who splatter and shutdown whole towns. Those who TVI a whole neighborhood. Those high profile guys, who stand out in the crowd, deserve the repercussions, that such a position, should invariably incur. THAT should be the determining factor, not whether he's also a ham.

That "medical care" that you are alluding to, is limited to reparing the injuries that are a direct result of the war, and to a lesser extent, from the the lack of compassion, that Saddam held for his own people. Much of the cost of this may be taken out of some of the oil profits, when Iraqi production goes back on line.
It's also important for us to project the image of compassion to the Iraqi people, to somewhat dispell the opinion that the US only cares about its own interests. That's another reason why we're adamanet about not turning over the rebuilding reins to the U.N.. Especially since they refused to support the war.

> It's Bullshit, and

That's not the impression that I get. Bush is a very passionate man, who cares deeply about the people of this country. But he also understand, that it takes more than words and a wave of a magic wand, to make things happen. The events of 9/11 really moved him. Events like Afghanistan and Iraq, are a result of that. Compare Bush's reaction, to the milqtoast reaction of a guy like Carter to the Iran hostage crisis. It was no coincidence, that Iran chose to release the hostages within hours of Reagan taking office. I can gurantee you, that many other countries will think a little longer before messing with us, as long as Bush is in office. Peace through strength. A concept that has worked though the ages, and is still true now.

I already did. It's not like we will pay for long term care. It's only war related injuries, as part of the reconstruction effort. Much of this cost will be shared by the other countries in the coalition, and eventually (When we finally get done pulling the pants down on France and Germany et al.) the U.N.

Hey guys..

I'd like to get back into the hobby,been a while!
I have a Realistic TRC-415 that may have a dead final,and may need a tune up.
I "tuned" it up years ago,and I think that,and a bad antenna fried it.
Should I attempt to fix this radio up,or should I look for a new radio somewhere for cheap?
Can you guys suggest a few decent radios? I don't need anything too horribly fancy,but something better than the '415 would be nice,more switches,and knobs. :)

Also,what kind of antenna suggestions do you have for a non obtrusive antenna,for a house? We aren't supposed to have antennas in this neighborhood,but I think I can get away with something smaller,and make an attempt to keep it out of sight..
Any ideas? I plan on using the radio as a base station primarily,and occasionaly mobile.For the base,I'll have it connected to a battery,with both solar,and AC power,along with a few other radios,and things.Might also have a 12V generator in the works!

Anyways,Thanks for any input! Nothing40.

(That "medical care" that you are alluding to, is limited to reparing the injuries that are a direct result of the war,)

The president promised , and I quote, "Medical care made accessible for each and every Iraqi citizen that WANTS it."
Where did you get the idea it was limited only to war injuries? I have heard another person parrot that in the last week, but when pressed for details, they admitted they don't know where their information came from,,in other words,,they couldn't cite a source...as it was just that, parroted propaganda to take the heat off the poor decision that will assist in the downfall of Bush.

(and to a lesser extent, from the the lack of compassion, that Saddam held for his own people.)

THIS group you speak of sure as hell weren't injured by the war......placing ANY medical needs of the Iraqi populace before those that are paying for it (uninsured Americans) is wrong, no matter how you slice it. Even Geogre now sees it's about the oil,,,shame it took a war and how many dead Americans for those of you that enjoy calling anyone who said the war was about oil "liberals", to see what is really happening. It's good to see some of you finally agreeing with what some of us maintained right from the beginning, that it had nothing to with any damn thing but oil.

(Much of the cost of this may be taken out of some of the oil profits, when Iraqi production goes back on line.)

It may, but that would take years and years,,,,the bill coming due,,where else,,on the backs of our children. That isn't even feasible in the soon-to-be-future,,which is why he asked for 75 billion. Your proposal suggests we provide medical care "on loan" to the Iraqi people for payment to be received at a later date? This is business as usual, as this is how most countries become in debt to the US..not only do we not get repaid, but we "forgive" many such debts...once again, leaving you, I, and our children to pay for such a well planned screw of the US taxpayers.

Our image will never be one of compassion any where in the Arab world, since all Bush does care about is his own interests. Have you been watching the news? Many, MANY of the Iraqi people that are just now learning they can offer their input unfettered and without fear of reprisals or retaliations, are saying, that while some are grateful for the American invasion, the majority, even those who are Pro-America are expressing that the main reason Bush wanted to topple Hussein was for oil. Have you not seen the Iraqis raising cane 'cause we failed to protect their museum of culture and artifacts of historical importance and value? Even the BBC claimed the soldiers COULD have occupied such sites, but ignored them for the oil ministries offices and headquarters, whcih were vehemently protected. Ungrateful wretches. They traded one regime for another,,period.

(That's another reason why we're adamanet about not turning over the rebuilding reins to the U.N.. Especially since they refused to support the war.)

It's Bullshit, and shows the utter disregard for the American people that Bush holds.

(That's not the impression that I get.)

Well, a few short weeks ago, you didn't want to acknowledge that oil was the staple in this war, either.

(Bush is a very passionate man, who cares deeply about the people of this country.)

Especially the poor,,,he makes so many of them.
"Passionate" does not equate compassionate.

(But he also understand, that it takes more than words and a wave of a magic wand, to make things happen. The events of 9/11 really moved him.
)

They did. He seized the moment to help himself by "lucking out" with the looming premise of war,,,exactly what he needed to boost his sorry appoval rating at the time.

(Events like Afghanistan and Iraq, are a result of that.)

I don't buy into that,,,,they are not a "result" of anything .....,they are a consequence of the Bush way of doing business. Just like the health care, Bush has failed to produce one iota of evidence linking Iraq to 9-11,,just rumblings and innuendos much like the WMD scare tactics used as a selling point to the American people as yet another excuse to invade for Iraq for what some claim was "not" about oil.....

(Compare Bush's reaction, to the milqtoast reaction of a guy like Carter to the Iran hostage crisis. It was no coincidence, that Iran chose to release the hostages within hours of Reagan taking office.)

No doubt, no coincidence at all,,glad you mention it,,now read what took place and you will find that those involved with brokering the DELAY until reagan took office were HIS REagan'S people...every single one of them. Carter brought those boys home, Reagan did nothing but take the credit by being in office... his team delayed the release.....it's all there in the history books,,any of them,,they all say the same thing.

And therein is the US government mindset illustrating the incorrect interpretation of the Muslim culture. As long as we arrogantly believe that we can intimidate everyone else, peace wil never be achieved. Certain factions can not be intimidated, therefore, Bush is of no consequence to such factors.

(Peace through strength.)

LOL. Only warhawks echo that sentiment.
It's never worked at any point in history.

(A concept that has worked though the ages, and is still true now.)

No, it hasn't worked,,,name a few entities that had the strength and maintained peace without engaging in battle and illustrating such strength.

Go on, try and make the case why we should pay for their medical care.I wanna hear this one....

(I already did. It's not like we will pay for long term care.)

You are hoping and theorizing,,while that's noble and valiant of you,...it's not reality.....nowhere has this been presented.

(It's only war related injuries, as part of the reconstruction effort.)

Again, this simply is not the case. Bush promised care to all citizens of Iraq.

(Much of this cost will be shared by the other countries in the coalition,)

LOL...WHO? Britain? Spain? Which one pledged to assist with financial contributions for providing health care to the Iraqis?

(and eventually (When we finally get done pulling the pants down on France and Germany et al.) the U.N.)

SInce when did the UN have anything to do with countries brokering private deals independent of the UN?
And "eventually" don't cut it...this is real-time tax-dollars, not eventual ones.

I disagree. No leap of faith is needed..and yes, there exist hard numbers by the FCC of busts on the freeband. Your question is rhetorical..you need pose it to one of the hordes of hammies getting popped...as your question conveys doubt among hammies freebanding.., ...the FCC records clearly show that this (hammies on the freeband) is not an isolated instance, but a rather regular occurrence.
To wit: The hames popped on the freeband are not the same repeat hammies getting popped,,they are different each time. Consider for every hammie getting popped for talking on the freeband, how many AREN'T getting popped...suddenly, the numbers are presented in a more concise manner, illustrating a great number more than you would prefer to believe engaged in such activities.

(CB'ers have also outnumbered hams by as much as 10:1, over the last 25 years. Again, it doesn't take a focus group to figure out,)

Where are you pulling these numbers from? It sure isn't from sales of cb's vs. hammie equipment. Let's assume your theory holds true for the moment...it solidifies in every manner what I set forth above, concerning the numbers of hammies talking on the freeband NOT getting popped.

(where the majority of freebanders came from.)

Of course the majority of freebanders come from cb,,,so do the number of hammies,,it's a natural transition. Taking issue or wanting to eliminate the stepping stones one takes to hammie radio... cb-freeband(in many instances)-hammie,,,is hypocritical. You do not want anyone else taking the exact same steps you have to hammie radio,

If you had, you would see , overwhelmingly that of thebusts for freebanding, over ninety-some percent are hammies.

_
(I would agree, and that's my point. The percentage of those busted for freebanding, being hams, is much greater, then the percentage of hams vs. total freebanders.)

LOL......many of the freebanders ARE hammies.

(In other words, out of the people busted, the majority seem to be hams. But those hams are a statisical minority of total freebanders.)

If you mean that the hammies getting popped are just a small fraction of those that freeband,,,,,well, yea, of course...the freeband is crowded, jammed at times, actually. the ones getting popped aren't even being noticed by the majority of freebanders. Many aren't aware of any enforcement, let alone rules governing their talk. And many, aren't even located in the states.

(In another venue, that might be called "profiling".)

_
..by comparison to cbers, that is a much larger percentage,,,why?
Because the hammies have the gear to go there compared to cbers.
Gear?

(I guess you'd better tell RCI, Uniden, and the rest of the "export" market, than their "gear" is not being bought, and that only ham gear is used on the freeband.)

I didn't say it wasn't being bought.....now, the companies you just mentioned make ten meter radios readily used on the freeband.....and a ten meter radio is a hammie rig and an export can be legallly used by a hammie, as you have demonstrated in the not-so-distant-past.

(Are you implying that the majority of total freebanders are licensed hams? Sorry but I don't agree.)

No,,I never implied anything of the sort.
But many are hammies.

(Again, why would a licensed ham need to run on the freeband, when there are better H.F. bands available?)

And again, I will offer you the same advce to your rhetorical question...ask one who does it,,,going by the numbers of the FCC, one doesn't need a focus group to realize it isn't merely an isolated incident or two.

(Unless, you're talking about "CB Plussers", who have no H.F. privileges.)

Oh yea, that happens, too.

(stand a much greater chance of getting popped, than the vast majority of freebanders, who have no license at all.)

Of course they have a much larger chance of getting popped.

(But why should they?)

For the same reason you claim the license is an accomplishment due respect. With certain privileges come responsibility...you don't want the terrirtory that goes with it, don't get a license.

(They are no more illegal than the unlicensed freebanders.)

Agreed...but as a hammie,,,you know they promised to follow the law by virtue of licensing..they are subject to thinsg cbers are not, both pro and con.

Yea,,but with the advent of technology, cb enforcement has bot been a priority, much to the chagrin of certain hammies.

(This recent FCC stance has sent a totally different message. It now appears that if you have any aspirations to run a pirate station of any type, you are better off not being licensed at all.)

That's the message I've always seen.....besides, a pirate station realy isn't a pirate unless you are NOT licensed. Pirate radio and freeband are not even close to being the same thing.

(This certainly is not encouraging people, to make the effort to become legitimate.)

Why should anyone have to encourage another adult to do anything once they are aware of the facts? Better yet, why would one want to do so?

(The only possible good side to this is, that it might pressure licensed hams into not risking the loss of their ham license, by their momentary lapses of good judgement when they run on the freeband. So you end up removing a statistical minority of the total freebanders. That has about the same effect on freebanding, as taking 100 gallons of water out of the ocean, has on the water level.)

Hey,,like you said,you have to start somewhere..and where better place than those who hold themselevs above cbers and above the law?
You appear to be taking the stance that the enforcement should not be done at all, now that hammies are being popped. Never thought I'd see the day you were griping about enforcement of any type, Dave, but now that freebanding hammies seem to be the target, you appear to be rather disgusted with it. If you care to, you can check a post of mine from a few years ago...it said something to the effect that you gung-ho hammies over radio enforcement better watch what you ask for, 'cause you just may get it, and it could backfire,,well, it did. JerryO warned about this same zeal displayed by some of those trying to police others, saying that good hammies would be popped...but, are these freebanding hammies "good" by mere virtue of license? Should that absolve them? Should only unlicensed freebanders be enforced? You seem to be taking issue with the enforcement of freebanding hammies.

(Tracking down illegal signals is the same, >whether or not the station operator is licensed >or not, so I don't quite understand the logic in this position.)

Allow me,..the majority of hammies getiing popped for freebanding are turned in by hammies such as yourself,,,,,not "hunted down and triangulated", except to ascertain the repeated violation when needed.

(And you know this how?)

Dig a little forthe specific case you refer,,,if they were't turned in, they were causing too much attention, such as interference.

(And assuming that you are correct, are you telling us that there are hams out there, who have nothing better to do, then to monitor the freeband, and turn in other hams,)

Of course. We have hammies here who have nothing better to do than spend their days in a cartoon ng harassing others.......JerryO has given us several examples of hammies patrolling for intruders,,you think maybe there is honor among thieves, in this case, illegal hammies?

(Who must somehow sound distinctive from the other unlicensed stations, since only an idiot would use a ham call on an illegal frequency And how does one "turn in" a ham who doesn't I.D. without having to triangulate on him?)

Most of the time, a tape is made and sent to the proper destination. If warranted, the pinpointing of the location can be made in many ways, triangulation only one. Many times the facility in MAryland has been employed to track signals,,other times, field agents monitor the hammie going by the information they receieved.

(Illegal is illegal, and ALL the people involved should be cited equally. If this is purely a political issue, where Riley has authority over only ham operators, then an equivilent position needs to be created to address unlicensed operators as well.<)

Write a letter to Congress teling them you would be willing to have your tax dollars raised in order to do so,,,sort of like you said to me regarding the scholarships...

(Many people have asked for exactly that. It seems to fall on deaf ears. Which is why I am questioning this seeming double standard.)

Not enough hammies to get it done.
Besides, even if there was, too much infighting among themselves.
Many do not see this as any double standard, but the proper place to begin enforcement,,,some would even arue they are the worst offenders, as they automatically, in most cases, have way more power than the average cber, and if a hammie will feeband, they will use the power...safe to say?

(If the FCC is so unconcerned with rampant illegal freebanding, that they show no incentive toward creating a stronger overall enforcement action, then why do they single out hams who are also freebanding?)

They usually don't single them out.....other hammies turn them in.

(This attitude, will also have the effect of convincing many freebanding fence sitters,)

LOL..there aren't that many fence-sitters,,,,,can you name one in three years that actually came by here, asked as much, changed their mind about freebanding, and are now a hammie? And if you can name one, how many others constitute the "many" you feel is present?

(What happens in rec.radio.cb, is not necessarily indicative of the opinions of operators on the air. Most of the people, who post regularly here, have already made up their minds.)

Which should make certain factions stop worrying about what is discussed in here, no?

(Those who are "fence sitters", usually pop up, throw out an innocent question, and then get lost and buried in the resulting thread, which has erupted into another fierce illegal/legal debate between the most vocal proponents from both sides. I have answered many such questions over the years, from people who didn't hang around (at least not by the same screen name). I can't remember them all, specifically.)

Most today are shills.

(I don't think the FCC's goal is to promote unlicensed, illegal activity. But that's exactly what they're doing, by placing greater emphasis on singling out hams who also freeband.)

Not what they are doing at all. The hammies are supposed to set an example, just like you stated...how can this "respect" you once spoke of achieved when there are so many hypocrites in the group and on the air?

(Understood. I see no problem with holding hams to the higher standard for which they stepped up for. But by singling them out in a crowd of other lawless operators, they are also sending a message that it is better to be completely lawless, then to be so occasionally.)

Theyaren't singling them out,,,just easier to identify them when a vendetta is employed by another hammie..

(The incentive then becomes obvious. It only encourages more unlicensed operation. I don't believe that this is the message the FCC should be sending.)

Riley knows how,,by holding them to this "higher standard" you claim exists by virtue of a license over freebanders. Can't have it both ways.....

(I would just feel better, and it would make more sense, if the FCC would focus instead on the most blatent, high profile, illegal operators. The ones who splatter and shutdown whole towns. Those who TVI a whole neighborhood. Those high profile guys, who stand out in the crowd, deserve the repercussions, that such a position, should invariably incur. THAT should be the determining factor, not whether he's also a ham.

1017. OT Can Iraqi oil pay for their rebuilding, let alone medical care?

Check it out..some quick, accurate figures... currently, Iraq owes over $360 Billion, thats BILLION to other countries. We may add this figure to the cost of the war deficits and that of which will be incurred by rebuilding Iraq, (governmental estimated projections range from 100 to over 300 billion bucks). We now look at a combined figure suddenly approaching upward of 500 to 700 billion. The current population of Iraq is estimated to be near 20 million, That would average an income of anywhere from around 25 to 35 G or so per person. Reality is nowhere near that.
Now, let's take a governmental secured loan at a paltry 4 percent (high by todays overnight lending rate among banks) and use that as a figure. The interest alone on the 361 billion is approximately 14 and a half billion per year. Now take the 4 percent on 700 billion, at 28 billion a year.......

Iraq only produces about 2 million barrels oil per day..their peak time they managed to produce 3 million. At peak, thats approximately a billion barrels per year and at 35 bucks per barrel thats still only 35 billion per year, an astounding 20 Billion per year ABOVE and beyond the cost of the original debt (14 and a half billion). Now add to this the medical care some suggest the oil can pay for. Some may simply say,,,we will double the output of the oil,,even triple it. Fine. Then your price per barrel goes down even further.

Make no mistake.....we WILL, as American taxpayers, foot this bill, as we always have. I'll say it again, US medical care provided to the Iraqi people is a travesty and a spit in the face of Americans paying taxes who have no access to adequate health coverage and care.

With all due respect, your entire post is filled with inaccurate statements and suppositions that will never come to fruition.

Your first statement about the $360B in debt, it is owed by the regime (not by the country) primarily to Russia, France, and Germany. Most of these loans are backed by Sadaam's personal signature. I would suggest they sue him for recovery.

Something about a snowballs chances in the neither regions comes to mind as to those debts ever being honored. Will it cost the US tax payer some money? You bet! Is it worth it? Again, you bet!

(That "medical care" that you are alluding to, is limited to reparing the injuries that are a direct result of the war,)

The president promised , and I quote, "Medical care made accessible for each and every Iraqi citizen that WANTS it." Where did you get the idea it was limited only to war injuries? I have heard another person parrot that in the last week, but when pressed for details, they admitted they don't know where their information came from,,in other words,,they couldn't cite a source...as it was just that, parroted propaganda to take the heat off the poor decision that will assist in the downfall of Bush.

(and to a lesser extent, from the the lack of compassion, that Saddam held for his own people.)

THIS group you speak of sure as hell weren't injured by the war......placing ANY medical needs of the Iraqi populace before those that are paying for it (uninsured Americans) is wrong, no matter how you slice it. Even Geogre now sees it's about the oil,,,shame it took a war and how many dead Americans for those of you that enjoy calling anyone who said the war was about oil "liberals", to see what is really happening. It's good to see some of you finally agreeing with what some of us maintained right from the beginning, that it had nothing to with any damn thing but oil.

--

(Much of the cost of this may be taken out of some of the oil profits, when Iraqi production goes back on line.)

It may, but that would take years and years,,,,the bill coming due,,where else,,on the backs of our children. That isn't even feasible in the soon-to-be-future,,which is why he asked for 75 billion. Your proposal suggests we provide medical care "on loan" to the Iraqi people for payment to be received at a later date? This is business as usual, as this is how most countries become in debt to the US..not only do we not get repaid, but we "forgive" many such debts...once again, leaving you, I, and our children to pay for such a well planned screw of the US taxpayers.

(It's also important for us to project the image of compassion to the Iraqi people, to somewhat dispell the opinion that the US only cares about its own interests.)

Our image will never be one of compassion any where in the Arab world, since all Bush does care about is his own interests. Have you been watching the news? Many, MANY of the Iraqi people that are just now learning they can offer their input unfettered and without fear of reprisals or retaliations, are saying, that while some are grateful for the American invasion, the majority, even those who are Pro-America are expressing that the main reason Bush wanted to topple Hussein was for oil. Have you not seen the Iraqis raising cane 'cause we failed to protect their museum of culture and artifacts of historical importance and value? Even the BBC claimed the soldiers COULD have occupied such sites, but ignored them for the oil ministries offices and headquarters, whcih were vehemently protected. Ungrateful wretches. They traded one regime for another,,period.

(That's another reason why we're adamanet about not turning over the rebuilding reins to the U.N.. Especially since they refused to support the war.)

It's Bullshit, and shows the utter disregard for the American people that Bush holds.

(That's not the impression that I get.)

Well, a few short weeks ago, you didn't want to acknowledge that oil was the staple in this war, either.

(Bush is a very passionate man, who cares deeply about the people of this country.)

Especially the poor,,,he makes so many of them.
"Passionate" does not equate compassionate.

They did. He seized the moment to help himself by "lucking out" with the looming premise of war,,,exactly what he needed to boost his sorry appoval rating at the time.

(Events like Afghanistan and Iraq, are a result of that.)

I don't buy into that,,,,they are not a "result" of anything ....,,they are a consequence of the Bush way of doing business. Just like the health care, Bush has failed to produce one iota of evidence linking Iraq to 9-11,,just rumblings and innuendos much like the WMD scare tactics used as a selling point to the American people as yet another excuse to invade for Iraq for what some claim was "not" about oil.....

(Compare Bush's reaction, to the milqtoast reaction of a guy like Carter to the Iran hostage crisis. It was no coincidence, that Iran chose to release the hostages within hours of Reagan taking office.)

No doubt, no coincidence at all,,glad you mention it,,now read what took place and you will find that those involved with brokering the DELAY until reagan took office were HIS REagan'S people...every single one of them. Carter brought those boys home, Reagan did nothing but take the credit by being in office... his team delayed the release.....it's all there in the history books,,any of them,,they all say the same thing.

And therein is the US government mindset illustrating the incorrect interpretation of the Muslim culture. As long as we arrogantly believe that we can intimidate everyone else, peace wil never be achieved. Certain factions can not be intimidated, therefore, Bush is of no consequence to such factors.

(Peace through strength.)

LOL. Only warhawks echo that sentiment.
It's never worked at any point in history.

(A concept that has worked though the ages, and is still true now.)

No, it hasn't worked,,,name a few entities that had the strength and maintained peace without engaging in battle and illustrating such strength.

Go on, try and make the case why we should pay for their medical care.I wanna hear this one....

You are hoping and theorizing,,while that's noble and valiant of you,...it's not reality.....nowhere has this been presented.

(It's only war related injuries, as part of the reconstruction effort.)

Again, this simply is not the case. Bush promised care to all citizens of Iraq.

(Much of this cost will be shared by the other countries in the coalition,)

LOL...WHO? Britain? Spain? Which one pledged to assist with financial contributions
for providing health care to the Iraqis?

(and eventually (When we finally get done pulling the pants down on France and Germany et al.) the U.N.)

SInce when did the UN have anything to do with countries brokering private deals independent of the UN?
And "eventually" don't cut it...this is real-time tax-dollars, not eventual ones.

Hey everyone your way off the original subject.
How did a post about using Other modes on CB get switched to George Bush and Iraq?

(With all due respect, your entire post is filled with inaccurate statements and suppositions that will never come to fruition.)

_
With all due respect, please be more specific, not a general denouncement. Such as?

(Your first statement about the $360B in debt, it is owed by the regime
(not by the country) primarily to Russia, France, and Germany.)

See,,you prove my point exactly,,,we're already forgiving their debt. So WHO absorbs the cost?

(Most of these loans are backed by Sadaam's personal signature. I would suggest they sue him for recovery.)

Ok, forget what they owe, my stats and figures are still showing the gist of my point. The cost of rebuilding, coupled with the entire war cost effort, can not realistically be regained through renumeration of their oil in the lifetime of the ones paying for it. WE are paying for it, and our children will as well. We have become totally insulated as a nation to such astronomical figures..we roll them off the tongue without having a clue the actual staggering amount we are speaking of.
Imagine if the the war effort monies could have went toward paying off the deficit......

(Something about a snowballs chances in the neither regions comes to mind as to those debts ever being honored. Will it cost the US tax payer some money? You bet!)

And was the gist of the post.

_

(Is it worth it? Again, you bet!)

I disagree. I do not believe attaining the oil under the guise of "liberation" (which, originally was to rid the world of his WMD's that didn't exist) was worth a single dead American..

(The rest, to quote Rumsfield is "Henny Penny claiming the sky is falling")

The rest, if you bothered to research the facts and figures, are dead on and taken from the projected budget submitted by the Department of Defense, based on their internal analytical figures and projections. Since this arm of the government falls under Bush, I suggest you call, email, or write him and tell him his over-paid (which we already knew) consultants are imitating "Henny Penny". Thanks for illustrating how incompetent the people under Bush and those he trusts with making such projections really are.

"To announce that there must be no criticism of the president...or that we are to stand by the president right or wrong...is not only unpatriotic and servile, but is morally treasonable to the American public."

Teaberry - BIG T - Base Mobile CB

NEVER MOBILE!
Non-Smoker
In VERY VERY GOOD Condition
120VAC or 12VDC powered Comes with the hand mic, original box, instructions, un-used DC power cord, unused mobile brackets, and even a print of the the FCC rules and regs from the 70s :-)

In my opinion, with some very minor detailing (some minor dust in crevaces), this is or is very near collector quality to put in a showcase. Has been tested and is in good working condition.

Asking 55.00 (includes shipping to contenental US addresses)

I accept Paypal and US Postal Money Orders

Thanks

[ANTI-TWISTEDHED] AKC COMMANDO SOLO WINS HEARTS AND MINDS

(NEWSGROUP) After years of Twistedhed propaganda, the people of rec.radio.cb are hearing another voice. At any time of the day or night, an AKC Special Operations Commando Solo poster is online and posting news and information to the rec.radio.cb people.

The capability allows AKC Central Command planners to warn the newsgroup population to stay away from Twistedhed and other keyclown targets. The posts stress that the coalition campaign is not aimed at the rec.radio.cb people, but at Twistedhed and his supporters. "We have no wish to hurt you, the innocent people of rec.radio.cb," reads one such post.

Data shows that 98% of all newsgroupers tune into the AKC Centcom-generated website also known as the Twistedhed Humor Page.

Total page views to date 575
Highest monthly page views 329 in March 2003
Most popular browser visitors use 48.28% use MSIE 5.0
Most common screen resolution 68.70% have 1024x768
Top search word 100.00% typed "keyclownslappa"

Operating Systems used by visitors to AKC Twistedhed humor page (in %)*

Windows 3.1 49.40%
Windows NT 5.0 17.24%
Macintosh PPC 12.75%
Windows NT 5.1 7.53%
Windows 98 6.67%
WebTV/2.6 5.53%
Windows http://newsreader.com 0.88%

The name "Commando Solo" also has meaning. Commando refers to the special operations mission, and Solo refers to the fact that the poster can go it alone.

Technically, Virginia has posted as far back as July 2001...with an infamous post
"Curious does anyone know if it's possible to Tweak the Power and add channels to TRC-230 handheld cb?"

Now I know Ginger is trying hard but come along and post an opinion, basically insulting the group, and make numerous grammatical errors......i had to jump on it!
At any rate.....i will mellow out and i hope Ginger does too. Just like any other segment of society, many of us have differing opinions.

The 75th Academy Awards handed the Oscar for "Best Documentary" to Michael Moore for Bowling for Columbine. Bowling is a nasty bit of anti-American propaganda. . No wonder it got a standing ovation at France's Cannes Film Festival. Do your part by adding your name to the petition.

Hot off the email, New list of cities:

Now that American F117's are reorganizing Iraq's landscape, US intelligence has discovered that Saddam has renamed some of their towns in an attempt to confuse us. These new names include:

1. Wherz-Myroof
2. Mykamel-Izded
3. Oshit-Disisabad
4. Waddi-El-Izgowinon
5. Pleez-Ztopdishit
6. Kizz-Yeraz-Goodbi

Did you blow the pills? Replace them with a matched pair or quad from RFParts, check the 10 ohm resistors. Look for obviously burned parts. It's not rocket science...hell, I can fix it.

Yea A Happy Easter to all, and God Bless All.

Wow! a 73 Baja Stroppe Bronco, Boy does that bring back old memories! I use to buy Bronco parts from Bill Stroppe Shop in Long Beach Ca, during the late 60's and early 70's. Manual Transmissions, Bell Housings, and and all the misc parts could be had for a song, as Bill replaced them with the Automatic Transmissions and such. Bill was always a big help, in modifing the Broncos.

Bill use to have a conversion kit, that allowed the old Ford Lincoln 430 Big Block Engines to be installed into the light 1/2 and 3/4 Ton Pickup Trucks, talking about Gettie up and go..... The ol man had one in his truck. Dad loved to haul ass up the Grapevine at 80 MPH, all loaded down with dune buggies, tools, firewood, and all the crap that goes with it.

He use to test all the Ford Pantears Sports Cars, imported from Italy, those where bitchen to drive around the hilly roads on Signal Hill, Yee Haaaw!!! The Long Beach Police did not share in the off road and sports cars enthusiasm, ripping ass thru the streets there.

There use to be some real big stations up on Signal Hill also, would all ways fire off a strong signal into the San Fernando Valley.

#1 I'm not gay, like you infer to most.

#2 You changed nics again. From anycost@antitwisty.com to cost@antitwisty.com, so my kill file has now been updated.

You are nothing more than a troll, you have nothing nice to say about anyone. Everything you say is either derogatory, accusatory, harassing or some sort of sexual innuendo. For Christ sake's, it's Easter and here you are trolling, go away you bitter, angry old troll.

Landshark

PS, watch the troll now throw out more insults, change his nic just to harass people.

A Brunette bought a new Lexus, and returned the next day, complaining that the radio didn't work. The salesman explained that the radio was voice activated.
"Watch this!" he said..."Nelson!" The radio replied, "Ricky or Willie?"
"Willie!" he continued.. ..and "On The Road Again" came from the speakers.

She drove away happy, and for the next few days, every time she'd say, "Beethoven", she'd get beautiful classical music, and if she said, "Beatles!" she'd get one of theirs....

One day, another driver ran a red light and nearly creamed her new car, but as she swerved in time to avoid him.
"ASSHOLE!" she yelled.....

The French National Anthem began to play.

invading on you're freq. band, then you have the right to moan & groan about it. I personally don't give a SHIT about you or most other Cb'ers. If I knew you, or you had something to contribute other than crying and whining about "Linear" "Outbandders" then I might give a shit about you. But otherwise you could die right know and I wouldn't loose a second of sleep.
So quit you're whining about "Legalities" and contribute something along the lines of " A superior antenna system would serve you better than a linear" or " I don't approve of the use of linears, but I can tell you how to get the most out of what you have" Then a lot of others might not harp about you as much.

Now that laws are being passed that could effect YOU, whether or this newsgroup several months back PREACHING part 95. of the F.C.C. and posting statements every time someone asked "About my linear" or "how do I mod my 148" and your classic response "It's illegal see part 95." or "It's against federal law to mod that, and big fines and or jail" Now that they are going to pass laws that will screw you too, you start this whining..... Go fuck yourself, you live

Oh you sound just like

As I said BP. he's nothing more than a troll. He claims Twist as the one who has ruined this group, but look at the stuff he's doing on Easter Sunday! You would think he would want to spend some time with his kids hate & discontent than spend time with the family.

It just shows you what he's really all about, trolling, hate, lies, accusations, foul language, sexual innuendoes is all he ever posts.

And from the site... Comments within..

Here are 101 good reasons to hate USA and yanks!

1. 'America' is equal to USA! Yeah, sure!

< Something the Europeans foisted on us.. not the other way around. >

2. Anti-crypt campaign

3. Barney

4. "Bigger is better" hystery

5. Comics Code

6. Communist persecutions

7. Constant trivial laughter and "wow", "yeah", "yipe" etc.

8. Destruction of the native american culture

9. Disney, disneylands, sissy disney tv shows and movies etc.

10. Dollars and "you can have and do anything if you have money"

11. 50% of yanks believe that 20% of their budget goes to developing countries! (Actually, this is true, only it's more than 20%
- soldiers, depleted uranium bullets, missiles, bombs, CIA operations, propaganda, training of future terrorists, etc...)

12. Fundamentalist christians and other religious crackpots

13. Hollywood movies

14. Hypocrites: they go to church because everyone else does, they don't really know anything about their stupid religion...

15. Hysteric attitude

<ï¿½Que?>

16. Internet censorship

17. Marvel comics

18. McDonalds and other shit food chains

19. National anthem, it's so stupid! Even russians have a much better one!

20. Nirvana (that lousy band)

21. Nuclear weapons

22. O.J.Simpson "trial"

23. PC, bill gates and micro$oft

24. Political system with two parties; just like in the ex-Soviet Union, only worse

25. Pollution of air, water, earth and everything

26. Power rangers

27. Ragdoll and persian cats, they are sick perversions of nature, spoiled by yanks

28. Rodeo - torturing animals

29. Stupid AOL yank kids trashing the net

30. Swimming pools everywhere - horrible waste of water and energy

31. T$R, now known as Wizards of the Cost

<ï¿½QUe? TSR is a British company>

32. The amount of garbage they create

33. Their "Music"

34. Their "culture"

35. Their "education"

36. Their average IQ approaches their shoe size (in US units).

37. Their fake Santa Claus and his "elves" (they should be gnomes, not elves, and they do not wear green clothes, and none of them lives at the North Pole!)

38. Their gun policy, and NRA

39. Their prisons and "law" system

40. Their racism

41. Their stupid sex scandals which somehow lead to bombing poor countries' hospitals etc.

42. Their stupid sex scandals, as if anyone was interested with how many blow jobs their president gets.

43. They always grin and show all their plastic teeth out!

44. They stick their noses in other people's business - but only if there is something to gain, like oil! World police, yeah sure! What about East Timor?

45. They think their country is the biggest (Russia is :)

46. They think their country is in the center of the world, while the truth is, that Europe is in the center.

47. They use half of the world's energy!

48. "Throwaway-culture" - use something once and throw it away (like their brains? No, can't be - they never use their brains.)

49. US "Army"

50. US-ASCII instead of ISO

51. "USA is the only country in the world" -attitude

52. USA is the source of most satan worshipping in the world!!!!!!

53. Filthy stinking yanks never remove their shoes indoors.

54. They take a bath but they never wash themselves properly, they STINK.

55. George W. Bush.

56. Rejection of Kyoto agreement. Let's see what you do when New York goes underwater, due melting polar ice.

57. Monitoring all tele- and datacommunications. (Fortunately, here in Europe, we have better encryption system than yanks.)

58. Medieval measuring units such as inches and yards. Hey, it's the 21st century now! Ever heard of science and scientific standards?

59. Starship Troopers movie, the repulsive macho military US Army commercial flick.

They claim to be "One Nation Under Godï¿½", but fail to notice that even their flag contains occult symbols of satan, pentagrams!

So.. it seems to me you've got your head up your ass on most of these points... and the only ones I can agree with you on are problems that most countries have.

Reach down between your legs, grab your shoulders, and pull your head out of your ass.

I can't totally disagee with you and I are one and have been longer than CB has existed. There is no basic conflict between the services so long as it is kept above 25 and below 28. As a practical matter, one who is radioactive enough to have obtained an Amateur ticket more than likely did some time around 27. A parallel thread has Bert, WA2SI, getting some crap about listening on CB which gives me the urge to apply my 45 years of licensed experience to wringing a few necks. He is a new Extra, I am an old one, BFD. But there are those who for some reason desire a separation and warfare mostly for ego-boo purposes.

But with a few exceptions, most of the legal eagles here either never have listed or specifically deny holding an Amateur ticket or, like George, are simply insane. And most of us OTs (Old Timer) that wander in and out are really pretty cuddly grandfather-types. We may tell you what you really don't want to hear but we tend to be fairly nice about it. If you have been around here any length of time you know my views on Ancient Modulation in general and swingy audio in particular. My theory is that ignorance is curable, stupidity is a lifetime affliction, and mythology is simply expensive. Soft-pedaling the truth is for kindergarten teachers; adults deserve it undiluted.

One thing you may see and this is to some extent more an Amateur problem than a CB one is the ongoing battle about the role of Morse Code in Amateur testing. The treaties literally define an Amateur as knowing the code; ending this has been deferred from two previous treaty meetings and there is some question when, where, or if the meeting scheduled for 2003 will come off and a pretty fair chance of deferral again for 10 years or so. But it does mean that the codeless Techs are Amateurs to the FCC but not the International Telecommunications Union. Running below 30 MHz where the ITU holds sway does require a code test at a wonderous 5 wpm in the US.

This actually puts a lot of OTs in an interesting ethical position; we are the guys who have to tell a lot of Techs that they have been sold a bridge really cheap. The history is that they get buried on Phone and never advance so we really do have to deliver both the bad news and a bit of encouragement to get over the code test and move on. This does not produce a lot of instant goodwill and after a year or so we pretty much have to write them off as losses and a lot of bitterness results on both sides. So you get them down here playing status games because they have no status in the Amateur ranks. There are some that get their shorts in a knot over the code test so they find something else to do like 'clean up' CB. As I take a fairly relaxed approach to radio, I will encounter radio cops on repeaters now and again but holding a 1x2 callsign that has not been available in years tends to give one an aura of invincibility and a few dirty tricks to send them back under the bridge. It's easier on a repeater than here.

But there is one great difference between the services that I am coming to appreciate more and more. Being a legal and licensed service I have access to some really good pubs and after a while develop a network of resident geniuses on virtually any subject I care to explore and more than likely the lend of some gear to get on. So you do not have nearly the mythology on 28 or 24.9 which I like better that you have on 27 where some theories of AM were obsolete before I was born or for that matter before my dad was old enough to drink. I will agree, however, that it works better when the resident geniuses both really are and wait to be asked.

And the reality is that those more gung-ho tend to move out of CB leaving you a depleted pool to pick from. Once going the Amateur route, there is a tendency to demand a bit more committment before stepping in to help. Kind of the Tech thing again.

Do your thing and pay little attention to those who played 35 questions for the FCC.

For those interested, the usual three websites:

http://www.arrl.org for most of the basic poop.
http://www.qrz.com for good sample exams http://ah0a.org for Morse Academy, a proven computer-based method. The ARRL CDs are also good.

It's all good Randy!
You had nothing to do with it, so don't worry. Glad to see you good had eatin's. I had all the in-laws over, 7 screaming kids hunting for eggs. We had a HoneyBaked smoked turkey, mash potatoes, spinach, Jack Daniels carrots, gravy beans etc. Just plain good time for all, they just left so the wife's putting the kids down to sleep, then some rest for us.

Have a good one.................

Yeah, I've done a pretty much frame on restoration, so the only thing left would be to clean up the underside and repaint where needed. I'm just waiting for it to get back from the body shop. Again, if you're going to be around, let me know I'll be there Saturday afternoon,

Genuine rubber feet for bottom of BIRD wattmeters! These are the REAL THING direct from BIRD Electronics. These are also the feet used on the back cover of new BIRD meters. To use these on the back cover of older meters, just drill out the rivets of your old rear cover bumpers and push these in the holes just like the bottom. Use same size hole as the bottom of meter. 4 feet (for bottom of wattmeters, like the 43, 4431, 4304A, 4308, 4410, 4410A, 4314B, APM-16 etc.)
Plenty available.

Four feet for $5 postpaid in the USA

PayPal RFpower@radiodan.com
Check/cash OK via callbook address

See all my BIRD wattmeters, elements, slugs, dummy loads, etc at www.radiodan.com/bird

For sale: Pair of Royce handheld CB radio model 1-408. Each radio has case with carrying strap. In very good condition for age. Features include battery saver mode, battery/power/signal indicator, ANL, external antenna connection as well as connections for microphone, PA, and external speaker. Only thing to note is that on both radios the plastic battery holder has cracked in numerous places and would need to be re-glued back together. Other than that in very nice shape. Both were tested with universal adapter and are working good. Asking $20 obo for pair plus shipping costs.

I've been putting things up from my collection of web stuff, a few things a week. I can't put it all at once, it's too much, and the bandwidth allowance would keep folks from getting there. I had an MP3 on one of my pages, and the site kept getting locked out for too much usage.

Remember to check back next week!

Who's Phil? And I plainly stated that as soon as Aanal Aaron posted his callsign I'd post mine. Since he couldn't, there was no point in posting mine.

As to 12 million CBers, can you prove otherwise? I didn't think so.

Does anyone still sell crystals for Midland and Radio Shack CB walkie talkies?

Not even Radio Shack sells them anymore.

There must be some store (or some one) that still has a batch of these old crystals.

Let me know what channel pairs you have (and price too!).

thanks,

That your life is so empty and pathetic youneed worry about anothers has always been your signature. Your loss of ISP's for failure to adhere to simple rules placeed there for the greater good of everyone illustrates your anti-social nature and how you see yourself above the law and rules. You are not an exception. Go stand in the corner over there by Yeah but Frank, you'll have to admit, his associations with those companies had to help them get contracts to help rebuild Iraq.

eating crow is the same as drinking, the more you eat, the more your mind gets diluted and you can't

Actually, you demonstrated what you "see" is not only incorrect, but hysterically inept.

>Every indivual is every other indivual???

Nah..only Geogre, who wages a one-man battle for his imaginary war with such inferences to battles and the such...but one must admit, his tolerance level is one of that is shared by Saddam. Geogre's readiness and willingess to shit all over the US Constitution and disregard the Bill of Rights through multiple failed attempts at censoring this non-moderated ng is also tantamount to Hussein-like behavior, and is of little wonder that he compares himself to "Saddam" and feels others may view him as such.

Hi Frank,

The Realistic is a TRC-74 2 channel. The Midland is a 13-727b 2 watt 3 channel.

I'm looking for channels 3 and 30 (maybe 5 if you have it).

thanks,
paul

Ever hear that old proverb, "Believe none of what you hear and only half of what you see"? Kinda like Powell's "proof" of Iraq's WMD's, or Reagan's bag of dope.
There will always be untruths, some intentional and some not. And to every story you hear on the news there is a much larger story that you will never hear, sometimes good and sometimes bad. But you can't just pick out bits and pieces, assemble them into a picture drawn from hate and despair, throw out the pieces that don't fit and call it reality -- that's a specific type of paranoia called Twistedhedism.

Um, no. It's parameters set by the ISP that one agreed to. When one agrees with consent, it is not fascism. Hint: Keyclown is not a word. It was a term invented by those who fail to express themselves effecively, due a communication deficit. They must resort to "inventing" such things, making such things up and wanting so deperately for such hallucinations to be true, they begin to believe their delusions and in severe cases such as displayed by you, live vacariously through such delusions.

To which I responded:

Using your own logic, if you do it to one, you'll do it to all.
Isn't that the AKC mentality? That logic has been applied to me and others in this newsgroup. I am accused of freebanding.
I have not been there in months. I only go there once in a while.
I use a stock PC-122 attached to a TS-250. I use the preamp more then any other button. I'm mobile only, so who cares?
With that in mind, go ahead and accuse me of more wrongdoing.

Go ahead:
Accuse me of running 1000's of watts and 100's of channels.
Accuse me of 10 & 12 meter bootlegging
Accuse me of spamming the newsgroup.
Accuse me of changing NICs and harassing other newsgroupies.

Ask me if I care. I have things to do that don't require this NG.
If you think I lose sleep over this group, you're nuts.
If you think I care about the stupid arguments here, you're nuts.
If you think I would give you the time of day, ask for a 10-36.

Yes , You have admitted to freebanding. You are accused of freebanding Yes, from your own admittance.
See you below comments.

> I have not been there in months. I only go there once in a while.

So there you have it the accusation is based on your own admittance, who cares how often or when was the last time you are an admitted freebander.

> I use a stock PC-122 attached to a TS-250.

ILLEGAL

>I use the preamp more then any other button.

So you say.

Hey Clyde, didn't you publically announce that I was first N7CVF and then N7VCF? Why didn't you stick with your story? You do realize that since your alias has been identified, you are probably going to get spanked by your freebanding club for trolling, just like they did when you trolled as A.E. 352.

UNAUTHORIZED EQUIPMENT SOLD ON INTERNET AND IN PUBLICATIONS

The Federal Communications Commission receives hundreds of complaints about alleged illegal (non-FCC certified) equipment being offered for sale on the Internet or in publications. The Commission is monitoring this situation carefully and requests your assistance. If you have any information about illegal or uncertified equipment being offered for sale, please forward it to the FCC. Useful information for the FCC includes:

* An original advertisement or Web address where the illegal equipment is being advertised or offered for sale with the types of equipment about which the allegations are being made, highlighted.

* If it is a Web-auction we will need the name of the auction site, the exact

item number, and auction opening and closing dates.

* Name and address of the individual or business offering the item(s) for sale.

* Complainant's name and telephone number in the event follow-up is necessary.

This information can remain confidential, if requested.

* Specifically, why you think the equipment is not in compliance with FCC rules.

* Number of pieces or types of equipment about which the allegations are being made (one piece, five pieces, how many models, etc.).

Information can be mailed to the FCC at the address below or e-mailed to fccinfo@fcc.gov.

I got a better idea...lets all go to Phasing SSB generation. Only suppress the carrier about 20db. And operate on Double Side Band.

Wouldnt that act similar?

20 dB difference between horizontal and vertical to an opposite oriented antenna.

Plus, a horizontal dipole exhibits the "end effect", whereby you radiate better in the directions the ends are pointing.

The same band openings that occur in the 10 meter band during the winter, also affect the 11 meter band. I can't tell you exactly why this happens, but every year the long distance skip is better starting in late fall, getting worse in the spring. Summer brings sporadic E skip in 11 meters. One thing about RF that is interesting is how the signals change characteristics as you go from MW to UHF.
You notice the picket fencing in your scanner becomes sharper as you go higher up. The "D" region is the part that absorbs MW during the day. The lower limit of propagation is affected by solar X-rays: http://www.sec.noaa.gov/rt_plots/dregion.html

Dan, Dan, Dan ...

Question: Is phasing worse? Are you sure? Carrier suppression wouldn't be nearly as important as unwanted sideband suppression. Check out some of the QST articles over the past few years. The reality may well be that with digital processing, that quadrature phasing may well be held more tightly with DSP than with analog components. The RF quadrature (at least for one frequency, or a small frequency spread) would be easy. It may turn out that we could get better suppression with phasing. Then again, the two methods might just be combined. Folks who think they have a broadcasting license and want to pass 10 KHz audio are simply out on a weekend pass. The Friendly Candy Company will reel them back in, in time. Just a thought :)

I didn't quite get that statement, either.

If there was problems with carrier suppresion in old rigs, it was due to the tubes (and their warm-up time) rather than whether the rig was phasing or filter. Sure, a filter rig places the carrier on the slope of the filter, but a balanced modulator should be able to get rid of enough carrier, given enough care.

Looking at schematics of phasing rigs, most of them had low pass filters in the audio chain. It was there to limit bandwidth, and likely to put less requirements on the audio phase shift network. If the PSN only had to see a limited bandwidth, it did not have to be as broadband.

Except for in recent years, phasing was pretty much dead forty years ago, and definitely by thirty years ago. That was a whole different time ago. Likely harder to get precision components, and few had the test equipment the average ham has now to match components.
So really simple PSN's were used. They used tubes, and likely that made some problems with getting good balance, because of the size of the components.

The phasing rigs of today are more complicated, taking advantage of recent advances, and likely are better than those simple phasing rigs of the fifties.

A couple of miles isn't bad at all. You will get better performance with a bigger antenna. The best is the unloaded 9 foot whip, and you probably won't find any of those with a mag-mount. So to be perfectly honest, the best way to improve a mag-mount antenna is to throw it away.

Doc S.,
Sure! The first thing to do is to properly tune
it. Whatever performance you get after that is all that you can expect from that particular antenna, in

"end effect" has to do with the length of the antenna, and applies to both dipoles and 1/4-wave verticals (and most other antennas as well). Maybe you should look up the term before you use it next time.

Mine works ok, and I built one from scratch that worked a little better. But the brand of antenna doesn't make as much of a difference as does how high you can mount it.

Ya know what Frank I think your right, Jay said 12 million and Dickhead said 30-40 million, because I reminded him that the 30 million people was 10% of the population in the usa that were Cbers.

I should have been more clear. I've heard their durability sucks. They don't last long and fall apart. Their performance is OK-good, not as good as the imax-2000. But then again. I have heard durability issues with those too.

I have used a Wilson 1000 and K40 magnetmount with good results. Both seem to get out pretty well, but I seem to be able to fine tune the Wilson for better SWR. The best thing to do is to mount it on the roof at dead center, to provide a ground plane. If that isn't possible, then mount it dead center on the trunk. If you mount it on an edge, you will have an erratic radiating pattern. On my minivan, I have it dead center on my roof. Does really well.

Try to find something like a Uniden PC-244 or something with SSB.
You can also Use an Antron 99 Base antenna which is simple to put up and take down. Just put it up when needed. But about the 415, A final is simple to replace and would be worth the fix for a spare radio for the mobile.

Dipole...
A dipole would not be considered "good" by a cber searching for an antenna other than an Antron, as it is limited in directional capability. Stay away from wire antennas and go with a good ground plane....Jay makes a beefed up version of the Maco 5/8 that gets good hype here and so far, no complaints from known users (that I'm aware of) or buyers.

In 9 minutes I passed the CB Plus test with >90%.
Too bad all the hams around here are self-centered, egotistical folks that eat, breathe and sleep the stuff. They take over the CB with their hamtalk. I've heard them on 2 meters and 440. Later, when the noise dies, I find them on the legal 40. They used to talk above 40. They must have gotten letters from the candy company. One night I asked why he wasn't on the repeater. <G> No comment from the ham. I also heard him take 15 minutes between ID's on the ham repeater. Am I asking too much for these guys to leave their ham ticket at the door to CB and talk ham stuff on the ham bands? Other CB only folks in the area feel the same way. They don't want to have ham talk forced upon them on CB. On the scanner, I can turn them off...

On that topic, why do the hams ignore the CBers on their own turf? The above mentioned hams IGNORED a CBer that knew them. Called 'em by name. The same CBer is ignored by the hams on another CB channel. These guys should take their rose-scented sh!t and scram! We don't need them. They are not good elmers. I hope a local passes this on the offending amateurs for their perusal. Some avoid me because I tell it like it is. Hard to imagine the local Ham Of The Year runs and hides when I, a lowly CBer, takes to the airwaves. I think I'll make them all leave the channel on Friday by keying up instead of sandbagging. All the hams are north of me, the CBer to the south. I'll just point my mobile south and call for some CBers...
The hams will most likely go up a few channels. That's fine, all the other hams that come looking for them won't find them.

No jamming involved unlike these guys:

I wouldn't use a BS antenna like that on 11 meters anyway.

So if my horizontal BS dipole were oriented north and south, which directions would be favored?

BTW, I learned "end effect" from you. You didn't teach it right in the first place. No one should expect to be an expert in all things. We are all still learning, all the time, until we're dead.

If it's a half-wave dipole your radiation and reception pattern will be as "George" stated before -- a figure 8 with lobes perpendicular to the dipole (East and West in your example).

>BTW, I learned "end effect" from you.

I don't think so, Scott....

> You didn't teach it right >in the first place.

I have mentioned 'end effect' only once before, only noting that it was an electromagnetic loading of the medium surrounding an antenna. I don't know where you got the idea that the end effect makes an antenna "radiate better in the directions the ends are pointing", but it sure didn't come from me.

> No one should expect to be an expert in all >things. We are all still learning, all the time, until we're dead.

Mine has held up to a few hard winters just fine, but then I take all my sticks down every spring for basic maintenance, too. Now if you live down there in Twistyland your antenna will probably get nuked by lightning before it falls apart from age. I guess it all depends on how well it's mounted and maintained.

Thats funny, you call it a BS antenna, but don't know what direction the main lobes are. Ever made or used one? There are plenty of CB antennas out there that are nothing more than a dipole, are they BS antennas also?

I have sideband. That would make 139.

How many channels does an older 2950 have? (26-32 MHz)
My MURS radio does almost everything from 150 to 160 MHz.

I got a better SWR. Maybe I cooked the K40. But one thing is for sure. While the SWR is much better, I don't see much of a change in getting out. I seem to be getting out the same as the K40. Granted, both were in the exact same spot on the van. For some reason K40 whip was maxxed out. I could not raise it any further. The Wilson whip was 4 inches longer, and that seemed to do the trick.

Doesn't anyone wind their own transformers anymore? It ain't rocket science.
Just go down to your friendly neighborhood metal shop and sweep up the trimmings from underneath the stomp-shear, buy a can of varnish or polyurethane, tear down the alternator and starter from that rusty old Dodge (don't forget to save the bolts), grab a 6-pack and switch on the game. Hell, that's half the fun of building this stuff! Lately it's like the hobby of electronics has adopted the concept of plug-n-play. Guess what -- you can build your own capacitors, too.
All it takes is some aluminum foil and wax paper. Need a really big variable cap? Scrounge through the garage for some copper flashing and a pile of washers.
Want a really solid and durable base antenna? All you need is some copper water pipe, a few fence pipes for the mast, and a couple PVC fittings to put it all together. Geez, why....

Ok, I'm done ranting.

I replaced our 14 year old Starduster with the A-99 in 1990. It's never been touched since I put it up there, SWR is still 1.1:1, and it gets out great with legal power. I can't complain... it seems it will hold together longer than the Starduster did. My real mistake was trashing the Starduster, I should have kept it and made the repairs. I thought I could just walk in to any CB shop and get a new one whenever I wanted...

No need to waste good grief over these so-called keyclowns, Bri... they all brag about breakin' the law, but IRL they're all a bunch of law-abiding goody-goods. They're just PO'd at me because I was crazy enough to do a bunch of illegal stuff and never get caught. Hell,

All the so-called illegal ops are nothing but a bunch of windbags. They brag about running high power, etc. etc., but all of them are in reality such law-abiding sweeties, they've probably never gotten so much as a parking ticket. It stands to reason that if they were really doing all this stuff, I'd be picking up some of it on 11m.

So the antikeyclowns---who at least are honest about where they're coming from---may have a pretty good point after all. The "keyclowns" are not guilty of communications violations, they're guilty of bragging about stuff they've never had the balls to do.

Not that I agree totally with the antis. Hell, I did all kinds of illegal crap in my time and never got busted for it---cooking up nitro, blowing stuff up, assorted B&E, making illegal guns and booze, bugging, forging gov't documents---and that was before I turned 18. Such blasphemies!!!

Antis who read this (and you know who you are) can rest assured, you have nothing to worry about from the windbag-keyclowns. They're not really breaking any of our oh-so-precious laws which our Most Holy Gov't has given us from Heaven, they're just breaking the limits of credibility.

Why would a ham freeband?

1. Its called CW(Morse Code). This is the number one reason why you have hams freebanding on 11 meters.

2. Country restrictions. As a ham, I can only contact countries we have third party agreements. You can make contact to many countries on freeband that you cant on amateur bands.

3. The over all attitude of people. Freeband is alot less formal that amateur bands.

4. CBers and Freebanders use their bands. Funny, no matter what time day or night I could always make a contact on 11 meters. Someone was always out there. unlike 10 meters that could be dead for months at a time.

People are using ham gear on freeband?

Yes. 60% of the people out there were using modified ham radios if they are running SSB.

Is it better not to have a license at all?

If freebanding is important to you, then it is better not to have a license at all. Having a license is what keeps me out of freeband. When you have a license, it is easy to track you down. Especially if you operate from a base station.

Are most freebanders hams?

Just by shear numbers, no. That does not mean that hams are not partly responsible for the existence of freebanding. I know a lot of hams that will clip a radio to talk out of band as soon as they get it.

Let us not forget that when it comes down to it, it's the individual that makes the choice to be right or wrong. A license does not change that. Amplifiers prove that. If a person was running 10000 watts on the superbowl, give that person a general class license, and he will be doing the same thing on ham bands.

"Keyclown" is not a word. It is to be found nowhere except propagated by those who suffer communication deficits. Faced with limited vocabularies and the diffculty of expressing or communicating their feelings appropriately, these mildly retarded lids need "invent" or "make up" words. The rest of us who are not challenged in such areas of communication make do with the language afforded us. We need not result to making up or inventing new terms, as others comprehend us just fine. Only those affected with such communication deficits feel the need for inventing such things.

>Not that I agree totally with the antis. Hell, I did all kinds of illegal crap in my time and never got busted for it---cooking up nitro, blowing stuff up, assorted B&E, making illegal guns and booze, bugging, forging gov't documents---and that was before I turned 18. Such blasphemies!!!
Antis who read this (and you know who you are) can rest assured, you have nothing to worry about from the windbag-keyclowns. They're not really breaking any of our oh-so-precious laws which our Most Holy Gov't has given us from Heaven, they're just breaking the limits of credibility.<

Hiyee,
I have a Eurocomm 40 MPT 1320 old CB transceiver without an antenna...I plugged it into a 13.8V 4A supply and it lighted up and had buzz...but no matter how I turn the channel controls, there would be no display on the LED screen...Is that because I never connect the Antenna or something else?? Please advice. Thanks in advance. By the way...this CB is designed for use in a car...

BINGO!
http://www.qrz.com/p/testing.pl

In 9 minutes I passed the CB Plus test with >90%. Too bad all the hams around here are self-centered, egotistical folks that eat, breathe and sleep the stuff. They take over the CB with their hamtalk. I've heard them on 2 meters and 440. Later, when the noise dies, I find them on the legal 40. They used to talk above 40. They must have gotten letters from the candy company. One night I asked why he wasn't on the repeater. <G> No comment from the ham. I also heard him take 15 minutes between ID's on the ham repeater. Am I asking too much for these guys to leave their ham ticket at the door to CB and talk ham stuff on the ham bands?

I don't even care if they don't do that. I have had no problems with hammies anywhere until stumbling upon this group, and as we all know, is confined to a few malcontent no-codes and an errant upperclassmen or two. I really was surprised to find these guys actually *hunting" down freebanders,,not to turn in, not to elmer, but to harass..lol. Can always tell when I'm getting out over the weekend as some of the fans go rabid in here, showering me with attention and devotion. <g>

Other CB only folks in the area feel the same way. They don't want to have ham talk forced upon them on CB. On the scanner, I can turn them off...
On that topic, why do the hams ignore the CBers on their own turf? The above mentioned hams IGNORED a CBer that knew them. Called 'em by name.
The same CBer is ignored by the hams on another CB channel. These guys should take their rose-scented sh!t and scram! We don't need them. They are not good elmers. I hope a local passes this on the offending amateurs for their perusal. Some avoid me because I tell it like it is.

Hehe...which is why they are angry and come here for a lesson in life.....

Hard to imagine the local Ham Of The Year runs and hides when I, a lowly CBer, takes to the airwaves. I think I'll make them all leave the channel on Friday by keying up instead of sandbagging. All the hams are north of me, the CBer to the south. I'll just point my mobile south and call for some CBers... The hams will most likely go up a few channels. That's fine, all the other hams that come looking for them won't find them.
No jamming involved unlike these guys:
http://jamvention.4t.com/

--
Pretty bad when an angry hammie nocode takes to jamming the freeband,,.....and can't manage quite that.

Try not to change the subject. Just who do YOU (a nocode) expect to

You obviously don't know the ham regulations very well. Third party agreements have to do with passing messages on behalf of a third party, it has nothing to do with the countries you can contact. You can contact any ham in any other country unless that country has been put on a banned list by the FCC for some reason. As of now I know of no country that is on such a list.

Hams use 10 meters when it is open, when it isn't they move down to the other bands. When 10 is dead it is only good for local contacts, hams have other bands for local contacts (VHF-UFH).

> Just by shear numbers, no. That does not mean that hams are not partly

And if they get caught, as some do, they deserve whatever they get. With all the bands allocated to amateur, it is very stupid for a ham to operate illegally outside those bands. What is the purpose?

First, maybe you better quit whining about everyone else's spelling because you just spelled my name wrong. Second, if by 'nocode' you mean that I hold any type of amateur license then once again you are tripping over your paranoia. Now if you don't want me to change the subject then at least focus on a subject that's relevant.

Ok, let's talk about your desperation for any kind of validation to support your delusions; a) my spelling, and b) your delusion that I'm someone else. For my first example, you will see in my previous paragraph above that I used the word 'relevant' which I have probably mispelled dozens of times over the past couple years in this newsgroup simply because I have rarely needed to use it until recently -- when I started responding to your trolling -- your warped interpretation of relevance is not only disturbing, but is also the keystone of your paradoxical rants. So start with that word and go play on Google. I'm sure you will find a multitude of examples where my spelling hasn't been very meticulous. Here's one to get you started:

http://groups.google.com/groups?q=relavent+twisty+OR+twistedhed+group:rec.radio.cb+author:sparky&hl=en&lr=&ie=UTF-8&safe=off&scoring=d&selm=3ac531c4.1184237%40news.cet.com&rnum=6&filter=0

On the flip side, it's obvious in just about every other post that you STILL haven't learned what a prepositional phrase is, and where it is NOT used in a sentence. In fact, I'm confident that the proof of this will be in, or missing from, your reply to this post. So hit those books and prove me wrong, Twisty!

Hi.

You should at least get a channel display, a light in the meter (if fitted) and (if the squelch is turned down and mic is plugged in) a background hissing noise... without an antenna connected.
However, be careful not to transmit without an antenna or Dummy Load connected or you could cause damage.

First of all, make sure that you connect the red and black the correct way.
If this has been wired wrong at some point, then the CB could be damaged.
Also be sure that there is a fuse in the supply wire - it should be 2Amp or 3Amp maximum.
Whenever connecting a CB to the supply (whether a psu or in a car), always make sure that the CB is switched off on the front panel. That way, incorrect wiring will pop the fuse, but the main radio components will not be damaged.

If the set has a "PA/CB" switch, make sure that this is set to the "CB" position.

When you say about a buzz, how loud is the buzz? There should be a hissing noise, but no buzz. Check the power supply.
If the bulb behind the meter is very bright, then the supply could be faulty, putting out around 28 to 30 volts into the CB. This could damage the CB.

Regards,

Peter.

Bah! With the code requirement only 5 wpm, passing the code test is trivial. Some Hams freeband because they like the lack of rules there and don't care if it is illegal. In other words, some Hams are like some CBers.

The code requirement was the reason why many CBers did not become Hams. It is also the reason why many Hams did not get higher classes of licenses.

Wrong. You can only transmit third party messages to countries with which we have agreements. Why do you think they call it a "third pary agreement"? If the country has an Amateur Radio Service - then you can communicate with Hams in that country.

> 3. The over all attitude of people. Freeband is alot less formal that

There are no rules on the freebands - it is a free-for-all. Most Amateur communications are as informal as legal CB communications.

Why use 10 meters when there is another band that is better for the longer range communications? And for local communications, there are the 2 meter, 6 meter etc bands with repeaters. These give far more reliable local coverage than CB.

Possibly. Many CBers running on the legal frequencies use modified Ham gear. Many others use the illegal "export" rigs.

Having a license or not makes no difference. Once the FCC has the address, then it is trivial to find out who lives there.

Here, I agree completely.

Hiyee,
Fixed the problem easily...the problem being the supply was not high power enough...stupid me...I managed to get it to work surprise surprise without an antenna...but like you said it could damage it...I wired a 50ohm fuse together with a wire to act as an antenna...not so good...but will do till I get a decent antenna...any ideas how to make or build a cheapo one??
I need something small...like portable...I plan to do a school project whereby the radio is to be portable...with 12V Bike batteries (motorcycle)
.... any good ideas?? Thanks in advance...BTW...I realised the first few replies are non-sense or something...

does anyone know what the clarifier mods for a pc122xl are? I have the following from the internet. My problem is that it does not say whether the radio is upside down or right side up when it states bottom pin and top pin. The radio must be upside down when working on it, therefore leading to my confusion. Can anyone offer any advice?

larifier modification:TRC-453 and Uniden PC122
1)Find the backside of the clarifier knob.
2)Solder the bottom pin to GROUND.
3)Solder a wire to the top pin of the PCB. This pin should be cut loose from any traces going to it!
4)Solder that wire to an 8VDC source.This can be found on the second jumper behind the PLL chip(IC-2).
5)Cut D-25.

Rich, I got a different version:

http://www.radiomods.co.nz/uniden122144pro810ecobra.html

1) Disconnect the clarifiers terminal from the RX only supply and connect it to a constant supply that is found at pin 3 of IC4 (the main 8V regulator, usually marked as HA17808 or similar).

2) Replace D24 with a jumper wire (this will increase the control voltage).

3) Remove D25 and R119 (6.8K) to disable RX only voltages.

Hello Andy:

There is reverse polarity Diode in the radio that has shorted internally as a result of the cross polarity hook up. This is most likely causing the in line fuse to blow.

Look for Diode that is wired across the power input in the radio. Part number 1N4001 or 1N4002 or 1N4003 will work, Radio Shack should have them.

Good luck.

Defpom is pretty good. I would rely on that. No reason to go to a shop, if they are probablyy using the same info as we are.

Andy, as the others said, my rev polarity diode is huge, and right on the other side of the chassis from where the wires come in. Should be a simple fix. Makes sure you mark which side the band is on.

Let me suggest one or two possibilities. Most radios have diodes reversed biased in the power lines that act as an additional "fuse" just in case the power leads are hooked up backwards. These diodes are designed to burn out on a reverse current, thus protecting more expensive transistors and ic's in the radio. My guess is that you burned out one of these diode "fuses". Of course the bad news is that if Grant does not build radios with this safety feature, your more than likely damaged something serious, perhaps beyond reasonable finical repair.

Good Luck

You'd first have to get issued a callsign.. You can't request a vanity without a current callsign..

Of course, once you got your ticket (let about a month pass before you apply for a vanity), you can apply for it.

I will say this... I don't think the FCC is going to issue it...

Just like they won't issue the call K9SEX (think about it.)

You blew the protect diode. I THINK (going from memory here) it's D81.
Someone will correct me if I'm wrong, I'm sure. Get it replaced.

Hopefully, it didn't touch the finals.. of course, that's why that diode is there in the first place.

That would be considered a "vanity call" to acquire it by paying, if it would be available. Unless something has changed, as I'm not tracking call signs as much as I once did, some calls with vulgar appearing letters, may not be available. At least at one time it didn't appear to be that way.

With some of the shenanigans going on out there, get in with the right bunch of buds and hell, you could pay extra and BE an Extra. Though I don't advise going that route! All it takes is a little effort. Not as bad as say giving up smoking. Besides if ya cheat, you can't feel proud of your accomplishment. Not to mention all the crap it could/would create.

Just my 2 cents.....

The diode you speak of is not used as a fuse(fuses "open")... however it is an attempt at a protection device. It attempts to protect by shorting the positive and negative power terminals. This does work in most cases and results in a diode that is pemanantly "shorted" and has to be replaced. Let me also say that I have seen several units where the diode shorted, then burned open, thus releasing the wrong polarity into the radio and damaging about every IC inside. Needless to say, those radios went into the circular file. Let's hope this was not the case for this gentleman...

Yeah, look who is a dumb fuck. Our whole excuse for going in there, was to get Saddam and his pile of WOMD. Well, we haven't found any. So what happens next? We decimate this country into anarchy, all while young American kids are dying, all for a lie. To add insult to injury, we now have this major problem with these nutty Shiites. Who are trying to be like another Iran. You remember Iran, don't you? I guess Bush-wacker totally miscalulated that one.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1341 April 25, 2003

(Note: This is the first ever Amateur Radio Newsline report anchored from outside of the United States. It was recorded in Auckland, New Zealand by Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF)

The following is a Closed Circuit. Newscast 1341 follows immediately. Here is Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund administrator Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

--

Amateur Radio Newsline is still on the air. It's still on the air because staff members paid the bills out-of-pocket. This obviously, cannot continue. These people are not Bill Gates, Warren Buffet, or even Michael Jackson. These are your everyday working people who believe so strongly in the mission of Newsline, that they will support it with hard-earned dollars.

We at Newsline need for you, our listening audience, to believe in that mission, too. To believe enough to help keep these newscasts on the air. To show your thanks to the volunteers that keep the latest in Amateur Radio news coming your way.

The address for the Newsline support fund is: Newsline, PO Box 660937, Arcadia, CA 91066.

Again, as always, thank you for your belief, and for your support.

--

Thank you Andy.

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1341 with a release date of Friday, April 25 2003 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Bad news for United States hams who like high fidelity single sideband, good news for New Zealand hams worried about restrictive R F exposure laws and the Dayton Hamvention says that it plans to stay where it is. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1341 coming your way right now.

A CLASH OF IDEALS: BE CAREFUL IF YOU RUN WI-FI

A sour note for hams running what some call high fidelity single sideband. It comes in a regulatory advisory letter from the FCC. Amateur Radio Newsline's Paul Courson, WA3VJB, reports from Washington D.C.

The letter from FCC enforcement counsel Riley Hollingsworth went out to a list of licensed hams who favor what some call enhanced SSB, which is sometimes nicknamed upper wideband and lower wideband, characterized by extended low end response, a clean mid-range, and expanded treble or high-end crispness.

While their passion is to experiment toward exceptional audio quality with their voice transmission and reception, the experiments have been a flop with some other hams near their frequencies of operation.

Hollingworth said the Commission has received a number of complaints, and that his advisory letter is intended to inform them that the complaints claim the bandwidth of these stations is wider than necessary and contrary to good engineering practice.

The FCC letter did not cite these stations for any violations, and acknowledged that a precise measurement can be somewhat complex. But he encouraged each operator to be aware that it can be "extremely inconsiderate of other operators" to employ what Hollingsworth described as wide-band overly processed audio, especially when, in his words, such audio is combined with high intermodulation distortion generated by certain amplifiers.

Two of the hams who received the letter quickly responded to Hollingsworth. John Anning, NU9N, told the FCC that single sideband does not have to sound like a tin-can anymore, and cited the enhanced audio available from the latest manufactured transceivers from Kenwood and Yaesu, as well as the popularity of external audio augmentation marketed to the amateur community from Heilsound and W2IHY. Anning said his station does not splatter, has low distortion, and is not overly processed. He suggested the problem of splatter and excessive bandwidth from distortion products is far more common on the phone bands during any contest weekend.

The other hi-fi ham sharing his response to the FCC advisory letter is Paul Christensen, W9AC. He told Newsline he is puzzled by the letter since he's been off the air the past six months. Christensen said the letter may have been prompted by a group he characterized as "a half dozen tightly-knit, pandering individuals."

Both men who spoke with Newsline compared the experiments with wideband SSB to the activity of AM, which itself has enjoyed rising popularity and has been getting favorable press in QST, Electric Radio, and Popular Communications. By contrast Hollingsworth has reportedly expressed his belief single side band was developed as a mode with spacesaving advantages, with necessary tradeoffs in audio quality as a presumption with its use in the amateur service.

Again, the advisory letter carries no enforcement sanctions. But Hollingsworth told the stations such complaints can trigger petitions for rulemaking asking for constraints on such activity that the recipients of the letters had better keep in mind.

Reporting for Newsline, this is Paul Courson, WA3VJB, in Washington

In preparing his report WA3VJB did contact the FCC’s Riley Hollingsworth. Hollingsworth told Courson that he honestly does not think these letters have any bearing on those hams who operate AM stations altho he admits thart he is getting that question. But he says that in his view, there is no need whatsoever for A-M'ers to be concerned. (ARNewsline™, WA3VJB)

RADIO LAW: RF EXPOSURE LIMITS DOWN-UNDER

Some good news for hams down-under. This as the Palmerston North City Council favors Amateur Radio on a proposed plan to change local Radio Frequency exposure limits.

According to Mike Newman, ZL1BNB, the Palmerston North council has declined to accept the recommendation of the New Zealand Department of Health to adopt its testing and reporting proceedures. The Council instead adopted the less stringent emission exposure levels set out in an earlier New Zealand standard as being the maximum levels which can be generated by transmitting equipment within the Palmerston North City boundaries.

In taking this action the Palmerston North city council declined to support the government recommended approach which would have required local radio amateurs to carry out the expensive R F exposure evaluation process. Numerous amateur operators and representatives of the nations national Amateur Radio Society -- the N-Z-A-R-T -- testified in support of the measure that was adopted. (NZART)

RADIO LAW: CANADA NEW TOWER LAW REVIEW COMMITTEE

Back in North America, Canada’s Minister of Industry, Alan Rock, has announced the appointment of a National Antenna Tower Review Committee. The Committee will be made up of municipal officials, as well as industry, health and academic experts.

The new committee will be chaired by David A. Townsend. Townsend is a Professor of Law at the University of New Brunswick and has authored a previous study on antenna support structures.

And while the announcement outlines the composition of the new Canadian tower committee it does not give the target dates for the submission of inputs or the method by which information can be provided. Radio Amateurs of Canada, that nations national Amateur Radio society says it plans to participate in any policy review affecting Canadian ham radio operations. (RAC)

ENFORCEMENT: RADIO STATION DINGED FOR $9000

A $9,000 fine against WRKQ - AM in Madisonville, Tennessee, has been affirmed by the Federal Communications Commission. The regulatory agency says that WRKQ allegedly failed at least once to identify itself by call sign. Also that it operated at night with daytime power and failed to adequately attenuate its second harmonic.

The harmonic is a rather interesting issue here. WRKQ operates on 1250 kHz. The FCC says that it's second harmonic falls squarely on WWV's authorized frequency of 2.5 MHz. The FCC says that it measured WRKQ's second harmonic down at only -55 dB per centimeter whereas -70 dB is required by the rules.

You can read more on the web at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs_public/attachmatch/DA-03-1033A1.doc (CGC)

ENFORCEMENT: YOU CANT SAY THAT ON THE AIR - IN ANY LANGUAGE

The FCC is looking into what a California ham may have said on the air. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, explains:

Duckworth: "Julio Cedeno, N2GRM, of Hollywood California has 20 days to respond to an inquiry concerning both Spanish and English communications from his station operation on 14.322 MHz on March 5th and March 9th of this year. The transmissions contained threats to another amateur as well as language prohibited by the Commissions rules."

--

In its letter the FCC noted directed that N2GRM specifically address the threats in the transmissions as well as the language. The regulatory agency says that threats made against other licensees are viewed very seriously by the Commission. It also told N2GRM that his response will used to determine what enforcement action the FCC may take in this matter.

ENFORCEMENT: YOU CANT SAY THAT ON THE AIR

An Eastlake Ohio ham has also heard from the FCC. On March 18th the regulatory agency issued Dave K. Childers, N8QGI, a warning letter regarding transmissions purportedly made by him last December on 27.115 MHz.

For those of you not aware, 27.115 MHz is also known as Class D Citizens Band channel 13 in regions governed by the FCC. In its note, the government agency did explain its position -- upheld by the courts -- regarding its ban on the type of language Childers is alleged to have used.

The agency also ordered Childers to respond within 20 days from the date of its letter to him. The FCC also told him that his response will be used to determine what enforcement action to take in this matter.

HAMVENTION 2003®: WE PLAN TO STAY AT THE HARA

The Dayton Hamvention hopes to stay at the HARA Arena well past 2003. So says the event's General Chairman, Pat Neff, N8IGS. He tells RAIN's Hap Holly, KC9RP that the rumors of a move are simply not true:

Neff: "I can't tell you where the rumor is being propagated from but I can tell you that we are in negotiations for future years at HARA Arena and the only difference is that we are really not looking to have a long multi-year contract anymore. We want to be able to have a shorter length contract so that it could be better advantageous to us from a bottom-line aspect."

--

Rumors of a move away from the HARA Arena or that the HARA had been sold seem to pop up every year. Newsline even heard one being circulated at the recent N-A-B show in Las Vegas. And like all before it over the years, this rumor was as phony as the rest.

But the real bottom line is what Pat Neff says -- and we quote: "As much as the city of Dayton is associated with the Hamvention, HARA is associated with Hamvention." And to paraphrase another very famous ham -- thats the way it is! (RAIN)

HAMVENTION 2003®: DAYTON REMEMBERS THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED ON

Still with Hamvention related news, last week its planners announced the major award winners for 2003. And from time to time the Hamvention also recognizes the contributions of hams who have passed on but left their mark. Roy Neal, K6DUE, reports:

Dating back to the days when we hams talked in Morse code and used keys instead of microphones to talk, we hams call our friends who have passed on as Silent Keys'. The term is one of endearment and respect for those radio amateurs who have lead the way. And in keeping with this long tradition, the planners of the 2003 Dayton Hamvention have paused to salute a number of special people whose lives have helped to make ham radio a little bit better.

The first being saluted by Dayton is Joseph Carr, K4IPV, of Falls Church, VA. Carr became a Silent Key on November 25, 2000. During his lifetime K4IPV authored over 85 books and nearly 700 articles covering electronics and technology. He also contributed monthly columns and articles to many popular Amateur Radio magazines.

Al Gross, W8PAL, of Sun City, Arizona became a Silent Key on December 21st, 2000. For those not aware, Gross brought the world such indispensable wireless communications devices as the walkie-talkie, the pager and cordless telephone.

A name that many Amateur Radio Newsline listeners will remember is that of Bill Orr, W6SAI. Bill became left us on January 24, 2001. He was best know for his voluminous publications for radio amateurs, including "The Radio Handbook", "The Beam Antenna Handbook" and many more. He was a good friend to me and to many other hams.

Raymond Ortgiesen, WF1B, was another major contributor to today’s ham radio way of life. He authored “RTTY,” the leading contest software for digital modes.

Ernie Hudson, KI8O, of Dayton, OH became a Silent Key on 8/2/2002. Hudson was a member of the Dayton Red Cross and acted as the Montgomery County Emergency Coordinator and Assistant Coordinator for a number of years. Hudson’s passion was helping people. His efforts focused on public service and disaster relief while also introducing many young people in Amateur Radio.

Finally there are the Columbia Astronauts who perished earlier this year. Three of them were hams. David Brown, KC5ZTC, Kalpana "KC" Chawla, KD5ESI and Laurel Clark, KC5ZSU, who died along with crew-mates Rick Husband, Willie McCool, Michael Anderson and Han Ramon when Columbis disintegrated over Texas during re-entry.

The Dayton Amateur Radio Association says that through the Space Amateur Radio Experiment and the Amateur Radio on the International Space Station programs, ham radio has enjoyed a special relationship with the Astronaut Corps. It is for their dedication, their role in scientific advancement, and their love of their dreams that the Dayton Amateur Radio Association and the Hamvention have made this very special award this award to the crew of the space ship Columbia on its STS-107 last mission.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Roy Neal, K6DUE, reporting

The announcement of these special remembrances is on the events website at www.hamvention.org (Hamvention 2003®)

HAM HAPPENINGS: T-HUNT TIME

And speaking about things that happen in the spring, its T-Hunt time again. Here’s Joe Moell, K0OV, with the latest:

--

Are you looking for some new outdoor ham fun for the spring and summer months? Join your fellow hams who are tuning up their radio direction finding (RDF) equipment in preparation for the hidden transmitter hunting season.

The CQ Magazine National Foxhunting Weekend will be May 10-11, a time when foxhunters from around the country go on their favorite kind of RDF adventure. It could be a mobile T-hunt. When you set out in your RDF-equipped vehicle, you never know where you'll end up and you don't know what you'll find.

Other hams prefer their foxhunting to be all on foot in a big park. They call it foxtailing, radio-orienteering or ARDF. There's an internationally recognized set of rules for this kind of hunt, which takes place in about 30 countries around the world. Stateside hams will host competitors from some of these countries at the Third USA ARDF Championships in Cincinnati, Ohio beginning July 31.

Of course your club can make up its own transmitter hunting rules. The important thing is to make plans now for transmitter hunting on May 10 and 11, the National Foxhunting Weekend. There are more foxhunting opportunities coming up, and I'll be telling you about them in another report soon. You can read about foxhunting and the National Foxhunting Weekend at my Web site: www.homingin.com. That's one word "homingin" --- homingin.com.

From southern California, where there's some kind of transmitter hunt almost every weekend, this is Joe Moell, Kay-zero-Oscar-Victor, for Amateur Radio Newsline.

Again Joe’s website is www.homingin.com. And homingin is one word. (ARN ewsline™, K0OV)

HAMS HELPING HAMS: DISTANCE LEARNING - AMATEUR RADIO STYLE

The Nacogdoches Amateur Radio Club, in Nacogdoches Texas recently solved a big problem using what it calls typical ham radio ingenuity. This, when John

Fullingim, the person who was supposed to talk at their meeting could not get a ride out from Dallas about 180 miles away

Fullingim¹s program was a Power Point Presentation consisting of a series of slides accompanied by live commentary. Rather than cancel the April 2nd meeting, Fullingham e-mailed the Power Point to Army Curtis, AE5P, in Nacogdoches. Curtis loaded it onto his laptop computer for showing at the meeting.

Next, a communications link was then established between Nacogdoches and Dallas using both the Internet and Amateur Radio courtesy of Jeff Clark, K5NAC and Kevin Anderson, KD5CCH. And on the meeting night Curtis ran the slide show in Nacogdoches as Fullingim in Dallas provided commentary using the specially installed system.

The two way link also allowed questions to be asked from the live audience. This remote program lasted almost 90 minutes, and was very well received by everyone present at the meeting. (KD5ING)

NEW HAM TECHNOLOGY: RIMIGATE VER 0.2 NOW AVAILABLE

Sean Jewett, KG4NRC, of Antioch, Tennessee has announced the availability of version 0.2 of his RIMiGate application program. This is a freely available Linux based APRS I Gate server.

Version 0.2 is quite a bit different from the earlier release. Users no longer need to have a Linux system to build RIMiGate. RIMiGate is now distributed as a disk image that can be written to disk using freely available tools for Linux, Windows, and Macintosh. In addition, the configuration files now reside on an M-S DOS based file system so users can easily edit configuration files.

The minimum requirements for RIMiGate is a 486 system with a minimum of 12 megs of ram. You can download the program from the http://www.rimboy.com/rimdistro/rimigate/ (KG4NRC)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AN AO-40 UPDATE

The AMSAT Oscar 40 satellite is continuing to drift downward as was predicted by its controllers. Unfortunately, this makes for bad satellite conditions that are less than favorable for passband use.

Also, the solar angle is worsening and will soon exceed 45 degrees. This will limit satellites available power while warming the spacecraft considerably as the sun swings across it.

Because of these factors, AO-40’s passband transmitters were be turned off on Saturday, April 19th. They will remain off for about 4 weeks or until conditions improve. (ANS)

INTERNATIONAL -GERMANY: DEUTSCHE WELLE GOES DIGITAL

Germany's international broadcaster, Deutsche Welle, has announced that as of June it will transmit digitally on shortwave to Europe and the Middle East using the Radio Mondiale broadcast system. This makes Deutsche Welle the first international broadcaster to commit to a start date for regular D-R-M transmissions on the shortwave bands. (ASWLC)

OUR HERITAGE: INTERNATIONAL MARCONI DAY

Saturday, the 26th of April, was 'International Marconi Day'. International Marconi Day is a 24-hour on-the-air event held annually to celebrate the birth of Guglielmo Marconi in 1874. Its also an opportunity for amateurs around the world to make contacts with historic Marconi sites to gain an award for working a specific number of participating stations.

At least 35 special event stations were to be on the air for International Marcoini Day 2003. This included the famed W1AA slash MSC Marconi Radio Club representing the Marconi 1901 Siasconset Station on Nantucket Island in the USA. There were also around 15 United Kingdom sites slated to be on such as Poldhu in Cornwall and Alum Bay on the Isle of Wight and Chelmsford in Essex. Other historic stations include VO1IMD from Signal Hill, Newfoundland, and IY4FGM from Marconi's birthplace near Bologna Italy. (MSC ARC, GB2RS)

DX

In DX, the RSGB reports that the International Short Wave League's VHF club callsign, MX1SWL, is being used by Tom Read, M1EYP, through the end of April. Tom will be activating several hilltops, particularly in the Pennines, for the Summits On The Air awards program. (GB2RS)

And F0 slash F8CFU planned to be on from the Tuamotu Archipelago in French Polynesia and Tubuai Island in the Austral Islands through the 16th of May. QSL as directed on the air. (GB2RS)

Also, the former 7Q7DC, has now moved to Nairobi and has been given the call 5Z4DE. Don is the first United States citizen in 12 years to obtain a Kenyan license and will be active as soon as he puts his antennas up. (OPDX)

Lastly, word that 4Z4DX, will be active on 160 to 6 meters CW and digital modes as 9N7DX from Nepal through the 12th of May. Again, Q-S-L as directed by the operator. (OPDX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO ADVENTURE TO THE SOUTH PACIFIC

And finally this week, how about a ham who has decided not to let age stand in the way of her passion to sail and to operate from rare places. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reports on a truly amazing lady:

Susan Meckeley, W7KFI, is 69, loves ham radio and loves to sail. And she recently told the Ohio-Penn DX Newsletter that she is headed to the South Pacific on as three-year DX'pedition odyssey.

Meckeley left Oakland, California, in January and has been slowly working her way south. At that time she spore with OPDX Meckeley was in Mexico and soon to sign W7KFI slash maritime mobile. She has already been to Ensenada, Mexico, for a month, but set sail on April 16th, for San Jose, Punta Cabras.

Heading south, Meckeley told OPDX that she would be operating from the Isle San Martin. She was heard April 17th at 24:41 UTC as XE2/W7KFI on 14.249 MHz from the island. The length of her stay is not known.

Her next stop will be at Bahia de Torguga and from there to Magdelina Bay, Cabo San Lucas, and finally La Paz. Then it is off to the islands in the Sea of Cortez for operating and into Guymas for the hurricane season. Come fall she will go down the mainland coast ending in Costa Rica. In April 2004, Meckeley is off to Galapagos Islands and into the South Pacific.

When she's on the air its with a Yaesu FT-847 and a pair of pop-up masts. She runs all modes except ATV from her 1932 Challanger called the S/V Dharma. She tells OPDX that -- and we quote -- "this size boat I can handle all by myself." And it sounds as if Susan Meckeley, W7KFI, is making her dream come true.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

Yep, I is. Been out of town with deaths in the family. Don't have much to report, other than to Fear God, and keep HIS Commandments, for that is the Duty of Man !

Other than that, the basic CB message hasn't changed, whch is:

(a) Don't buy CB's made in CHINA ! (I wonder IF SARS is affecting Cobra CB production)? GOD has insured that the commies will NOT have a good day!

(b) Don't buy SMT technology CB's (Midland 79-290, Ranger CB's & 10 meter units with SMT (SMall & Trouble in yo future IF you buy one) !

Well, I found a schematic online (http://www.cbtricks.com/uniden/grant-LT/) and am pretty sure I found it, but can't make out the number which one it is, and there's a couple of them on the board next to each other in the right spot. Although I did get the replacment number, 1N4003. I'm pretty sure its not D81 as SSB said, but more like Dx5. Can anybody clarify?

HE is ALREADY from another country, and it ain't TEXAS !

The DIXIE CHICKS are really BIMBOS ! Bush is NOT from TEXAS--he's from Taxachusetts!
The Question IS that we all need to ask ourselves IS: IS Bush or ANY president over the last 75 years acted in the REAL interests of the American people, instead of international or corporate or union interests (industrial army plank of you know what!)? Have they acted Constitutionally (and Declared WAR when alleged "WARS" were started)? Have any of them acted in defence of the Christian religion, or as anti-christs stealing Christian meeting houses, as what happened to the Baptist Temple in Indianapolis? I heard what the DEFINITION of AL Quaida means (pardon my spelling--I am not of Arab descent). The definition of AL QUAIDA means THE WORD OF GOD.
Jesus Christ IS the true WORD OF GOD. So this country is against THE WORD of GOD, whether the TRUE GOD (Jesus) or a false god (Mohamedenism).
Pursuant to Romans 13, The US government should be on our side to promote Christianity, which WAS it's foundation, instead of being against it (humanism). All nations that FORGET GOD will be turned into HELL (dey gone 10-7). Rightousness exalts a nation, but SIN (violations of God's laws) are a reproach to ANY people. On one hand, I support THEIR troops for getting rid of Sodom Who'se Sane. On the other hand, IS there any Constitutional or international law statute that permits a country to go and overthrow nations (by NOT declaring WAR), for whatever imaginary or supposed reasons, to put in new leaders?! Did we do that to do the will of ANOTHER country instead?
! I wonder what GOD thinks about the whole mess and what HE will DO about it!
Dave!!!

I am NOT wrong about SMT CB & 10 meter rigs. I've been a CB technician for 23+ years, and when I SAY and what one of the best RANGER TECHS in the country says about them--we will NOT sell such JUNK any more. IF we can't fix it, especially during this NEW time when ALL the BUGS ain't out of them yet--we will NOT sell them and I advise ANYONE to NOT BUY SMT's CB's, regardless of WHO makes them! I'm just trying to save you from HEADACHES or PROBLEMS you will have with them! Duel sided circuit boards have PROBLEMS ! BIG TIME! When techs better than me have the equipment to fix them, and can't, and have to send them back to the manufacturers for repair, do YOU think that this will make the customer happy ???(centralization of repair shops, elimination of the LITTLE MAN, like what DELCO did with their GM car radio repair, which IS COMMUNISTIC) ! Get a HAIRCUT HIPPY ! Seek the OLD PATHS !

As far as SARS in Toronto--WHAT does TORONTO have? A CHINATOWN area of town. Going back & forth from COMMUNIST CHINA to Soviet Ontario. Get the picture and connection? Judgment of God on Socialism & Communism. Communist China ain't gonna be the producers of all yo radios & JUNK that you buy, cause GOD will throw wrenches at them UNTIL they REPENT and believe The Gospel ! Commercial Babylon is falling!

They may have changed the designation of the diodes between the Grant XL and the Grant LT, or I may have been mistaken on the number to begin with. It's been a LONG time since I've had to replace one.

The easy way to find it is to take a DVOM with a continuity tester, and test each diode on the board near the power inputs. Diodes should conduct in one direction only. When you find one that goes both ways (Shaddup, Dave), that's the one you need to replace.

Hope this helps

Has nothing to do with confidence... has a lot to do with experience. I'm glad you got it working, most people think they have this mod working only to find out they have some unexpected results such as stability problems. You must be "smarter than the average bear"... lol

WRONG ! IF you have a licence, then you get into MORE trouble! I have ALWAYS heard it said that it is better NOT to have a licence if you operate NON-N8 style. Legally this is true too. The definition of a "licence" in the Law dictionary is "permission to do something illegal, unlawful, a trespass or a tort." Since communism has taken over, it is "illegal" to talk on a radio (plank #6)! The earth IS The Lord's, and the fullness thereof. Satan is the prince of the power of the air. Then WHO is the fcc under, since it IS the 6th plank? !

I downloaded the Alignment Procedures at Ranges site.

http://www.rangerusa.com/align2950.html

It explains how to align your 2950 non DX but althought it lists VR21 as TX frequency adjustment point but it makes no mention of it in the procedures.
If doing a complete alignment do I adjust this pot before the PLL synthesizer alignment or before or after the transmitter alignment.

I can talk from NC to Ohio via the Mt. Mitchell repeater, to S. Georgia into Tennesee,
SC, and Virginia----with a 5 watt handheld. I can link into 10 meter repeaters and talk all over the world. What you do with CB may be done one day and can't be done the next. With 2 and 6 Meters, I do the same thing day after day after day after.......ad infinitum. I would take a bet with you on that one; easy money. Simply put, your statement is full of horse pucky!

There is nothing wrong with obeying the laws of the land. (Remember the discussion about "Render unto Ceasar that which is Ceasar's and unto God that which is God's"?) An orderly society is advantageous to ALL (or most) of us. In order to accomplish same, there have to be certain permissions, or guidance, as to achieve best for the greater good. You have the right to organize, to petition, to reason, and justify change. What you suggest is anarchy, and you surely be so dense not to realize same.

Don't you think it is about time to let go of that "6th plank" nonsense? It IS getting dated and extremely shopworn.

What sort of problems ? Obviously, mobile audio/visual components suffer far more abuse from moisture intrusion, vibration, corrosion, and temperature issues than their indoor counterparts. Dont forget there is far more than Delco and Ranger to whine about, Davy.. Dont forget Sony, Pioneer, Visteon, Alpine, Goldstar, and tons of other companies that not only make products that fail regularly, but also have manufacturing located in places you love to hate, like Mexico and Brazil and what not.
The way i see it, you are slacking off and not covering your bases fully. Get you and the missus off of your collective asses and go out there and really do something for America other than bitch about surface mounted components.
If you really have been a tech for 23 years, then i can be sure you own the proper equipment for de-soldering SMT's. Granted this stuff costs thousands, but a vintage tech like you must have this shit just heated and waiting for cake like Ranger crap to flow in.
I've wasted enough ammo.. Dave, you da man. Dont let the real truth sway you from thinking otherwise
!!!

Cool, ok I am learning something here, but allow me to ask a question. First let me say that I am NOT a repair tech, and freely admitt that you know more about this topic than I do. In my limited experience the few diodes that I have changed have failed open in both directions. I am not sure how failing open can cause the wrong voltage polarity to appear on the IC's? Of course it would help if we had a schematic, but is the protection diode perhaps reverse biased to ground? I am not argueing, just stumped on how an open device can cause a reverse polarity?

Close, but not quite.

Because diodes will sometimes fuse open instead of short, the intent is for the FUSE to be replaced, not the diode. When power leads are hooked up backwards, the reverse-polarity protection diode is not intended to 'short', but to operate as the rectifier that it is, conducting one way and not the other. The diode is intended to blow the fuse, and should do so many, many times without needing replacement. But human nature being what it is, whenever something blows a fuse, people just put in a bigger fuse or don't use any fuse at all, which nukes the protection diode. So if the diode is bad, the chances are that something else was damaged by some moron that can't read directions.

BTW, this damage is sometimes obvious (no transmit power, alternator/ignition noise, slow or no squelch, poor audio quality, etc), but many times it isn't, eventually showing up as one or many intermittent problems and/or frequent failures.

BTW2, the word 'fuse' means 'melt', not to "fuse 'open'".

No need to pay for expensive mailing lists that are often out of date. Or to bulk mail companies to send your offer out to, often old mailing lists. Now your success will depend entirely on you. Along with the extract software, you will receive full instructions on how to use it, addresses of more than 2,000 bulletin boards and other places where you can extract email addresses. Plus other information and links to free software downloads that will help ensure your efforts are successful. All this will be included as an addition to Report 1. The software will be included as an attachment with the same REPORT.
> Let's also assume that the mailing receives only a 0.2% response (the response could be much better but let's just say it is only 0.2%. Also many people will send out hundreds of thousands of e-mails instead of only 5,000 each). Continuing with this example, you send out only 5,000 e-mails. With a 0.2% response, that is only 10 orders for Report 1. Those 10 people responded by sending out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 50,000. Out of those 50,000 e-mails only 0.2% responded with orders. That means 100 people responded and ordered Report 2. Those 100 people mail out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 500,000 e-mails. The 0.2% response to that equals 1000 orders for Report 3. Those 1000 people send out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 5 million e-mails sent out. The 0.2% response to that equals 10,000 orders for Report 4. Those 10,000 people send out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 50,000,000 (50 million) e-mails. The 0.2% response to that equals 100,000 orders for Report 5.

> If you do not receive at least 10 orders for Report 1 within 2 weeks, continue sending e-mails until you do. After you have received 10 orders, 2 to 3 weeks after that you should receive 100 orders or more for Report 2. If you did not, continue advertising or sending e-mails until you do.

Hiyee,
I am new to CB...but not new to electronics!!! First of...I believe anything that can handle 50V and 2A and up can work...like a 1n4001-1n4002-1n4003-1n4004...I believe a 1n4148 or any diode that you find lying around will work well in this case as CB radios typically work in the range of 12V and 5A max...maybe more...Referring to the broken meter lamp...maybe it's really broken...like a blown lamp...you might also find a blown series resistor?? Check and see...you can find replacement lamps at this place:
www.rswww.com
Hope that helps...but I think the lamps there are really expensive...scrounge around and you might get one for free...I only buy Chips and resistors and diodes from RS....
Regards,
li_gangyi

P.S. I'm from Singapore. That's why I buy from RS...they provide free shipping here...and there is no Radio-Shack here...dohzzzzz

What a bunch of fuggin boolsheet. The only reason this happened was because he held a legitimate ham radio license. And exactly what transmissions did he make on a LICENSE FREE band? Was he passing secrets to Osama? Was he making burping noises or playing music like one of the other 1 millon plus participants on 27mhz?

Moral of the story kids:

If you don't have a license, you won't get caught..... nuff' said....

Nonsense. I will always support the troops. Just not the person who sent them there.

Fuse?
Do you mean a 50 Ohm resistor?

> together with a wire to act as an antenna...

If it is a resistor, make sure that it is not a wirewound type, as these will be more than their rated 50 Ohms when radio signals are put through them. Also, keep any connecting wires as short as possible. If you get one of the plugs with a larger hole, you may be able to fit a good enough resistor into it.

The idea of such a load is to absorb all the power, without transmitting a signal. Although it should turn all the power into heat, some will get radiated, so people really close may still hear you.

> not so good...but will do

Wire.
A wire dipole is easy enough to make.

A mobile or potable antenna is more difficult to make, as you need to shorten it by using a loading coil.

Unfortunately, there are some on this group who would rather give abuse than be helpful. Don't let the few Trolls put you off, you will find plenty of helpful people both on here and the UK group - uk.rec.radio.cb

If you want to take it to e-mail, remove the spam trap from my e-mail address or you can e-mail me from the mail form on my Web site.

Mere chemicals do not necessitate WMD's.

>And just a thought for all you people that say >you support the LOL.......false patriotism by those who know the least. Buying into that entire concep that "if one doesn't agree with the president, one is somehow unpatriotic" is the most ignorant trie you have ever failed with....but illustrates your myopic mental scope of things.

>Bush is the Commander in chief and is the >fearless leader of our troops.

If he was fearless, he would not have leapt ahead of a years waiting list (daddy had his perks) to valiantly join the guard and defend the coasts of the southeast USA from the Vietcong that presented a danger of invasion.

>Once again...Non-American

Once again, ignorance reigns supreme. The troops have no choice in "where" they go. Bush does. A great man of the once-great republican party once said, "To announce that there must be no criticism of the president...or that we are to stand by the president right or wrong...is not only unpatriotic and servile, but is morally treasonable to the American public."
That man was Theodore Roosevelt. History has judged him to be on of the greatest presidents of all time. Once again, you are in the American minority by allowing yourself to believe, that if your belief is not what you were told it should be, it is somehow "Non-American". How pathetic, yet chillingly profound that the mannerisms and tactics of WASPS are alive and well, functioning right here in rec.radio.cb.

The "cops" ain't after me,,they are after hammies like Lelnad and Geogre,,who WANT to freeband so bad and more than anything else in their dark dank world, but can't anymore....lol. Look at what they have been reduced to in here because of their inability to control their emotive responses caused by their inner anger and hatred of themselves.

I expect that there were people moaning at the quality when PCBs were first used. There are still plenty of people who cannot solder them without burning tracks off.
I hate the boards with tracks on both sides. Through links have been known to fail, as have tracks running round the board under components. It is probably more to do with quality than the technology itself.

While technology is improving, the standards are dropping. I don't know about that side of the pond, but over here there seems to be plenty of products that fail to work within their first year, often even failing to work when first used.
Worse than just failing, certain UK models of washing machines and dryers have been known to catch fire due to poor design or manufacture quality.

Peter.

Your case was rested long ago,,,,that you are only now realizing what the rest of the group was aware of when you lost this last ISP is due your communication deficit....and lousy spelling..lol.

>I see you never took me up on my dare to >contact the ISP(s) you accused me of being >TOSsed from.

LOL..get over yourself, and don't concern yourself with what others believe or think. The thread was about your ignorance concerning Bechtel and Haliburton...that you have the overwhelming mania and compulsion to suddenly make me your choice of topic duly noted.

--
>And BTW, if you are going to criticize spelling,

It's YOUR problem and dilemma that you feel you are being "criticized" when one corrects and teaches you something you are incorrect about.
Such paranoia from a nocode as yourself....haha!

>maybe you should >check your own grammar from time to time.

My grammatical content has nothing to do with your repeated spelling bloopers, although you desperately need it to. Nor does my choice of grammar have anything to do with your projected ignorance concerning Bechtel Corp.

Try not to change the subject. Just who do YOU (a nocode) expect to believe that you are Gilliiland?

>First, maybe you better quit whining about >everyone else's spelling

LOL...there you go again, trying to hide that ignorance that spilled from you....it's not about "everyone elses" spelling,,,lol..just yours.

>because you just spelled my name wrong.

It's not your name, but I'll allow you to play as opposed to mustering the inner stregnth and intellect needed to discuss Bechtel rationally. I don't expect miracles, ya' know.

>Second, if by 'nocode' you mean that I hold >any type of amateur >license then once again you are tripping over >your paranoia.

Mmmph.......the only one demonstrating paranoia of any type is YOU interpreting any type correction to your ignorant posts as "criticizing" you personally. You have never been able to communicate effectively, as you take everything personal, even though you were taught that your identity means nothing to any but pathetic yourself,,you just aren't a care by anyone here, so taking everything personal as you do is nothing but manifestations of your inability to communicate effectively. Your anger over anyone pointing out a remiss in your posts is jolly entertainment, as you continually think you somehow matter in the overall scheme of things...lol...again, get over yourself.,,,and stop trying to change the subject to those that you worship whenever one corrects your ignorance cocnerning world politics.
